

Dundee up to Apl., 1880, and in Jan., 1881, unsuccessfully contested the city of Edinburgh against Mr. McLaren, the Lord Advocate. An advanced Lib. up to this time, he subsequently (1895) ran for Dundee in the Con. interest, and was defeated. He was apptd. Agt.-Genl. for Can. in London by the Mackenzie Admn., Feb. 17, 1874, resigning, Jan., 1876. He is now engaged in journalistic work in London. He is the author of "Ginx's Baby," "Lord Bantam," "The Coolie," "Little Hodge," "The Devil's Chain," "The Captain's Cabin," "Lutchmee and Dillo," "Jobson's Enemies," "Pantallas," and several political essays. He m. 1867, Hannah Matilda, dau. of Philip Johnstone, of "Dalriada," Belfast, Irel. —London, Eng.

JENKINS, Stuart, journalist, was b. in Montreal, Dec. 20, 1853. He was ed. at the High Sch., and McGill Coll., Montreal, and left Can. to become Private Secy. to his bro., Ed. Jenkins, then M.P. for Dundee in the Brit. Ho. of Commons and Agt.-Genl. for Can. in London. He then entered the service of the Bank of Montreal, which he left in 4 yrs. to become a civil engr. and surveyor. In 1888 he purchased the Manitoulin Explorer. After 4 yrs. he sold out, and went to Toronto as editorial writer on the Evening News. He has since given up newspaper work altogether for mag. and general literature. He contributed a paper to the Popular Science Monthly, 1894, on Arctic Exploration. While living at Little Current, Ont., he represented his sch. section for 6 yrs., was Chairman of the local Bd. of Health and Presdt. of the Con. Assn. He is a staunch believer in Imp. Federation. He m. Aug., 1880, Eleanor, eld. dau. of G. B. Abrey, D.L.S., of Little Current. —110 Conduit St., Toronto Junction, Ont.

JEPHSON, Lady Harriet Julia, is the dau. of Archibald Campbell, joint Prothy. Sup. Ct., P.Q., by his wife, Isabella C. Prior, and was b. in the city of Quebec, May 14, 1854.

Ed. there, she m. 1873, Capt. Sir Alfred Jephson, R.N., now Asst. Secy. of the Imp. Inst., London. Among other similar efforts, Lady J. has written "By the Shores of the St. Lawrence," a series of papers descriptive of Can. watering-places which appeared in the Queen, 1892; "Canadian Society, Past and Present," in the New Review, 1893, and "A Can. Serap Book," a volume of essays and stories (1897). As an artist she has exhibited pictures at the annual Exhn. of the Amateur Art Assn., and at the Royal Inst. for Water-Colours, London. In 1896 she was apptd. one of the Ladies of Grace in the Order of St. John of Jerusalem. —5 Serille St., Lowndes Square, London, Eng.

JETTÉ, Hon. Louis Amable, judge and jurist, is the s. of Amable Jetté, formerly a merchant at L'Assomption, P.Q., by his wife, Caroline Gaufran, grand-dau. of a St. Dominique planter, and was b. at L'Assomption, Jan. 15, 1836. Ed. at the coll. there (where he was a fellow-student with Sir W. Laurier), he studied law, and was called to the bar, 1862. Practising in Montreal in partnership with Mr. Beique, Q.C., he established a widely spread and prosperous business connection. He was Counsel for the Semy. of St. Sulpice in the celebrated Guibord case, became ed. of La Rev. Critique de Législation et de Jurisprudence du Can., and was Treas. of the Bar Assn., a corr. mem. of the Soc. de Legisl. Comparée de Paris, and correspondent of La Rev. de Droit Intern. de Gand (Belgium). For a time he turned his attention to the political press, and was ed. of L'Ordre. A Lib. and Nationalist in politics, he was elected Presdt. of the Reform Assn. of the Parti National, and at the g. e. 1872, was returned to the Ho. of Commons, for Montreal East, defeating the late Sir Geo. E. Cartier in the contest (Vote: L. A. Jetté, L., 3262; Sir G. E. Cartier, C., 2007). He continued to sit for Montréal East up to the period