NEWFOUNDLAND RESERVIST WRITES OF LUSITANIA DISASTER AND THE RESCUE WORK

Dear Father and Mother—
It is indeed with a sad heart that I try and write you these few lines. No doubt by this time you have heard of the loss of the great liner Lusitania with over 1500 passengers off the coast of Ireland. It is an awful tragedy and I can assure you that it has caused a great wave of public sentiment against the commander of the German submarine and those responsible for the action of these submarines.

Our ship was one of the many that was sent to the rescue and the sights I witnessed will I can assure you never will be forgotten by me. Previous to our arrival on the scene all the living victims of the disaster were taken on board of other boats so we were ordered to lower boats and search for dead bodies. This was I think the hardest task I ever undertook.

The horrors of war were brought home in a striking manner when we began to pick up the bodies of women and little children. Tears came to my eyes as I thought of my own dear parents and what would have been my feeling if they had been victims of that submarine. It was a sight to make the strongest weep to see bodies of little children floating on the water. We were till three o'clock the following morning picking up dead bodies. The bodies were piled up on our decks and the sight was one to make the hardest heart weep.

On our arrival at Queenstown we witnessed even a sadder sight than before. Here you would see relatives and friends waiting patiently bowed down with sorrow, for news of some friend, a brother or sister, a father or mother. Many a strong man wept as the scene at Queenstown was the saddest one could possibly look upon. As I am writing this letter many a tear has fallen on the paper. I cannot keep them back. My mind is full of the sadness of this whole tragedy, and I feel sure if some of the boys home were here to see the scenes as I have seen they would not hesitate long to enlist and revenge the cold blooded murder of these innocent women and children.

Picture to yourself row after row of women laid out cold in death with little children clasped to their breasts; young girls, many of them not over 18, cut off in the prime of life. Over 1500 human souls sent into eternity without a moment's notice.

As long as the world remains the abode of man this murder of innocent women and children by the Germans will be the ugliest thing recorded in the pages of the world's history.

In many cases we saw father, mother and one or two children locked together in death. Their bodies were landed just as they were taken from the water. Queenstown was a city of mourning that day. There was no outburst but the grim determination of avenging this murder was seen on every face.

I am hoping to have a letter from you soon as I have not had one from home now for three weeks. I posted some photos last week which I trust will reach you safely. Kinds regards to Ben and family, and with best wishes for your good selves. Kiss all the children for me. Good bye.

Yours loving son,
DUG STEED.
