THE MAN FROM GALWAY.

MR. C. R. DEVLIN, M. P., ARRIVES HOME.

Ottawa Citizen, Aug. 15.

"The man from Galway," Mr. Charles Devlin, M. P., was the central figure in a group of friends and relatives at the ancestral home in Aylmer yesterday, when a reporter called. The Irish commoner looked fleshier than when he was "to home" before, but his cordiality had undergone no change. In an entertaining manner, Mr. Devlin discussed Irish affairs, first impressing on the reporter the fact that he was speaking from the standpoint of a member of the Irish party in the British House of Commons, not as an ex-member of the Canadian Parliament. This is a distinction he wishes his friends to bear in mind when his utterances are under criticism. Discussing Irish affairs in general he said: "Very bright hopes are entertained for Erin's future. In the industrial world generally, an effort in the direction of advancement and progress has been made. In agricultural development this forward movement has been even more marked.

"Taking Canada as an example," remarked Mr. Devlin, "is it not true that where a town is situated in a prosperous agricultural section, that town is sure to be a prosperous one for the farmers having the money will spend it in the towns? So it is in Ireland." Discussing the land bill in particular, he said: "The land bill which has just been passed, will enable the Irish farmers to buy their holdings. They will then have an added interest, and will cultivate them better. This means increased prosperity for the Irish farmer, and this prosperity will reflect on the towns. I believe the Land Bill will go a long way towards the pacification of Ireland, and the cultivation of agrarian prosperity."

Asked what effect the passing of the bill would have on the agitation for Home Rule, Mr. Devlin said:

I believe that the bill, instead of putting an end to the demand for home rule, will simply intensify that demand. In a short time even the landlords will join with the Nationalists, once the land bill is adopted, in their demands for responsible government in Ireland.

Asked further as to what part the Irish considered the King played in the adoption of the land bill, Mr. Devlin said: "There is an impression prevailing in Ireland, that the King has been most friendly in regard to the reconstruction of the enactment, but after all who can tell? The King's reception in Ireland was of a very generous nature. It was due entirely to the friendly feeling which the Irish people have with His Majesty, but was in no way due to satisfaction with the existing condition of things. Dublin castle is no more popular to-day as a result of the King's visit or even of the passing of the land bill. In the eyes of the Irish people it's always Dublin castle. The Irish people want the government of their own land in their own hands."

Mr. Devlin admitted that he had refused to endorse the reading of an address of welcome to the King in Dublin, and said in explanation:

"I could not endorse it. I could not say before His Majesty that we were delighted with the present state of affairs when we are not."

Passing on to a discussion of Mr. Chamberlain and his tariff policy, Mr. Devlin said: "There can be no doubt that Joseph Chamberlain is one of the strongest figures in British politics. He has an individuality all his own. However, as far as I could gather, the impression prevailed that he would prove a loser. It must be borne in mind that the strongest opponents to his proposition are not on the Liberal side, but on his own. The Irish members have taken no attitude with respect to Mr. Chamberlain's proposition and it is premature for me to speak on it."

Discussing the relations between Ireland and Canada, Mr Devlin said the best proof that they are improving is shown by the fact that steamship connections have been made much better. He declined with a reminiscent smile, however, to discuss the immigration relations existing between the two countries. In conclusion he said: "Perhaps one of the pleasantest things in connection with my election in Galway was the congratulatory notices given it in the Canadian press of all shades of politics."

FORMOSA.

To the Editor of the CATHOLIC RECORD:

Being invited by the pastor of this place to spend some time with him, I very naturally made some enquiries into its early history. A few passing remarks will not, I trust, be out of place in your well regulated columns. Fifty years ago its present site was a virgin wilderness and wild animals indigenous to the country, roamed at will untrammelled by man. The location of the little village is, as its name implies, a beautiful one. It is surrounded by hills which rise and run in different degrees around its entire area of the whole burgh, forming, as it were, a natural fortification. The collection of edifices that make up all the business houses and dwellings of the places, at present, comprises stores, hotels and butter factory and a brewery. And I must mention that the enterprise of a few is progressing favorably in their attempts to locate in mother earth a plentiful supply of oil. The first settler viewed the scene in 1853. A settlement soon followed, made up, with the exception of a few Irish families, of a colony of German farmers from Waterloo Co. They colonized an area of eight miles square and with the proverbial fecundity of the respective races soon increased in numbers and to-day form a congregation of well trained Catholics that would do justice to any metropolitan city. A Father Jutiers was the first resident priest. Mass was then said in a log school house. A frame structure followed and served for years until its capacity became too small. The present commodious structure was built under the administration of Rev. Dr. Elena and contains among its present decorations the finest wood-en altar in Ontario. The church crowns one of the aforesaid hills and raises the cross so high towards heaven that it is visible for miles around. There is also a winter chapel close by and a commodious priest's residence within easy reach. The first school was a public one, which began in 1854. Later a fine stone structure was erected where the elder boys are taught by well qualified male teacher. In '71 a fine stone a structure was erected and taken charge of in '72 by the school Sisters of Notre Dame from Milwaukee, the mother house. It subsequently became a Separate school and is now occupied by four teachers who teach as many grades of classes. The community that resides therein numbers seven and have Mass daily in a beautiful little chapel in their own dwelling.

