light is caused by the current jump-ing across the intervening space between the carbons and, when the current begins to agitate, it breaks off between the points of the two carbons and keep the current from breaking. Owing to the oxygen of the air having access to the ordinary lamp, these particles were consumed, but by Mr.

Jones' improvement the oxygen is ex-cluded and combustion is almost im-possible. Thus a great deal less car-bon is used. Another feature of this invention is the saving it effects in

The result was that the works of the lamp were quickly used up and the insulation was destroyed. In Mr. Jones' lamp this hood is done away with and cooks a convert the runs down to the

The Synod Discusses the Question at Length-No Decision so Far.

London, June 22 .- At the Synod yesterday Henry Macklin moved to amend the constitution and cauons of the synod so as to admit females as well as males to be members of the vestries, and also members of the congregation for the election of lay representatives to synod. Mr. Macklin referred to the fact that women comprise the larger part of the congregation; they are the best workers and contributors and should not be treated as minors or wards. He referred to the rule in other courtries in He referred to the rule in other courtries in regard to municipal matters, and in Ontario since 1884. Women are always on the side of truth, right and justice, and their right to vote in vestries had been accorded to them in the diocese of Ontario, Niagara, Ottawa, Toronto and Montreal. He referred to the W. A. M. A. as being ably conducted more as prepare than the ferred to the W. A. M. A. as being ably conducted; more so, perhaps, than the synod, and regarded it as a right rather than a favor. Why should we say to them, "Do the work of the church and subscribe to its funds but remain as Uitlanders while we Boers manage the business." He also thought it would be politic to extend the franchise to women. It had been said women were not demanding it, but he reminded the synod that many useful reforms had come about without being demanded. He concluded an excellent address by asking the members to treat the matter seriing the members to treat the matter seri ously and not as a joke.

V. Cronyn seconded and showed the origin of the present canon which admits males only to vote in vestries. He felt that women were as much members of the church as men, and were just as intellectual, well educated and more religious, and should not be treated as hewers of wood and drawers of water, but be given equal rights with the men in church meet-

J. Higginbotham favored an amend-ment that women be allowed to vote, save and except in the case of mar-ried women, whose husbands were entitled to vote, in order to avoid dual voting.

AN OPPOSING VOICE. C. Jenkins referred to the distinction between the sexes in their con-stitution and functions. The canon has been connected with the municipal electric system, Supt. Jones has noticed that there was a greater waste of carbon than the light given warranted. He saw that a great saving in the cost of electric arc lighting could be made by an improvement in the lamp and method of consumption of the carbons. Mr. Jones set himself to work to find how this saving could be made and, after long and tedious experiments, has at ought not to be changed without good reason. The vestry meeting was a business meeting for the male end of life. Mam is always the fighting ani-mal, and women should keep out of the combat. There was ample scope for woman's work, and he prophesied much trouble from mixed vestries. He thought the examples quoted were be-side the work, and that it was useless after long and tedious experiments, has at last perfected an attachment for arc lamps which will effect a saving of 500 per cent and increase the life of the lamp and the globe. The Chatham electrician saw at the outest that the cause of the excessive to discuss the question.

the outset that, the cause of the excessive combustion of the carbons was due to their coming in contact with the oxygen of the air. His first endeavor was to perfect a globe that would exclude the oxygen of the air and be perfectly air tight. This he has succeeded in doing and the test last evening completely proved the completeness and success of the invention. His globe being air tight, the oxygen in it was soon used up Rev. F. M. Baldwin confessed him increase the number of Synod dele-gates, who are elected according to the number of members.

success of the invention. His globe being air tight, the oxygen in it was soon used up and then a light was furnished whiter and more brilliant than the ordinary arc light!

In order to give a better understanding of Mr. Jones' invention, it may be best to explain how the arc light training its illumination. The Rev. J. Downie was inclined to favor the motion, but his chief objection was founded on the reverence he always felt for women. He did not like to introduce them into the arena of vestries. Rev. W. Stout coincided with the remarks made by Mr. Macklin, and would accept the principle of the bill if it could be properly safeguarded. Women, by their intelligence and edu-cation, were elbowing their way with men in other departments, and we need not fear to have them in the vestries.

