CROWDS FLOCK TO FAIR; RECORDS GO

More Than 10,000 at the Exhibition Monday Despite Wretched Weather

Amusements All in Full Swing and Well Patronized—Judging Begun—Interesting Incidents of a Day With the Busy Throng of Sightseers.

(From Tuesday's Daily Telegraph.) The first full day of sightseeing at the exhibition resulted in there being 3,092 more paid admissions than on the corresponding Monday of 1904.

The attendance figures, as compared with the exhibition of 1904, show: 1904. 1906. Saturday. 3,575 10,008

With fine weather for the remainder of the week the attendance should easily be a record one.

All over the buildings, and in the grounds there was a busy and restless scene throughout the day.

On the Pike the merry crowd indulged in all the fun of the fair to their hearts' content and fairs were nowhere in evidence as far as could be learned.

THE AMUSEMENTS

All the Attractions Were Enjoyed Yesterday—What They Offer.

The many and varied kinds of amusements were all open for the first time yesterday and the visitor must have been hard to please who did not find something to his taste.

The Boston Ladies' Orchestra. Among the varied attractions yesterday the playing of the Boston Ladies' Orchestra was the feature of the industrial hall programme.

"Dida." "Dida the Mysterious" is well worth witnessing. Perhaps it is one of the best illusions of the kind ever seen here.

Awards in Some Departments. The Live Stock Show—Dog Show Today. The Poultry.

It is interesting to mention that the Boston orchestra have just completed an eleven weeks engagement at Peak Island (Me.), and at the end of this month will start on a tour, opening in Boston and extending as far west as Utah.

The San Francisco Disaster Pictures. Miles Brown moving pictures of the San Francisco disaster were seen for the first time yesterday.

There are one of the best features of the amusements and are being shown in a large black tent on the Pike. It is hundreds of visitors can be comfortably accommodated.

Hit by a swinging boom, Bedford Moses, of Grand Manan, aged about twenty-one years, was knocked overboard from the sardine packet She Said No, while sailing with a party of ladies off the island about 11 o'clock on Saturday morning last.

Although able to swim, it is said that he sank before assistance could be sent him. His body has not been recovered.

He was the youngest son of John Moses, of Grand Manan, a respected and prosperous fisherman.

All told, there were four people on board. The ladies had come from the United States, and were on the island as tourists.

He was managing the boat alone, and had reached the North Head of Long Island, without mishap.

The accident had been witnessed from the shore and help was soon at hand. Mr. Moses' deplorable death aroused much sympathy in the island.

Hearst's Beliefs. "I believe in independence among public citizens irrespective of party prejudice."

"I do not believe in private ownership of public property, nor in public ownership of private property."

"I believe in the retention by the people of the public franchises."

"I believe in public ownership of public utilities. But the first qualification for public ownership is honesty in office and independence in voting. If you will not take the trouble to elect men honest enough to regulate public service institutions, you may not elect men honest enough and able enough to operate public service institutions."

"I believe that the protective principle is valuable in itself, but has been unreasonably extended and outrageously abused."

"I believe in protection for infant industries."

"I believe in American labor should be protected against the high protectionists, who use the protective tariff to build up monopolies and use those monopolies to increase the cost of living and to control the demand for labor and the rate of wages."

"I believe the tariff should be modified and the free trade qualification for public ownership is honesty in office and independence in voting."

"I believe that the American people with the guidance of the Almighty will solve their problems for their own benefit and for the benefit of all the people of the earth."

The Man Who Spurned Alliance with Hearst.

tion of the party platform as he wants to run on it in 1908.

Although Hearst attended the Bryan meeting in Madison Square Garden and conversed graciously with Bryan it is well known that they are unfriendly.

"The rejection of Hearst's proposals by Bryan is being kinder and that is understood to be the reason why Bryan has cancelled his trip to Australia."

Reign of Terror in Russia. The Sun in special cable gives some interesting details that throw light on the situation in Russia.

"In many Russian districts the police are getting the service because the government protects them only with words, while the anarchists kill them with bullets. Some governors and vice-governors are also frightened and are trying to get removed from posts of danger."

"On the other hand the partisans of revolution are slowly supplanting the servants of the Czar and are ready to cooperate with the insurgents when the tocsin sounds."

"Bomb throwing has become a sport less dangerous to the throwers than base ball. Few are captured and most of them escape. Again on Friday, in the village of Hughesoffka, a wedding was interrupted by an explosion. While dancing was going on three youths entered crying: 'Let us play!' One flung a bomb which shattered the ceiling and windows and grievously wounded the bride, her mother, her brothers, an uncle, two sisters, eleven girls and a baby. The bomb thrower, who was wounded, was arrested, but escaped during the night."

Prisoners Escape Wholesale. "The newspapers daily proclaim the uselessness of the law courts, prisons, exile, jollars and convicts. Many prisoners escape two, three or four times, butchering more victims in the intervals."

"On Saturday, at the Lodz assizes, some prisoners were indicted for the second time for participating in armed attacks. They arose in court, dashed to a window and leaped from the second story. They fell when they alighted, but got up quickly and escaped while the court and counsel looked on open-mouthed."

"At the station at Lipica, on the same day, two Sveaborg mutineers, who were being conveyed by a police train, unexpectedly jumped out while the train was in motion and disappeared for good."

"In the principal street of St. Petersburg on Saturday, a political prisoner, who was being taken to prison, in broad daylight sprang from a carriage and vanished. A student escaped from the Khanovnikoff prison in Moscow on Saturday. Pagettes from the Samarra prison are so numerous that the minister of justice has delegated an official to inquire into the matter."

Hearst a Candidate for President. The Herald today prints a story of which the following is the gist: "You may say to Mr. Hearst that there is not an office big enough in the United States nor is there money enough in the world to induce me to make an alliance with him."

"This reply was made last spring by
