The Commercial Class

Its Rapid Growth

THE rapidly increasing number of our public high schools which are adding shorthand, typewriting, and other commercial subjects to their curricula and the large attendance in the commercial classes, shows that there is a real need for just such practical education.

The Isaac Pitman shorthand (distinguished from imitations by the name "Phonography") is the only one authorized for use in our schools, and is practically the universal system of the British Empire. It is so truly educative that it is worthy of a place on the curriculum of every school.

Interesting catalog of Isaac Pitman texts on phonography and on typewriting may be had
