A few days ago the child wrote : letter to the papers asking assistance. Her father had deserted her, she said, and she was cold and hungry. And she piteously asked papa to come home. This was all right as far as it went. But the police have since learned that the same letter have been appearing in the papers of Detroit, Harry ilton. Toronto and other cities.

Investigation also showed that the child was not in indigent circumstances. The family lives in a flat up stairs at the above address. The mother is a deaf mute, as is also the larly every week, as the letter carrier on the beat can testify, and is also said to make regular remittances. The family has lived in its present quarters for seventeen months, and the landlord has never known them to be cold or hungry.

Today the police received a letter from the Detroit News to the effect that little Grace Jefferson is advertising for assistance in the papers there, and the paper wants to know if she! is a fake. Thus the matter stands. Inspector Sanders, with an Adver- the police are working on the case,

Say, advertising is a great game I've been here in the ad-alley for quite a while, and I've got next to some mighty interesting things. A kid can't work in the ad-alley very long without getting wise to a whole heap. It strikes me that there's a great big bunch of people around this old town who haven't got the proper notion about advertising. They seem to think that when our solicitor comes into the store he's going to try to sell them a chunk of the blue sky. Now, that's dead wrong. The best stores in town are the stores that advertise.