Just a passing glance at what is at present going on in the retired district. The church not being completed, the zealous and devoted pastor has undertaken a huge entertainment in the shape of a monster Harvest Festival to be held on his own grounds on the 8th September. These grounds are ample, and every sort of legitimate amusement will be furnished to pass a pleasant and instructive day.

It is extensively advertised, and at present everything points to a grand success. With the three hundred families belonging to his own parish, and large contingents promised from neighboring towns and villages, and the results of far advertising the pastor hopes to realize something handsome. The funds will be appropriated to the completion of St. Mary's of the Immaculate Conception and thus render it more attractive, as it should be, for the service of God. More anon. I will furnish you later with a more extended notice and an amplified history of the mission.

The RECORD is not as extensively read in this district as it ought to be, and I hope to be able to introduce it in this manner.

FROM ST. AUGUSTINE.

St. Augustine, Aug. 29, 1903.

Dear RECORD.—You have many readers in this parish. Situated as we are a short distance east of Lake Huron, St. Augustine is noted for its model farms, its verdant hills and fairy dells.

Last Tuesday was the date fixed for our annual picnic. The site selected is a beautiful maple grove that gradually slopes to the north bank of the Maitland River. On the opposite bank of the river may be seen the quarry from which the stone for our new church was taken. The work of building the church is now on full swing, and our young, energetic and talented pastor, Father Hanlon, expects to have it ready for Bishop McEvay to dedicate before the wild geese wing their flight to the South.

On Tuesday morning the sun was entirely hidden from view. Heavy banks of inky clouds rolled up from the South and West portending a wet day. Many from here had heard Father McKeon's S. Columban Orchestra at the Logan, Goderich, Clinton and Hullet picnics, and while awaiting their arrival, a Scotch piper paraded in kilts and the ear-torturing skirl of his unflated pibroach united with the artillery of the clouds in making the welkin ring.

The St. Columban Orchestra arrived at 12:30 o'clock just as the sun burst forth in full splendor. The music was grand, flutes and fiddles, cornets, clarionets all blended perfectly. Quadrills and lancers, jigs and reels followed one another in rapid succession, and thus for the youth and beauty of the Huron and Bruce districts the golden hours of the afternoon quickly passed away.

Besides our popular pastor, Rev. Father Hanlon, the following priests were present: Rev. T. West, P. P., Goderich; Rev. Albert McKeon, P. P., St. Columban; Rev. J. Corcoran, P. P., Teeswater; Rev. J. D. Pinsonneault, P. P., Clinton; Rev. F. Gehl, P. P., Formosa; Rev. T. Noonan, P. P., Dublin and Rev. M. McCormack, P. P., Kingsbridge.

The boys and girls of the parish worked like trojans and had the tables and everything else in fine shape. The efforts of Miss McDonald, a little Scotch dancer from Wingham elicited loud applause. All present all went home well pleased with everything.

OBITUARY.

MR. HUGH MCINTYRE, AILSA CRAIG.

Hugh McIntyre of Ailsa Craig, was crushed to death by the fall of a heavy piece of frame work at Saskatoon, N. W. T. The sad event occurred while Mr. McIntyre was employed as foreman on a bridge gang for the Canadian Northern railroad. The deceased has worked in that capacity for four years. The unfortunate accident occurred on July 21st, last. The deceased was a man of many sterling qualities respected and dearly loved by all who knew him. His untimely end has cast a gloom over this entire neighborhood, where an enemy to him was unknown. The deceased was a strict Catholic. He was indeed the very model of a Christian—charitable, meek and humble of heart.

He leaves behind him his aged father, six brothers and two sisters. They are as follows: Angus of Lagarde, Albama, Assistant General Manager of the Louisville and Nashville railroad; Norman, Ronald and Mary on the old homestead; Neil, Daniel and James of Michigan and Mrs. J. Williams, Parkhill. The remains arrived at Ailsa Craig on the 27th, ult., in charge of his brother, Angus. From the depot his remains were conveyed to his old home on the townline near Craig, and on the following Tuesday, followed by a large concourse of people, the funeral took place from the family residence to the church of the Sacred Heart, Parkhill. A Requiem High Mass was celebrated for the repose of his soul by the Rev. Father McRae, who after Mass spoke strongly on the uncertainty of life, and exhorted the congregation to watch for you do not know the day or the hour. True it is that in the midst of life we are in death. After the pastor's remarks the remains were interred in St. Columba cemetery, Bornish, where all that was mortal of a dear son an affectionate brother and a kind friend was laid to rest. Dear reader, out of the charity of your heart offer up a prayer for the repose of the departed soul that was called with such awful suddenness, that perpetual light may shine upon him, and grant that God may console the bereaved family to bear their great affliction with Christian patience and resignation. R. I. P.

MRS. MCDONELL, BELLEVILLE.

