another terribly fatal disaster was added to the list which has already made 1889 a memor-able year in the history of the Dominion. The day was just breaking over the St. Lawrence at Pointe aux Trembles when the Allan mail steamship Polynesian, Captain Hugh Wylie, and the Donaldson liner Cynthia, Captain John Tyler, crashed together in a disastrous nel, opposite Pointe aux Trembles, when she perceived the Cynthia, inward bound. There is a dangerous curve at this point in the channel, and through some misunderstanding of the "rules of the road" the Polynesian was brought into collision with the Cynthia, striking her on the port bow, causing such a gap in the side of the unfortunate ship as to sink her in a very few minutes. The hull filled with great rapidity. Those on deck had barely lime to rash below and warn the crew off watch and in their berths asleep to get on deck land swim ashore to save their lives. Fortunately the Cynthia carried no passengers, otherwise no doubt many lives would have been sacrificed.

The Cynthia was inward bound from Glasgow with a general cargo, chiefly pig iron. Several of the crew of the Cynthia, seen after their swim ashore, were penniless and they were endeavoring to obtain a passage by the street cars to the city. The captain offered his watch as security and also promised payment on arriving at the company's office, but the car conductor refused to accept the watch and said he could not take the men up for the further reason that the car was required for workmen who used it on that trip. The angry sailors seemed inclined to take possession of the car and force it to proceed, but in obedience to their captain they refrained from doing so.

The ion of part of one side, was all that was at Points aux Trembles shertly after the collision. The vessel had totally disappeared and was lying at the bottom, not more than twelve feet from shore. According to the people in the vicinity, some of whom witnessed the catastrophe, the collision took place about 440 and in 20 minutes more the boat had disappeared. The bow which was struck went down first, lifting the screw partly out of water, and then she toppled over, throwing all but three men into the water. Most of those could swim and saved themselves, but the pilot, who was carried away by the tide, being in great danger of drowning, the three men who were on the bulk refused to leave when a boat came to the Polynesian ought not to have stood by the Cynthia and rendered what assistance she could they said it was utterly impossible. With the "way" on her caused by full speed down stream she could not have stopped, and even if she could have stopped in a short distance she would have been unable to turn in the narrow channel so as to get back to the scene of the accident.

She Has Received Serious Injury - The Buenos Ayrean to Take the Mails. QUEBEC, May 22.-The Polynesian, which was in collision this morning with the Cynthia, arrived here safely at 9 o'clock this evening. She has received serious injury, the extent of which cannot be known until the surveyors have made their report. It cannot be learned at present when she is likely to be ready for sea. Arrangements have been made by which the steamship Buenos Ayrean will carry this week's mails intended for the Polynesian. WAS IT A MURDER?

CHICAGO, May 22.—The dead body of Dr. P. H. Cronin, the Irish-American who strangely disappeared from his home in Chicago two weeks ago, was found this evening some disweeks ago, was found this evening some distance north of the city in a sewer in Evanstonavenue. A bloody towel was wrapped about the head. The rest of the body was stark naked. A Catholic emblem which the doctor wore next his skin suspended about his neck was untouched. On the dead man's head were a dozen deep cuts which had severed the scalp and indented the skull. It is the opinion of the police that Cronin was murdered by some man who could not bring himself to disturb a Catholic trinket. Time Given The Mail to Plead. MONTREAL, May 22.—A motion was made before Judge Wurtele in Chambers to-day by the attorneys for the defendant in the Jesuits-Mail case, asking that delay be granted for pleading to the meries of the action until September next, when the appeal from the judgment on exception to form will come up.

The motion was granted.

The sailors of the Cynthia claim that the Polynesian steamed right shead, and that had she stopped she could have saved the men who were drowned. They also state that there were fifteen men on shore who, although there were boats near by, did not raise a finger even in an attempt to rescue the drowning men. The Polynesian had a big hole stove in her bow.

What Capisia Taylor Says.

