TO-DAY'S Messages.

11.00 A.M.

HALIFAX DRY.

HALIFAX, To-day. Halifax is "Dry" to-day, prohibition law having gone into effect at midnight. Every liquor dealer in the city (46 in number) when he closed last night locked the door to remain closed.

MORE GREEK DUPLICITY.

ATHENS, To-day. The Entente Powers are most dissatisfied with the Greek Government's purpose to take two months to demolish the Greek army. Diplomatic officials made representation this morning to the Government that a month was regarded as sufficient. There appears to be growing a suspicion in Entente circles of the sincerity of the Greek intentions. Gen. Yanakitsis, former War Minister, has been ordered to Katerina near the Allies' lines.

RUSSIANS THREATEN KOLOMEA.

LONDON, To-day. That the Russians are slowly but surely closing in on Kolomea in Galicia is shown by both the Russian and Austrian official reports to-night. Heavy battles are proceeding east of this important railroad junction. The Russians have captured three lines of Austrian trenches, compelling the Austrians to retire their lines southward. Kolomea is now closely pressed from both north and east, while to the southeast the Russian occupation of Kimpolung in Bukovina opens all the routes into Hungary.

WILSON ON AMERICAN IDEALS.

PHILADELPHIA, To-day. President Wilson describing himself as "in fighting mood" indicated to-day before a large crowd in Independence Square his conception of some cardinal American ideals. He declared America in dealing with other nations must indicate at whatever cost its principles of liberty, justice and humanity; that "America first" must be translated into action, exalting it above selfish interests; and that the nation's policy and development must be guided by the whole people and not by any small group. The crowd liked particularly the President's declaration that American principles must be vindicated in the country's foreign relations, which apparently has been interpreted as referring to the Mexican situation. At no time, however, did Wilson mention Mexico or any other foreign nation directly.

12.30 P.M.

FINE BRITISH ARTILLERY.

PARIS, To-day. A correspondent of Liberte on the British front says the intensity of the British artillery at certain points is frightful. Shell followings shell at only a few seconds interval. The efficacy of the fire has been noted by reconnoitering parties; not only the first line of trenches has been wrecked over a considerable area and some of them entirely straightened out, but the second line and third line of defences have come under the British fire. Two munition depots five miles in the rear have been blown up. The prisoners brought back by the British appear to be stunned.

PLEADS FOR CASEMENT.

LONDON, To-day. The Manchester Guardian, one of the most influential papers in the country, makes a direct plea for clemency for Casement. While admitting that no other sentence but that of death could have been pronounced by the Court, the Guardian says, "Casement was a fanatic and his crimes, like those of many other fanatics, are free from taint of sordidness and meanness. The death penalty will do nothing to kill such dreams as his, rather will it give them life. For the sake of the New Ireland which we hope to see, it is a moment for clemency." An indirect plea for mercy is made by other papers on the ground that the execution of Casement would not assist in settling the Irish problem.

AT VERDUN.

PARIS, To-day. In a terrific attack upon the French positions east of Hill 304 in the Verdun sector the Germans captured a fortified work in the first line of French trenches after the garrison had been literally buried under a storm of shells. The position was recaptured by a brilliant French counter attack, according to an official statement issued to-day. The Germans also delivered a powerful attack on the French in Avocourt Wood, and west of Hill 304, but all their efforts are declared to have been checked with heavy losses to the attackers. Considerable activity is reported on the front from Neuport to the Aisne.

MEXICAN SITUATION STILL UNCERTAIN.

WASHINGTON, To-day. The Mexican situation stood to-day virtually where it was 24 hours ago, except that more national guardsmen were hurrying to the border and the time allowed Carranza to declare his intentions towards American troops in Mexico, is growing shorter.

New Bakery.

We take pleasure in announcing, as will be seen by advertisement elsewhere, the opening of Stewart's new bakery on Water Street, opposite the Seamen's Institute. This new concern guarantees to supply the trade with all fancy goods, baked on the most improved methods and under the personal supervision of Mr. C. W. Johnston, who has had 15 years' experience in the fancy baking line in Canada and the United States and who for the past eighteen months was engaged at Tesop's bakery. He is a man of high credentials and is bound to please the public generally by the prompt, efficient and courteous service which he assures them. The slogan of the new establishment will be that their products will contain nothing but the choicest of materials—no substitutes will be used. We bespeak for the new bakery a good slice of public patronage.

