"HEALTHY" WATCHWORD OF THE FARMERS' DAIRY

Cleanliness and Efficiency to a High Degree Characterizes Every Department.

BUSINESS VOLUME BIG

Six Years Has Witnessed Such Marvelous Progress as Good Methods Deserve.

Representatives of the press were taken through the new building and plant of the Farmers' Dairy Company at the corner of Walmer road and Bridgman street yesterday, and found how milk is handled in one of the most up-to-date institutions of its kind in the world.

Most people in this and about every other large city have fallen into the habit of expecting the milk to arrive every morning in time for breakfast, without ever considering how it got there or what has taken place since the cows came home from pasture. The milk opens the back door and takes in the milk bottles of a morning; the housewife puts out the empty bottles and the milk tickets at a neat, airy, and clean place.

But there is a great deal of organized, carefully planned scientific work done before the milk ever reaches the back door step. The distribution of milk in a big city is a specialized business nowadays, enlisting new ideas and inventions on the part of Mr. R. D. Hughes, manager of the company, and Mr. W. G.
Cowie, the superintendent of the plant.

500 Farmers' Daily Stock.
The Farmers' Dairy is an organization of farmers who shipped milk to Toronto, and became disatisfied with the methods of those who distributed it here. Beginning in a small way the farmers started out with three delivery wagons six years ago. The 500 farmers are stockholders in the company, and the dairy employs 45 delivered wagons, and carries 110 work-people. The new building, now practically completed, was begun last November, and its situation is a scarcely favorable one, being in the heart of the residential district. With the new stalls, built to accommodate 150 horses, the total cost of the plant will reach a quarter of a million dollars.

Most impressive are the evidences everywhere in this modern of cleanliness that germ-proof cleanliness is absolutely assured. The employees wear white duck clothing, and these suits are changed every day. Shower baths are provided for the workmen and used daily. No one enters the plant with anything but sterilized utensils. Except in the butter-making churns and the office furniture there is no wood to be seen. The floors are of concrete, and the "trap rock" variety of concrete, which is impervious to moisture. The walls and ceilings are painted with a white enamel paint, so as to make the surface absolutely smooth and polished, giving the sanitary effects of the building. No less than 400 gallons of paint were used to attain this effect. The whole place is flooded with sunshine from the basement. Fresh air is allowed in freely, and even forced in. Germs, if they ever arrive, are soon eliminated. There are no dark corners in the building, cracks or other places where dirt can accumulate. The bottles, cans, pails, vats, and all other vessels and utensils are subjected to the sterilizing effects of live steam, in the instant heat of which no germ or anything else can survive.

Thousands of Gallons Daily.
It is only six years since the Farmers' Dairy began delivering 25 gallons of milk per day in Toronto.
Now it is producing 300,000 gallons daily. And it is purer, cleaner milk than the folks back in the country get themselves.

Upstairs the next step is straining. Milk at the Farmers' Dairy is strained twice. First it is run into the Jensen pasteurizer—a big tank fitted with a steam coil pipe. This coil, when the milk arrives from the country, the cans are taken into the Receiving Room. Here a man is stationed to break the seals, inspect the condition of the milk in each can, All milk arrives each day between 9 a.m. and 1 p.m. Some of it has been shipped at an early hour from some morning, some of it taken from the cows the evening before was shipped the previous night. All milk arrives within nine hours' time in the city before being delivered. It then reaches the customer within 24 hours after milking time at the farm.
Adjoining the receiving room is the room where the cans are emptied into a great vat. From this vat a pipe line draws the milk up to the another vat on the third floor of the building. Here it is kept from "breathing" by five fans, which slowly draw back and forth through the milk, keeping it stirred. Meanwhile downstairs the farmers' cans, now empty, are being scrubbed in hot water and sterilized with live steam.

HAS QUARTER SHARE IN WINDSOR SHOPS

Henry Ford Does Not Control
Canadian Company, Says Manager.

MANY MEN AT FRONT

Three Thousand Men Employed in Canada by Concern —Shareholders in Trenches

By a Staff Reporter.
DETROIT, Oct. 4.—After seeing Henry Ford last Saturday in Detroit your correspondent had a talk with G. F. McGregor, the manager of the Ford Motor Works at Windsor. All the trouble about buying Ford cars by the government or by Canadian municipalities would have been avoided had it been generally known that the refusal to buy Ford cars at Windsor could only have affected Canadian business, a Canadian factory, Canadian workmen and Canadian capital. Henry Ford of Detroit does not own and does not even control the Windsor Ford Company. He owns 25 per cent. of the shares, and it is managed by a Canadian and run by Canadians, and three-parts owned by Canadians. To refuse to buy cars from a Canadian company because one of their shareholders happens to be an American would be as sensible as to refuse to buy munitions from American factories because the maker and his friends have money invested in the big American munition factories.