At the time of the collision Captain Taylor was on the bridge and he says the Cynthia was on her proper side of the river. The rule of sea likewise prevails in rivers that seals are she contends, is proof positive that she was in her proper-course, and as the Polynesian in the riverer-course, and as the Polynesian struck her on the stateward side he contends this shows that some how or other she was going out of her proper course. He believes that some how or other she was going out of her proper course. He believes that something had gone wrong with the steering gear of the Polynesian, as otherwise she could hardly have gone so astray, or was probably being steered from the beidge, as was the case with the Cynthia.

INSURANCE OF THE BOVINES.

It Provokes a War between Cattle Dealers and Steamship Companies.

At the meeting of the Board of Trade Council yesterday afternoon a deputation from the Dominion Live Stock Association presented themselves to urge their grievance against the ocean steamship companies. Mr. John Dunn, presidentof the association; William Thompson, ireasurer, and C. Flannigan, vice-president, composed the deputation.

A sum mary of their position in relation to the steamship companies is as sollows:

The alian, Dominion and Beaver Steamship Lines have entered into an agreement whereby they compel all shippers of live stock by their lines to accept such insurance policies as they are pleased to give them, and at such rates and valuations as said steamship owners dictate.

missioner Chambers. Major James Mason, Col. R. B. Denison, Captain Sloan and Capt. Macdougall, representing the Grenadiers, Body Guard and "C" Co. respectively were also present. The chairman-spoke in pretry strong terms about the "wilful misrepresentations" of certain persons in the matter of band concerts on Sundays in Queen's Park. If the gentlemen he referred to were as particular to avoid misrepresentation as they were active in protecting public morals and Sunday sanctity it would improve them. Rev. Dm Potts should have been sure of his facts before attacking the committee. Touching in the legal yiew of the case there was nothing in the statutes to prevent concerts in the parks on Sundays. If military bunds were to be excluded all bands should have the same rule applied to them, the Salvation Army as well as the rest.

The committee decided not to engage "C" Co. Band to play in the parks. Ald. Hill moved, after hearing Major Mason, that $180 of the $200 grant be given exclusively to the Queen's Own, Royal Grenadiers and Body Tuards bands, the remaining $1000 to be used to engage private bands as the committee might direct. A medion of Ald. St. Leger that no private band with less than 25 pieces be engaged was carried. The chairman announced that the program would be ready by next Monday.

An offer to surrender the Zoological Gardens lease to the city on behalf of W. J. Turriff for $3000 was referred to the City Solicitor. Commissioner Coombs. wrote the committee that the bands which played in the Horticultural Gardens two Sundays ago did not belong to the Armay. It was explained that the band was one belonging to "The Christian League." It was resolved to recommend that all preaching, etc., be forbidden in the gardens on Sundays.

A proposition from David Ward, John Fleming, A. J. Tymos and W. G. Murphy to lease Island Park for a term of five years was tabled as not worth consideration. M. E. Park declared his willingness to do the dredging at Island Park at 2c less per yard than last year's price. Tenders for the erection of a water windmill and tank on Island Park will be called for. The Pavilion had yielded a revenue during the months of January, February, March and April of $1831.

Tenders for the pavilions and shelters in High and Queen's Parks were let as follows: Pavilion in High Park, ditto, $1775; ten shelters, $200—or a total of $4425. The painting contract fell to Mr. Harrington at $400.

Jacob Levi appeared to answer to two charges of obtaining money by false pretences. In November, 1887, the Grand Jury returned true bills against him of these charges, but he disappeared and was not seen in Toronto for some time. He turned up in court yesterday, but the crown had no evidence to offer and he was discharged.

Ayoung man named William Stuart was tried on the charge of having obtained from Ble asdall & Co. $150 worth of goods by false pretences, representing himself to be worth considerable more money than he really was, and having afterwards assigned at 5c. on the dollar. The evidence was heard and the counsel addressed the jury. Judge Morgan will deliver his charge this morning.