KYLE'S PASSENGERS.—The following first class passengers reached Port aux Basques on the Kyle this morning:—Miss M. Osbourne, Mr. M. W. Vanverden, L. G. Richards, M. Yall, Mrs. J. J. Mahoney, Mrs. W. A. Shanahan, Rev. W. G. Fowler, A. T. Coleman, S. Ivamy, M. Acrie, A. Urquhart, Miss Doyle, Mrs. M. Kenny, W. Vincent.

Popular Lecture.

We feel sure that the public of St. John's will receive with pleasure the announcement that Lieut-Commander Howley, formerly of H. M. S. Irresistible, has consented to give an account of the work of the British Navy in the Dardanelles during the early part of this Great War. We listened with rapt attention to the account of the work of our soldiers from one of Newfoundland's brave sons, and it will be with equal interest that we will hear of the silent but great deeds of the Senior Service, from another of Newfoundland's sons and heroes, who has fought and suffered "a hundred wounds" for the freedom of our homes.

McMurdo's Store News

FRIDAY, June 30th, 1916. Besides Every Ready Safety Blades and Danderine, mentioned in this column yesterday we note the arrival of Limestone Phosphates, Jad Salts, Murray and Lannans Florida Water (the original Florida Water) two sizes, Powers Asthma Remedy, Kresol, a specially powerful disinfectant, Thiallan, Effervescent Sodium Phosphate (Parke Davis & Co.'s) Russell's Emulsion of Mixed Fats, Soudozon Tooth Powder, Cotolia Liquid Court Plaster, Pearl Sewing Machine Oil and Moxie.

We have just opened also, a fairly extensive line of Bulb and Fountain Syringes of good qualities of which we invite inspection.

Wedding Bells

MURPHY-LAWTON.

The marriage of Miss Gertrude Lawton, daughter of Mr. J. T. Lawton, J.P., East Wabana, and Mr. John B. Murphy, of the D. L. & S. Co., took place at Bell Island on Tuesday last, the Rev. J. J. McGrath, P.P., assisted by Rev. T. Nangle and Rev. E. P. Goff officiating. The bride, who was charmingly attired, was given away by her father and attended by Miss Mary Hanrahan of Hr. Grace and Miss Bride Murphy of Bell Island. The groom was supported by his brother, Leuit. L. C. Murphy, 1st Nfd. Regiment. Following a wedding breakfast Mr. and Mrs. Murphy left for Holyrood and will tour other Conception Bay points on their honeymoon. Their numerous friends wish them unclouded happiness.

GOURLEY-GLYNN.

A very pretty wedding took place at 3.30 yesterday afternoon in St. Patrick's Church when Mr. John Gourley of the Plaiddealer staff was united in the bonds of marriage to Miss Catherine Francis Glynn, daughter of the late Mr. Mark Glynn of Bay Bulls. The wedding ceremony was performed by the Rev. Fr. Renouf. The groom was supported by Mr. M. J. O'Brien, while Miss Agatha Gatheral acted as bridesmaid. After the ceremony the happy couple, accompanied by a number of friends and relatives, proceeded to the home of Mrs. Gourley, Pleasant Street, and partook of the wedding feast. The bride, who is very popular among her friends, received many valuable and useful presents. The happy couple left by the Trepassey train at 5 p.m. yesterday for Bay Bulls where the honeymoon will be spent. We wish Mr. and Mrs. Gourley many years of married happiness.

A Tunnel Attack.

(By "Tunneller.") For several days the tunnellers had been busy day and night putting in the charge of explosive to blow up the mine.

It was no small undertaking, for the gallery in which it was laid was over a hundred yards from the shaft or outlet and only measured about 2 ft. high by 30 in. wide.

All the explosive had to be carried very carefully and placed in position, and the Boches were working so very close to us that it was imperative to make no noise or the whole business would be given away.

After the explosive a quantity of "stemming," consisting of sandbags well filled with clay and rubbish, had to be built up to prevent the force of the explosion following the line of least resistance and simply expending its force along our own gallery and probably damaging our own lines.

This particular mine was so close to the German trenches that you could hear their rifle-bolts 'click' as they unloaded after firing. Moreover, with a view to blowing a ready-made communication trench the mine was so close to the surface that the concussion from the explosion of even the lighter shells from our guns falling short and anywhere near us put all the candles out.