Mary L. McKinnon, wife of A. M. McDonell, passed away early Sunday morning, 12th of July, at her home on Church street Belleville.

She was born at Lochiel, Glengarry County, forty-five years ago, where her girlhood days were spent. She was married over nineteen years ago, and for a number of years resided in Stirling. Nearly ten years ago she moved to Belleville, with her husband, where she resided until her death. During her residence here she made many friends who will regret to hear that she has passed away. She was a member of St. Michael's Church, and was a kind Christian lady. Besides her husband, two children are left to mourn, A. Morgan and Catherine. Two sisters also survive her—Mrs. McMillen of Spokane, State of Washington, and Mrs. D. B. McDonell of New Port, Idaho, U. S. A. The remains were taken to Stirling for interment, where Mass was celebrated by Rev. Father McCarty for the repose of the departed soul. The deceased was a descendant of the early settlers of the Glengary Scotch, and was well connected with many of the most noted in Church and State, the most popular among them being the present Archbishop Gauthier and the Sandfield McDonalds. Four sisters and brothers preceded her to the grave as well her parents. One sister, Mrs. McMaster of Arnprior, died about three years ago, and her eldest brother Archie, who was a college mate of His Grace Archbishop Gauthier of Kingston, who took a law course and practiced for some time in the city of Quebec. John, James and Daniel died in the Western States after meeting with considerable success. Like a true Catholic she bore her terrible suffering with patience and resignation. She was blessed with her senses to the very last, and was well and faithfully attended by Rev. Fathers Pecotte and Hanley. The good Sisters did all in their power as well as the several doctors, but death claimed the bright and noble spirit for his own, and one of the most faithful of Catholic ladies passed to her reward.

May her soul rest in peace!

MRS ANNIE CURRIE, PONTIAC.

A few days ago all that was mortal of Mrs. Annie Currie (née McGowan) of Pontiac, formerly of Irishtown, was laid to rest in the beautiful Mount Hope cemetery. The deceased lady drank deeply of the cup of affliction. Her path in life was along the thorny road; but her noble Christian spirit was proof against all trials. Her noble career is a splendid inspiration to the rising generation. Her death is an irreparable loss to the community where she has lived for the last ten years. Discretion—a regard for her friends—must seal my lips from touching on some heroic points of her life which made of the deceased lady a heroine in the highest, best and truest sense of the term. Her friends of Irishtown will be happy to know that hers was a precious death—precious in the sight of the Lord, for it was the death of a saint. She died surrounded by her family and a select circle of friends. Her funeral obsequies was the largest attended of any funeral held from St. Vincent de Paul Church, Pontiac, which was the most eloquent tribute to the personal popularity, virtues and worth of the deceased lady.

May her soul rest in peace!

MRS. JAS. MCKEEGAN, ORMSTOWN.

Mrs. Jas. McKeegan departed this life on the 19th August, 1903, aged forty-two years, seven months and two days. She was a convert, being admitted into her Church three and a half years ago. She was highly respected by all who knew her for her piety, devotion and sterling qualities. She bore her long illness with patience, fortitude and resignation to the will of God, continually praying. The Sacraments of Holy Church were administered to her frequently by her ever attentive pastor, Rev. Joseph A. Quesnel. Her husband, one daughter and one son deeply mourn her loss.

May God grant her soul eternal rest!

Father Kiernan's Silver Jubilee.

On Sunday and Monday of last week Rev. J. P. Kiernan, pastor of the new Irish parish of St. Michael's, Montreal, celebrated the twenty-fifth anniversary of his ordination to the holy priesthood.

The High Mass on Sunday, the first day of the jubilee celebration, was sung by Rev. Father Kiernan himself, assisted by Rev. M. L. Shea, St. Anthony, as deacon and Rev. Frank Singleton, of the Montreal Grand Seminary, as subdeacon, Rev. Father Fahey was master of ceremonies. The musical portion of the service was under the direction of Professor John I. McGillivrey. "Messe Durant" was rendered with fine effect.

The sermon, an eloquently appropriate one, was preached by Rev. Father Martin Callaghan, P. P., of St. Patrick's.

The evening service was of unusual solemnity, and a pleasant feature thereof was the fact that Rev. Father Therrien, chaplain of Mount St. Louis College, presided at the organ, while the service was sung by Rev. Father Charpentier, chaplain of the Reformatory, of the Brothers of Charity; both of whom were classmates of Father Kiernan at the Grand Seminary.

St. Mary's Garden Party.

The garden party held in Queen's Park on the afternoon and evening of Tuesday, August 25, in aid of St. Mary's church, London, was a splendid success, financially and socially. All who were present were delighted with the well-arranged programme. The Seventh Band rendered numerous pleasing selections in a very acceptable manner. They were ably assisted by several well-known talented ladies and gentlemen. His Worship the Mayor made a very appropriate address. Those who had charge of the various booths, etc., worked very energetically in order that the garden party might achieve the success everybody predicted was in store for it, and we are glad to be able to say their efforts were amply rewarded, something in the neighborhood of $905.00 being realized.
