

STANLEY
STANLEY LODGE
MORNINGTON PLACE
EDINBURGH

I have offered to resign in order to leave a clear field. After all Edinburgh is provincial to a degree and its church-parade bores me.
I should infinitely prefer the trial of new life as in Canada, where men do not exist in pride of their past, but are living into the future with ideals worth shaping.

I heard that Saskatoon was soon to be a university. But I should like to know how soon, and what the chances are.

I wish to leave this before my soul is chilled and my enthusiasm frozen.

Of course, if I were to go to Canada I might be crossing when you are representing Canada here!

But you will be in London, and I should have holidays sometimes!

College charges and their demerits are unformable. The back-work leaves no time for congenial or finished work, and I wish some such post as Saskatoon were available.

The thought of working with the unwholesome, worldly, superficial type of being who is likely to be offended makes me long for a loop-hole.

Pardon me if I propose a task for which I may not seem suited, but I trust your influence and your friendships.

Ever sincerely yours
E. D. Duneau
