

BABY'S SPLENDID HEALTH

Mrs. R. Yates, Montreal, Que., writes: "Baby's splendid health was obtained through the use of Baby's Own Tablets. They are a grand medicine for constipation, as their action is easy and does not give baby pain. I would recommend them to all mothers; no one should be without them who have young children in the house. This testimony is similar to thousands of others sent us by grateful mothers. Every mother who has ever used the Tablets for her little ones will tell you they are the very best medicine in the world. They not only cure the ills of the little ones, but they make them grow happy and strong. The Tablets can be given to even the youngest babe with absolute safety as they are sold under the guarantee of a government analyst to contain no opiate or other harmful drug. TEACHING THE IMMIGRANT.

Ideal Men says that an intensely interesting feature of the immigration conference held in Toronto recently was the demonstration, "How a class of foreigners might be taught." Ten Russians and Macedonians, who did not understand a word of English, were ushered into the room. Dr. Roberts announced to the conference that he was going to teach them their primary lesson, entitled, "Getting Up in the Morning." The teacher stood up before the class of foreigners, shut his eyes, yawned, stretched himself, and said, "I wake from sleep." The class pronounced these words after him. Then the teacher went on and repeated over and over to them these sentences. I must get up. I throw back the clothes. I get out of bed. I put on my pants. I wash myself. I comb my hair. I put on my collar and necktie. I put on my vest and coat. I open the door of my bedroom. I go down stairs. In about 20 minutes Dr. Roberts had them all telling the story above quite clearly, and the delegates were all assured that they understood what they were saying. This incident proves the importance of having foreigners taught the English language in a systematic manner by teachers who have special qualifications for the work. In Ontario and probably elsewhere the work might with advantage be grafted on the duties of the department of education.

THE HUMAN FLESH MARKET.

Some pessimists constantly dwell on the fact that beef and pork are outrageously high. Why don't they look on the bright side—human flesh is selling at very low figures. Note these market reports from Chicago. That's the city where beef and pork are packed. Man-meat, too, is cut up there, and then "canned." Anthony Szopinski, seventeen, gave five fingers of his left hand to a cannery company. The company gave him $9 in return, out of their accident insurance. Then "canned" him—only support of an old mother. Anniela Polczak, nineteen, gave two fingers of her right hand to a packing company. She got $10 for each finger, which was more than Anthony got for his whole hand. But of course Anthony's loss was only a left hand. Mary Haw, nineteen, got $14 for one finger. Sara Curran, twenty, got $8 for the right little finger of her right hand. But Joe Slovinski got $25 for one left thumb, but of course Joe's hand wasn't much good without the thumb. Valentine Tesek received $10 for his right arm.

ON ISSUING INVITATIONS.

How They Should Read in Order to Accord With Good Form.

The subject of invitations is one of general interest. First and foremost is the question as to when invitations should be issued in the names of the husband and wife only. Practically speaking, says the Queen, there are but few occasions when the former would be correct according to etiquette. A dinner invitation should be issued in the names of the husband and wife. Thus when writing in the third person the note should run as follows: "Mr. and Mrs. A. request the pleasure of Capt. and Mrs. B.'s company at dinner on Wednesday, the 21st, at a quarter to eight o'clock." This is a strictly formal invitation and only employed when the acquaintance is of the slightest. The answers to invitations so worded are likewise given in the names of the husband and wife in this wise: "Capt. and Mrs. B. have much pleasure in accepting Mr. and Mrs. A.'s kind invitation to dinner on Wednesday, the 21st." The refusal should also be worded in the joint names of husband and wife, thus: "Capt. and Mrs. B. much regret that a previous engagement will prevent their having the pleasure of dining with Mr. and Mrs. A. on Wednesday, the 21st. If a previous engagement cannot be pleaded the words "unable to accept" should be substituted.

Invitations to dinner are more often issued in the first person than in the third, and here again husband and wife join in them, the form being as follows: with variations according to the friendship existing between the writers and the recipients of the notes: Dear Mrs. B.: It will give us much pleasure if you and Capt. B. will dine with us on Wednesday, the 21st, at a quarter to eight." If on less formal terms: Dear Mrs. B.: It would give my husband and myself much pleasure if you and Capt. B. would dine with us on Wednesday, the 21st, at a quarter to eight." The husband's name should be referred to by the wife in this manner and not as Mr. A. This is a question which perplexes many when giving invitations. The answers to the above invitations should be as follows: Dear Mrs. A.: My husband and myself have much pleasure in accepting your kind invitation to dine with you on Wednesday, the 21st, or "It will give us pleasure to dine with you on Wednesday, the 21st, and we shall be delighted to dine with you on Wednesday, the 21st." Refusals vary accordingly, and run in this groove: "Dear Mrs. A.: My husband and I much regret that we cannot have the pleasure of dining with you on Wednesday the 21st," or "Dear Mrs. A.: We are ever so sorry we cannot accept your kind invitation to dinner on Wednesday, the 21st, but—," and should follow the nature of the excuse.

