The Sassiety of our village recently sustained an irrevievable loss in the departure of Douglas H., for the Prairie Province. Departing in charge of the constable with the prospect of imprisonment before him did not damp in the least his usually high spirits and he left with the properties of the least his usually high spirits and he left with the first province. Departing in the least his usually like the properties of the least his usually like the province of the least will be seen that the effect of the learned judge's decision in quashing the conviction will be far-reaching in its results. high spirits, and he left with the serene consciousness of having maintained his position successfully to th last. A banquet was gotten up for him before his departure by his dearest lady friends, at which Newbore, Buldwin's Corners, Lake Opinicon, and Sunnyside were well represente The knowledge that they were en-taining their Hero for the last time very pathetically at the close and those present dispersed to their various homes where the ladies—

Retired in haste to sleepless beds And fast their pent-up tears did flow, he was in despair their empty beads And wrung their hands in bitter woo. The secret anguish of each heart Welled up to Him who reigns on high— Oh, God! my Father, must we part! If so, in kindness, let me die.

The only genuine "kettle drum" ever given in town was held in the vicinity of the lock on Tuesday night, at rather an unseasonable hour. The inoffensive Van was rudely roused from his slumbers, and thinking that Premier Abbott and the vice-regal party had arrived to present him with a lock, he hurriedly donned his robes and came forth to receive them. It proved, however, to be one of our protessional men who being unable to sleep was beating a drum to drown sorrow caused by the loss of some intimate friends.

MALOOLM LEEBY, Teacher.

It would be hard to say just why nearly everybody wants to go hunting on Thauksgiving Day, but such is undoubteely the fact. Men and boys who have seldom or never handled a gun, when this holiday is announced two facts when the holiday is announced to go forth and kill something. Now, if we had the limitation of the kind of game to be killed, these amateurs would bring in very few birds and animals, but as we haven't we simply offer a plea for the lives of the lives