One scarcely expected to find Mr.
McGregor in an amiable mood over the attitude of his fellow-countrymen towards his own and his partner's enterprise. There is a decided contrast between Windsor and Detroit.
McGregor represents an effort to lessen the degree of the contrast.
But Mr. McGregor is a good square-headed Canadian, and he is not distressed to complain, but he would like the facts to be known before action is taken. He was willing, therefore, to talk about the Ford business.

"My brother and I," he said, "are considerable shareholders in the firm.
My brother is Capt. McGregor of the 1st Regiment, and Col. Robinson of the same regiment. He is also largely interested. Another big shareholder is Major Betty, who is at the front with the first contingent. We have 400 men gone to the war, and we are holding their positions open for them when they return. Our men get a minimum wage of four dollars a day. They do not leave that without having their hearts in the war, and they know how we feel. It costs money to train new men, but we are glad to do our share as far as we can.
"We employ about 3000 men. There are 150 men in the Windsor factory, and another thousand at various points. Galt, Brantford, Oshawa, Toronto and other places, making fittings. Naturally we are interested in the early closing would be a tremendous reduction in the consumption of beer, he pointed out.

People Should Decide.
James Richards declared that a license conferred with widespread powers such as the present one possessed should be responsible to the people. In his opinion an early closing rule should be submitted to a vote of the people. He did not see why soldiers should be deprived of rights they had before they enlisted.

"How do you account for the restrictions imposed in Great Britain?" asked Hon. Mr. Ferguson.
"I don't account for them; I am talking of conditions in Toronto," replied Mr. Richards. "In passing the early closing rule you are interfering with the very liberties of the people for which we pretend to be fighting." E. O'Leary of the Barkeepers' Union declared an early closing rule would cut off the workmen from his club, the barroom. It would seem to be discrimination in favor of the business men, who have access to his club in the evening," he concluded.

"It is almost enough to make men shun the militia," said Thomas Black of the cigarmakers, referring to the legislation which was proposed to cut the soldier off from his privileges.
"You don't see more drunken soldiers on the street than any other class of men," he said. "If you returned from a convention yesterday of over a million workmen in Malvern, where a resolution was passed adversing the affiliation of organized labor with the Moral Reform League owing to its attitude on the liquor question, early delivery means is interfering with the workmen's side of the case, and the deputation withdrew.

SCORES PRICES FOR CLOTHES.

One of the many considerations that influence us in deciding where to order our fall suit or overcoat, the question of price, will be to most of us of prime importance. Whether we have felt through circumstances the need of practicing economy, or, if only from a business caution, we feel it right to get the best value for our least money—the price is a great consideration.

LABOR MEN OPPOSE EARLY CLOSING LAW

Premier Hearst Hears Deputation From Cigarmakers' and Bartenders' Unions.

KEEP POOR MAN'S CLUB COME UP AGAIN TODAY

Labor's Case Against Curtailment of Drinking Hours is Presented.

Some twenty representatives of organized labor, particularly the cigarmakers' and barkeepers' unions, waited on Premier Hearst and members of the cabinet yesterday protesting against the proposed 7 o'clock closing of hotels on the grounds that it would throw thousands of men out of employment, cut down the working days of others and also deprive the working men of his only club room.

Three St. Catharines hotelmen admitted before the Ontario License Commission yesterday afternoon that they had sold liquor to guests after hours, and were rigidly censured by Chairman Flavelle, who withheld decision as to what punishment the infractors of the law would bring forth.
The men were William J. Gordis of the International Hotel; Curtis Copland, St. Catharines House, and Lockie & Powers of the Ellis House.

A. Powers of the Ellis House said that in the second week of September he had sold three bottles of beer to a boarder, who was entertaining three men in his room.
Mr. Gordis of the International also admitted selling a couple of bottles of beer to workmen in the shell factory late one night. He said his hotel was always well run and full up with boarders.

