PENSIONS FOR EVERYBODY.

Parliament spent some thousands of of time the other day on a motion re old age pensions, and a com-mittee was appointed to look into it the speakers on either side regarded the question as a pressing one, but it was agreed to investigate it. Sir Wilfrid said that in any such scheme the object should be to give relief to those who have not been able to provide for themselves, and that it should not be given as charity. Ralph Smith thought everybody should be pensioned at a certain age, rich and poor alike, but this opinion the Premier was not prepared to approve. Mr. Foster did not do their duty to the Constitution-for think there was any requirement at this stage for such a measure in Canada, and that view was shared by many members. Hon. Mr. Fielding, while favoring an in quiry, saw many difficulties to be faced. Pensions must either be given to all at a certain age, or only to the needy and deserving. To give pensions to all would be, it is obvious, taxation of all the people, poor and rich, to provide a gift $150 a year to every man, the well-to-do as well as the needy, and the latter constitute but a small proportion of the population. Then, the question of fixing a standard of necessitousness in a system of pensioning only the few needy, offers much difficulty, and opens way to many abuses. Whether con tributions should be made by those eligi ble to be pensioned is a question of con siderable financial importance. In 1900 Canada had 270,000 persons of 65 years and over. At $150 a year, the cost of such a pension system would amount to about $40,000,000 yearly. That money would have to come from somewhere all out of taxes, or partly out of conthe expecting-to-be pen tributions by Nobody can contemplate the adoption of a scheme which would add about 60 per cent, to our annual expenditure, without perceiving that it would involve grave considerations. It may be well enough to gather facts as to this pension business, but it will be the part of wisdom to go slowly in entering upon any legislation which would commit our people to such unCanadian devices. They nack of lack of confidence in the coun try's manhood, justice and benevolence

"LAW AND JUSTICE."

The pernicious activity of the selfappointed municipal association well illustrated in the effort made last session to get a bill through the Legislature depriving citizens of right of action for damages against municipal corporations arising out of their neglect duty in allowing streets, etc., to fall into a dangerous condition. A similar measure was introduced into the Manttoba Legislature the other day providing thaddamages recoverable against'a municipality, in any action in connection with an alleged accident, "shall be wholly limited and confined to the money actually paid out and expended by having instituted such action for medical attendance, medicines and nurs ing, and shall in no case include any ount for loss of time of such person, and that the plaintiffs in such cases should not be entitled to bring the suits before juries. Hon. Mr. Coldwell, who ged the hill excused it by the plea that Councillors could not be expected to give their whole time to the service of the municipalities! He adthat such legislation might re sult in hardship but he said it was framed on a principle of "the greatest good to the greatest number"! If any thing were needed to accentuate the at aus character of the bill an excuse like that offered by Mr. Coldwell fur nished it Think of the hald statement that thousands are interested in a municipal corporation, therefore, if those isands cause one citizen great loss, he shall not be entitled to full compensation, but the scales of justice shall be loaded against him. Would it not be equally in point to say that because hun- application before the Dominion Raildreds of share holders are interested in a railway therefore no single passenger shall be allowed to recover compensation for injuries sustained by through its neglect? The monstrous character of the bill evoked vigorous protest and Premier Roblin agreed to its postponement. But there is a danger that it will yet become law. The neces sity of discriminating between "law" and "justice" becomes yearly greater.

MANUFACTURING SCANDALS.

The Halifax Chronicle draws attention to the fact that not one of th. Opposition blusterers have dared to accept Mr. Turriff's challenge to them to lay a charge against him in his capacity as an official of the Publie Lands Department, or as a member of the House, which would have been the manly and straightforward provided for by the rules. They have contented themselves with a great deal of insinuation, backed by violanguage, but they shy at taking the proper steps to convict Mr. Turriff or the Government of wrongs in this timber limit "scandal," or to that, but their organs suppress or distort the speeches of the Govern icy of coercion for Treland, and says the ment members and try to deceive the only guilty of similar, or worse, scandals When a muck-rake campaign like port of a majority of the British people od and suppression of facts, the public will not fail to justly estimate thing to see the Council of 1908 pinchths motives of the men engaged in it. ing itself to pay off a $42,000 over-

THE NATAL ACT.

The Vancouver Province, edited by a the chief organ of the McBride Government, and foremost in defending its policy and its course in the Natal Act performance. The Province makes no pretence of regarding its course as more than a play to the gallery, but it takes great satisfaction out of the enactment of that measure. Oddly enough, it approves of Mr. Bowser's course in so violating the spirit, if not the letter, of as to render it useless, even if it were ultra vires, had it been assented to, and at the same time boasts that the Government knew that if it had been assent ed to, it would promptly have been disallowed as beyond the power of the Pro vince and contrary to the policy of the Empire. This glorification of McBride's -all of whom were sworn to disregarding it, exceeding their constitu tional authority and for the purpose of making a little clap-trap partisan gain, violating the spirit, if not the letter, fo their oaths and setting out to antagon ze not only the policy of the Dominion but of the Empire, is not a task many men or newspapers would feel honored to have assigned to them.

Those well acquainted with the facts say that cases of genuine suf-fering are very few.—Mail and Empire.

There is a danger that even a mendable work, such as is being Toronto, in relieving distress, may be accompanied by too much horn-blowing. And even the most laudable efforts of beneficent charity, if not guided by wise discrimination, may become a cause of pauperization, and an invitation to certain classes to abuse the generosity of their fellows.

The London Free Press, which seems inclined to swallow the old-age pension proposal holus-bolus, ridicules any con sideration of its effect on the country inances. The $40,000,000 which it might sost, is not to be taken as a factor in ealing with it. It nooh noohs the idea that more than a tithe of the 270,000 persons of the age of 65 in Canada at the last census, would "need" such aid. Let us grant that; are only they to re ceive it? How are they to be selected? Who is to select them? Is there not grave difficulty to be encountered here? And to relieve 27,000 people, is such complication desirable? Is it necessary

"THE MONTHS OF THE YEAR."

The year comes in with shout and laughter. And see, twelve months come following after First, January all in white,
Then February short and bright,
See breezy March go tearing round,
But tearful April makes no sound,
May brings a pole with flowers crowned.
While June strews roses on the ground,
A popi A bast. "What a dreadful din!"
Seytember brings her golden sheaves,
October waves her pretty leaves,
While pale November waits to see
December brings her pretty leaves,
While pale November waits to see
They all join hands to make a ring,
And as they dance, they merrily sing,
Yewley months we are, you see us here,
We make the circle of the year,
We dance and sing, and children dear,
We wish you all a glad New Year.
