

Come of Age Next Year

It is twenty years since the Publications Committee was appointed by the General Assembly, and our Church's publishing work, known under the business name of "Presbyterian Publications," began. The Assembly of 1917 changed our official name from "Committee" to "Board"—Board of Publication. The business name, "Presbyterian Publications," continues, for convenience.

NEXT JUNE WE SHALL COME OF AGE. And we want the help of every subscriber to every one of our twenty-four (by the New Year it will be twenty-eight) periodicals, and of every one who orders supplies of any sort from us—we want their help in making this twenty-first year a record year.

The business is a partnership—every one connected with our Sunday Schools and Young People's Societies and Churches has a direct interest in it; for the more business that is done, the more margin there will be for improving the periodicals we have, and for providing additional ones that may be necessary.

Just this sort of loyalty is what we are expectantly looking for in still greater measure, as we now enter upon our twenty-first year as a publishing Board.
