On this date, people born partake of the diverse elements of Cancer and Leo. In this position are found the elements of fire and water—very wet water and very hot fire. These natives are often intellectual geniuses, and usually ambitious and desirous of occupying the best places. No pains should be spared to familiarize children of this date and mixed birthsign, with the laws of life, and especially those governing the sex functions. Especial care should be given to their diet and their hours of rest and sleep. The educated and well-reared Cancer Leo person is a beautiful character, so it behooves parents of these children to see to it that right.