One of the greatest difficulties connected with these operations is to ventilate the galleries and avoid the noise made by mechanical ventilators or fans, and, as the "stemming" has to be passed from hand to hand to ensure quiet, the number of men necessary in a gallery a hundred yards long is so considerable that the air is rarely good enough to allow a candle to burn.

In this instance we were also without electric lamps, and the work had to be done almost entirely in the dark—at any rate, during the last twenty-four hours.

The infantry attack was timed to begin at 4.30 a.m., and the mines had to be exploded at 4.29 a.m., so that the infantry might rush forward under cover of the smoke from the explosion.

In these circumstances it was very important to have our watches set to the exact time of the Brigade Headquarters so that there would be no confusion and that our infantry might not start too early and be blown up by our own mines. The strain of the last few minutes waiting for the exact moment to come was very trying.

However, we had just "one difficulty on top of another" to contend with, and it was 4.25 a.m. before we were actually ready to fire. So that we had only four minutes to spare.

At this time it was simply raining shells and trench mortars all around, and in the darkness before dawn the vivid flashes of our own guns, as well as those of the bursting German shells, blazed out, even though the air was thick with the fumes and reek of the explosives.

Still, our men, who had put in such strenuous work for so many hours, were glad when they were ready to get away, and left the front line to go down the communication trench with as little concern as ever they did, despite the fact that these communication trenches and the second and reserve lines, are always constantly bombarded during an attack to try to prevent reserves coming up to the front line.

Fortunately they all got out without a scratch, but they dropped a quantity of their "tackle"—hammers, saws, airpicks, shovels, and the like—in their hurry, as I discovered afterwards when I left after firing the mines.

The time came at last, and we pushed down the handles of the exploders. So great was the concussion of the shells dropping at the time that for the life of me I thought the charge had failed, though such a charge or series of charges as we were firing was sufficient to shake down dug-outs several hundred yards away.

To make sure we hurriedly changed the connections on the batteries, using three exploders for each separate charge, and then when our minute's grace was almost up we gave up troubling further and came out from our improvised shelter, feeling that we had failed.

How pleased we were to meet a cheery captain as we went along the front line towards the communication trench, who told us the mine had exploded splendidly!

had taken the first three lines of German trenches.

The sappers, too, had rushed out, and with pick and shovel were busy making the connection blown by our mine into a communication trench by which ammunition and reserves could be brought forward to the line.

This work brought to light the fact that we had blown in a German gallery within four feet of our own and had killed at least four Germans by the explosion—how many more there might have been in their demolished gallery one could not say.

For our part, tired out by the exertions of the previous few days, it was not long before we were back at billets and fast asleep, and it was a most pleasant reflection as we lay down to rest that we had carried out our work with the best possible results and without a casualty of any kind.

"Living It Down."

Almost every music-hall star aims at playing Hamlet or Ophelia eventually, so that it is no matter for wonder that Charles Heber Clark, who lately died at a ripe old age, should have spent over thirty years of his life in living down the tremendous reputation he made as Max Adler.

He was the son of a parson, but the comic spirit got the better of the atmosphere of the manse, and he convulsed two continents with "Elbow Room" and "Out of the Hurly-burly," two of the funniest books ever written.

As a humorist he had the world at his feet, when his serious side suddenly rebelled, kicked the humorous side out of doors, and tried to forget it had ever lived there. Charles Heber Clark resided in "despising Max Adler to the day of his death.

Even Mark Twain was ashamed of the story which made his name, "The Jumping Frog." He could not bear to be described as "The Author of 'The Jumping Frog.'" Yet it was that story which sent his name—or rather, his nom-de-plume—all round the world.

Exactly a similar thing happened to another great humorist, Bret Harte. In a happy moment he wrote a poem called "The Heathen Chinee," which commenced, "Which I beg to remark and my language is plain."

It struck a new note. The world had never read a poem like that before. It made Bret Harte's name. Yet he hated to be told so, and tried to live it down.

Browning and Byron were so ashamed of their juvenile efforts in verse that they both tried their best to destroy the copies. Browning succeeded. It is a remarkable fact that not a single copy of Browning's immature work remains. He actually succeeded in living it down—by burning every copy!—Answers.