Dinner cards of invitations, acceptances and refusals are chiefly in use in town in ultra sets and in official sets, but seldom in general society and in country persons as regards the form is in the third person, given in the name of the issuer, the acceptance and the refusal written in the third person with slight variations. Wedding invitations are issued in the names of husband and wife, and are invariably written in the third person; the only under exceptional circumstances are the case of very quiet weddings, for instance, when the immediate relatives are invited, when the first person would be employed in the construction of the notes. The form should be as follows: "Mr. and Mrs. A. request the pleasure of Capt. and Mrs. B.'s company at the marriage of their daughter, Frances, with Mr. Edward C., at St. John's Church, on Wednesday, December 11, at 2.30 o'clock, and afterward at the Elms, &c. R.S. V.P." In reply to the above is also written in the third person, thus: "Capt. and Mrs. B. have much pleasure in accepting Mr. and Mrs. A.'s invitation to the marriage of their daughter, Frances, with Mr. Edward C., on Tuesday, December 11, on very intimate terms with the giver thereof the answer is occasionally written in the first person, and runs as follows: "Dear Mrs. A.—Many thanks for your kind invitation to be present at the marriage of your daughter, Frances, on Wednesday, December 11. My husband and I have much pleasure in accepting it." In the case of refusal the note should run: "My husband and I very much regret that we are unable to accept it."

It should be borne in mind that although invitations are issued in the third person either by cards or notes they may be replied to in the first person if friendship and intimacy are indicated. The giver of authorities it being the recipient of the invitations issues them probably by fifties and over, but the recipient of the same is only called upon to write one note of acceptance or refusal to the said invitation. It is a measure as to how the replies should be worded. Invitations to a garden party given by a Bishop and his wife are also issued in the third person and in the names of both husband and wife, and replied to in a like manner. Now and then invitations to a coming of age dance of an eldest son, or of an eldest daughter are issued in the names of both parents, as follows: "Mr. and Mrs. C. request the honor or pleasure of Capt. and Mrs. R.'s company at a dance to be held at the Town Hall, on the coming of age of their eldest son, Mr. Percy C., and then should follow the name of the recipient, and the nature of the invitation therein referred to. All other invitations are issued in the name of the wife only. The dance, the coming of age party, the afternoon at-home are all given in her name, and issued in the third person on home at cards. The form is the same in each of these functions: "Mrs. A. At-home," and in the case of the cards "Dancing" is put, or "Music" in the case of an evening party, or "Bridal" if it is to be a card party or "Crowned" or "Tennis" if it is to be a garden party, or "Reception" if an afternoon at-home is given within doors. Invitations to luncheon or to afternoon tea are written in the first person and are replied to in the first person also. In the case of an official luncheon or semi-official luncheon being given the invitations are issued in the names of husband and wife, but only in such an instance. It may be here mentioned that when a function is to take place at a town hall or assembly rooms a home cards may be used and the invitations may run: "Mrs. A. At-home," although it is a sort of figure of speech, but it implies that she acts on the afternoon or evening in question, although she is not receiving. Yet another occasion should be mentioned in the list of invitations issued in the names of husband and wife, and that of a silver wedding, the invitations are issued as follows: "Mr. and Mrs. A. request the pleasure of Capt. and Mrs. B.'s company on Wednesday, the 22nd inst., to celebrate their wedding. Ernie their silver wedding." Then should follow the necessary particulars, the date, hour, and the amusement to be provided.

WOLVES IN FRANCE. According to a report just issued by the Ministry of Agriculture, sixty wolves were killed in France during 1909. The majority of these animals were killed in the departments of the Vienne, Charente and Haute-Vienne. The French Government pays a reward varying from 20 francs to 100 francs for each wolf.

Every Woman Needs Them

With constantly aching backs, weary, dragging-down pains, dizzy and nervous headaches, women have a hard burden to carry. It is wise for every woman to fortify herself against those derangements which are present when extra demands are made upon the system by Nature's laws. No better remedy exists for woman's peculiar ailments than DR. HAMILTON'S PILLS, which possess tonic properties that act upon the proper organs at the proper time. To prevent headache, to overcome dragging weariness, backache, nervousness and pallor—to look well, sleep well, eat well and enjoy the manifold blessings of sound, regular health, every girl and woman should regulate her system by Dr. Hamilton's Pills, 25c per box, dealers or the Catarhoxone Co., Kingston, Ont.

