

of the missionaries as that among the widows. So much has been written and said on this subject that one sometimes wonders if anything more can be told, or if there is any Christian in our land who has not been moved by the pitiable condition of this most despised and wretched class of beings. Yet, as long as any heart is untouched by the sufferings of Hindu widows, no word regarding them can be superfluous. More than this, in the story of Comul Dasee, a Bengalee widow, and the persecutions which she, a woman of strong character and far more than common intelligence, was forced by her heathen relatives to undergo, after accepting Christ, Mrs. Lee has presented a tale of fresh interest and real significance.

The African News contains much valuable information, not only on missionary operations in that land, but extremely interesting and useful articles connected with the opening up to commerce and civilization of this wonderful country. Its facts are gathered largely from Africa's fields and forests by the editor-in-chief and his co-workers at the front. A new and remarkable work, "The Story of a Slaver," which is an authentic testimony giving an inside view of Africa as it was sixty years ago, has been begun in the June number and adds much to the interest of the journal.

The Literature Committee has received such favorable terms from Mr. Ross Taylor that it is able to offer the journal to subscribers at the low rate of 75 cents a year; 6 months for 38 cents. Sent 5 cents for a sample copy to Miss OGDEN, Room 20, Wesley Buildings, Toronto, Ont.
