We do not hold ourselves responsible for the views expressed in communications over the name, initials or other characters representing the contributor.

We prefer that remittances be made by post-office order or by registered letters. If bank drafts are sent from the United States they should be made payable at New York or Chicago. Postage stamps (American or Canadian) are accepted for change.

Before this issue comes from press Genesee Yearly Meeting will be commenced, and we trust its work of 1892 will be faithfully performed.

The following questions have been sent by a contributor for insertion in the REVIEW. We willingly publish them, and the interesting answers that may be sent in reply. We hope our Young Friends will look them up, study them out, and send them for the benefit of others.—[Eds.]

1. Paul presented two fields of labor. The one of command, and the other of permission. What sort of merit does the latter service entitle the laborer? and to what extent is an assembly benefitted by such instruction?

2. What limitation (if any), had Jesus different from the rest of the human family? H. G. M.

PHILADELPHIA YEARLY MEETING.

Gleaned from reports in the "Public Ledger."

PUBLIC MEETINGS ON FIRST-DAY.

The attendance at the meetings held at Cherry and at Race streets yesterday morning were unusually large and of special interest. At the Race street meeting John J. Cornell gave an able discourse upon the plan of salvation as taught by this denomination. Isaac Wilson and Levi L. Benson spoke very earnestly at Cherry street meeting.

William M. Way, of Baltimore Yearly Meeting, and others, spoke at Girard avenue meeting.

The Youth's meeting, at Race street, was very large and interesting. Exercises were opened by reading the Scriptures by Sarah A. Conard. John J. Cornell gave the opening address. Several First-day schools participated.

Levi L. Benson, Isaac Hicks, Ellison Newport and Thomas Sherard spoke at Race street meeting last evening, and John J. Cornell at Fourth and Green.

SECOND-DAY'S SESSIONS OF MEN'S AND WOMEN'S BRANCHES.

The Second-day's session of Friends' Yearly Meeting opened yesterday at 10 o'clock. The subject of the revision of the Book of Discipline occupied the entire morning session. Prior to the business being taken up short sermons were delivered by Ellison Newport, Levi L. Benson and Robert Hatton.

A general feeling of quietness and moderation prevailed, and, after due consideration, the report of the committee favoring a general revision was adopted, and a committee, consisting of three from each quarter, was appointed to unite with a similar com-