Rev. G.C. Mackenzie spoke of his practio Rev. G.C.Mackenzie spoke of his practice of having a prayer meeting for women at the close of the Easter Monday services, when they were especially to pray for the guidance of the members of the vestry. To this he attributed largely the order which prevailed. He alluded to the ministry of women as accepted by our Lord. They were last at the Cross and first at the Sepulchre. He referred to the work inaugurated by Flore. referred to the work inaugurated by Flor ence Nightingale as having inspired the noble army of nurses, and also the work of sulation was destroyed. In all all and this hood is done away with and only a copper tube runs down to the globe to protect the rods and works of the lamp. Another advantage is in the globes. The old globes were 12 inches in circumference each way. The new globe is about 11 inches long by 17 inches wide, and is pear shaped. Last year the electric light department of this city broke 108 globes, partly through their being made too thin and partly through their being cracked by the heat. These globes cost 50 cents each. Mr. Jones' patent globes will cost only 15 cents each and they are made thicker than the ordinary globe. Another great saving is made in the carbons. The new lamb will use carbons worth $4 per thousand less than es. It is impossible to stop the deaconesses. It is impossible to stop the movement, for they are on the right track. We could not do without them in the Sunday school and choir and other departments of church life. Men often fail, but women never. St. Paul said that in Christ these was neither male nor female. never. St. Paul said that in Christ there was neither male nor female, but all are one, and he felt that it was not fair to let them serve and work and deny them the privilege of voting. He pointed out that while Apollos was described as eloquent, he had first to be taken in hand by a woman, and to be more carefully instructed before speaking. Many say woman, and to be more carefully in-structed before speaking. Many say Paul was mistaken, and there is a difference between male and female. He held that they should have equal privileges with the men. T. H. Luscombe heartily supported the resolution, and endorsed all that Rev. Mr. Markenzie had said.

have the patents granted in a few days. The invention will be known as Jones' attachment for are lamps. The globe is made air tight by the use of flexible metallic joints that are Rev. Mr. Markenzie had said.

Rev. J. C. Farthing felt that the previous speakers had talked around the subject without touching it. He had no desire to stop the work of women, but wanted it to be women's work, and not men's work. He did men, but wanted it to be women's work, and not men's work. He did not believe the statement that women are more religious than men, and reminded this Synod that vestries do not, deal with religious matters, but only with business. He admitted there was force in the argument that if women pay to support the church they ought to have a voice, but felt they should consider the consequences of admitting them to vestries. He did not favor taking women out of their sphere. bottom, are practically inaestructure and it is impossible for the trimmer to make a mistake in fitting the globe to the joints. The metallic joint consists of a thin piece of metal that will adjust itself to any slight inequalities there may be in the glass globe. A spring at the bottom takes up the contraction and expansion of the globe so as to keep the joints in air tight contact with the globe, This spring is mainly for use in counteracting the effects of expansion and contraction produced by the heat of the lamp.

It now costs the city about $300 per year for carbons. By the use of Jones' attachment the carbons would cost $50, since besides a saving in carbons, a smaller earbon, costing less money,

I doubt whether there is any one little thing on earth that affords an elderly person so much pleasure as to find a glass that will give them good vision after their eyes once begin to fail; something that will "make them see as they used to." Prompt Attention

When we first came here we printed in the papers that we had ideas, and, every now, and then, we have told you of some one of these ideas.

For instance, it's an idea of ours to give constant and personal attention to the manufacture of our clothing; to the buying of our materials, and to the inspection of every garment.

This personal attention saves us many a dollar both of expense and loss and goes far in the reckoning that permits us to sell for less than other merchants could buy.

Besides all that they can't buy equally good garments in Canada anywhere for we don't sell to the trade.