WOMAN MAYORS.

Oldham, England, has elected a woman Mayor, the third English town to depart thus from tradition. Her installation was held in the large town hall, though a small room has previously served on such occasions. When she entered the vast throng swung to the right and cheered and clapped interminably. Mrs. Lees, the new Mayor, made a speech, and the hall "echoed with delighted laughter," for she is very keen and witty. "She seemed," said one reporter, "like the mother of a great family before whom her children rise up and call her blessed." She is described as "a tall, dignified woman, with a calm, beautiful, humorous face, crowned with white hair." A score or more of small towns in Kansas have woman Mayors, several of whom have been re-elected term after term.—The Christian Herald.

MILD WINTER IN FAR NORTH.

A letter received yesterday from Norway House, Keewatin district, states that in the experience of the oldest inhabitant of that little far away colony never have they witnessed such a mild December. The outlook for another big season's catch of fur does not look very promising on account of this. Very few of the Indians who had just returned from their fall hunt brought in anything near the quantity of fur they did this time last year. The Hudson Bay Company had offered extra inducements to the hunters for ermine skins, which are in big demand for the coronation to be held in London next June. From present prospects the company, it is stated, don't being able to supply much more than 50 per cent. of the huge order they received a few months ago. Owing to the exceptionally mild weather progress on the surveying of the Hudson Bay Railway has been somewhat retarded. The engineers report their inability to train on an account of lack of snow and it was dangerous to travel by canoe owing to the rivers and lakes being full of floating ice.—From the Altama Citizen.

PIANO SUPPORT.

Charles Wark, a man of youthful appearance, alight in build compared with the woman and gray as to hair, was at the piano. He understands perfectly how best to accompany the prima donna. He knows what volume is required, when shading is desirable and how much of it, and he follows every motion of the finger to guide her next requirement in the matter of piano support. He not only knows these things, but he does them. That is why he is such an excellent accompanist. He wore evening clothes. The piano was finished in black, one of the low concert type of instrument, with a little outward turn, on the top of which Madame was gracefully seated in an arm occasionally.—Oshkosh Northwestern.

They were presented to Mr. Haskell over fifteen years ago when he was proprietor of the Pittsfield Advertiser by Mrs. Arba Powers, mother of the late ex-Governor and Congressman Llewellyn Powers. They are a work of art in the knitting line, of fancy weave in navy blue and white worsted yarn, and knit in to the wrist hand in inch block letters are Mr. Haskell's initials and name. The spacing and perfection of the letters are worthy of special mention. The mittens were seen yesterday, Mr. Haskell.—Portland Argus.

CLASSIFIED AMERICANS.

Only One-Tenth of the Population Said to be of Unmixed Descent. The population of the United States may be classified thus: Natives of unmixed descent, 1-10; negroes, 1-10; natives of foreign parentage, 1-10; natives of naturalized parents, 4-10; aliens, 1-10. The original American stock was English, with a smattering of Scotch and Irish, more of Dutch and a little French and Scandinavian. The proportion of any of these strains in the American of today in unbroken descent from before the War of the Revolution will determine his approximation to a purely blood standard of American nativity. The preponderance of population is of whites having one of more of these strains in their blood, the majority of such being able to trace descent by one and the other to original settlers. Since 1820 over 25,000,000 aliens have immigrated to this country, the vast majority of whom never returned to their native land. But the intermixture of immigrants with natives and their descendants was negligible as a factor in census figures until after the War of the Rebellion. Until that time the population was counted as natives, colored and foreign born. In the ninth census (1870) the classification of native whites gave place to native whites of native parentage and included the descendants of all white persons born in the United States indiscriminately. Of the 25,000,000 aliens who have migrated to this country one-fourth came prior to the war of 1861-63. And of the 2,000,000 who have landed since that period over one-half arrived during the last fifteen years. Up then to 1850 the major part of the immigration was from the British Isles, Ireland principally, German and Scandinavia, with a small but steady stream from France and Switzerland and scattering groups from most other European countries. Since that year the arrivals from those countries, excepting Scandinavia have greatly decreased and the bulk of immigration has been from Italy, Austria-Hungary and Russia, and chiefly from the least advanced portions of those domains—the Russian Jew, the southern Italian, Lithuanian, Magyar, Pole and Slovak, with many Greeks and Japanese and even Mexicans.—From the Circle.

THE SNOW BLANKET.

The value of a mantle of snow in protecting vegetation in the fields in winter is fully understood in farming districts, and the cause of the protective effect of the snow has been the subject of scientific inquiry in Germany. In that country the observations on the thermal properties of snow are disclosed. The fact that, the looser the snow, the greater its power to protect the ground beneath from the effects of external changes of temperature. Snow generally offers about four times as much resistance to such changes as a sheet of ice of the same thickness. When snow becomes closely packed, therefore, it is less effective as a protection. A 20 plant life than when it lies loosely upon the surface. Other experiments have shown that while a blanket of snow protects the ground beneath from the chilling effects of the winter atmosphere, yet the surface of the snow itself, especially in clear weather, is colder than the air, so that snow tends to lower the temperature of the atmosphere above it. The broad areas of country, or extensive mountain slopes are covered by it, important climatic conditions may be produced by the influence of the snow.

THE BEST MEDICINE FOR COUGHS & COLDS. The Boll Weevil in Mississippi. A striking illustration of the damage wrought by the boll weevil is found in a statement of the size of the cotton crop in Jefferson County for the last five years—before and after the weevil made its appearance. In 1907 Jefferson county made 20,145 bales; in 1908, 19,082 bales; in 1909, 7,791 bales; in 1910, 3,404 bales. There is no way to get at the record of such crops as corn, potatoes, peas, molasses, hogs, cattle, etc., but it is known that there has been a steady increase and that this year the farmers of that section have produced more foodstuffs than ever before in their lives.—New Orleans Times-Democrat.

Bruises, Sprains, Lameness.

TREATMENT ADVISED

You'll be astounded at the rapid pain-relieving action of Nerviline. Its effectiveness is due to its remarkable penetrating power—it strikes it deeply—sinks to the core of pain instantly. Nerviline is stronger, many times stronger, than ordinary liniments, and it's not greasy, ill-smelling or disagreeable. Every drop rubs in, brings comfort and healing wherever applied. You would scarcely credit how fast it relieves a sprain, how it takes out lameness, how it soothes and passes a bruise. Thousands say no liniment is half so useful in the home. This must be so because Nerviline is a safe remedy. You can rub it on, and take it internally, too. One 50c. bottle will cure the bruises, sprains, strains, lameness and aches of the whole family.

A MARAT PRESCRIPTION.

Whether Marat of the Terror was a veterinary surgeon or a fashionable physician is a point which historians have earnestly debated. Some light is thrown upon it by the memoirs, just published, of the Papal Envoy of the period, who was one of his patients, and reports as follows: "He prescribed for me some medicine which would have killed me if the celebrated chemist of the Rue Jacob had been willing to give it to me. 'I see well enough,' he said, 'this is no medicine for you; it is medicine for a horse. I recognize the doctor's signature; he is mad.' Apparently Marat had mistaken me for one of his patients at the stable at which he was a physician."—Westminster Gazette.

NAVIGATION ON THE TIGRIS.

"It ought to be of interest to all who would like to see the Mississippi River made navigable the year round to know that the present navigation of the Tigris, the historic stream beside which ancient Babylon stood, and where modern Bagdad now stands, was made possible by a study of the boats in use on the river at St. Louis," said Frederick Simich, United States consul at Bagdad, Turkey, who is in this country on furlough. "A big company was formed for the purpose of navigating the Tigris sent an Englishman on tour to learn methods employed on rivers of other countries. This man came quietly to St. Louis, took a trip down the Mississippi, and made a careful study of boats of light draught and heavy tonnage. He reported to his employers in favor of the Mississippi boats, and now they are the sort which carry travellers to and from the place we used to read about when we were children, the home of Ali Baba and the host of characters interesting to juvenile minds."—Washington Herald.

2,000,000 Feet of Wood in a Ship's Deck.

With the laying of the keel of the Europa, the biggest ship in the world, now under construction, comes the news from abroad that the gross tonnage of all the ships flying the Hamburg-American Line flag has passed the 1,000,000-ton mark, or to be correct, 1,022,452 tons. For years the Hamburg-American Line has held the tonnage record for ships sailing under one house flag. Some idea of the enormous size of the Europa may be gathered from the order which has been given for 2,000,000 feet of Oregon fir to be used for the deck's aloft. For months this lumber has been drying near Portland, Ore., before being shipped to Germany. Special care is taken to provide only clear, vertical grain wood.—The Christian Herald.