"I knew these men all my life and they imposed on my good nature," said Curtis Copland regarding his sales of guilty to selling beer after hours.
Chairman Flavelle announced that suspension or cancellation of license was likely to follow infractions of the law. "Understand, instead of police cutting down the early closing would men on flaking expeditions to hotelkeepers breaking the law. We send inspectors to investigate charges," said the chairman.

THE CAUSE OF STRIKE AT THE
CAFE ROYAL.
Management Say It Is Over the Question of Recognition of the Union.
In connection with the strike of the waiters at the CAFE ROYAL, the management yesterday stated to the World:
"There has been no recent cut in wages, as some of the men seem to state. The wages are the same as the bartenders in Toronto; in fact, the men make anywhere from $25 to $35 per week. The strike is over the question of recognition of the union.
On Friday evening at half-past six, eight in the middle of dinner, we were presented with an ultimatum to recognize the union or the men would strike. It was impossible for us to recognize the union. The union is not recognized in any large hotel or resaurant in Toronto; in fact, the men in Canada or the United States the strike caused only a momentary interruption of service. Today we have more employees than we require, and will have no difficulty in handling the large gathering, so far as we are concerned, the incident is entirely closed."

COME UP AGAIN TODAY

All Will Have to Appear in Regard to Renewal of Licenses.

While quashing the conviction of Andrew Altheaon by a Berlin magistrate on a charge of running a jitney service on specified routes without a license and of operating a five-passenger car without having a person approved by the chief of police as conductor, Mr. Justice Lennox has refused to interfere with the finding of the magistrate that Altheaon did on August last "loiter about the streets of Berlin in a cab which cab was an automobile. Altheaon had operated his car for three years. He had which which does not expire till the end of the year which allowed him to operate his car for hire every day on the Berlin streets with the exception of Sundays.

His Lordship regarded this license as a solemn contract into which the city entered. The prosecution, in the main, he stated, was not justifiable in good faith, but was brought for the ulterior purpose of putting Altheaon to the test of paying fees which the municipality had no right to exact, to eliminate competition with the city's own jitney system.

It was held recently by the district court of Timiskaming that it had no jurisdiction to try workmen's lien cases, which was less than $200, they were combined in one action and aggregated $20.20, and that the case should be tried by the division court.

Can Not Quash It.
The second appellate court has dismissed the action of W. H. Arthur quash the local option bylaw of the Town of Meaford, which was carried by the voters on January 1, 1914.
The history of the action dates from January, 1913, when irregularities in the election of the local option were discovered by both parties and the majority of one vote in favor of the bylaw was not recognized.

It was later agreed that another vote should be taken, and the result was an increased majority in favor of the bylaw. The action to quash it was thereby defeated. The action to quash it was held that action was not taken within the time specified by the statute.
The appeal of Clifford Borror, an employee of the Columbus Oil Co., from the decision of a Stratford magistrate, fining him $10 and $12.75 costs, for a traded breach of the transient traders' bylaw, has been allowed by Mr.
Justice Lennox, who holds that there was no evidence of a sale in the business of a transient trade by Borror.
The complainant who laid the information is directed to pay Borror $20.
The first appellate court has upheld the finding of Mr. Justice Middleton, in McFarlane v. Puddy, that a conveyance made by George Cole to his wife Sarah The Canadian Pressed Brick Co. of Hamilton claimed from the defendant, an account due for a quantity of bricks, but Cole pleaded inability to pay. The sum transferred by Cole to his wife was about $1750, but the trial judge held that the conveyance was null and void. "It is impossible to interfere with the verdict of the learned judge," stated Chief Justice Meredith.
"He seems to have arrived at a very clear conclusion."

Wounded British Veteran is Look-

Pte. John Jackson of the 2nd North-in the battle of the Marne, arrived in Toronto yesterday in search of work.

Pie Jackson said he came to Canada as he saw the Princess Pats in action.
"I just said to myself: If men like him live in Canada that is the country for me."
Pie Jackson was also at Mons where he was injured by a bullet which was returning to the front.

APPEAL SUCCEEDS AGAINST TOWNSHIP

Gosfield and Colchester North Win in Action About Drainage Scheme.

LOCAL OPTION REMAINS

Meaford Continues Dry According to Ruling of Second Appellate Court.

In a judgment handed down yesterday at Osgoode Hall by the second appellate court, Gosfield North and Colchester North succeeded in their appeal against the Township of Anderdon which endeavored to fasten part of the cost of a $100,000 drainage scheme, termed "preposterous" by the court, upon the appellants. According to the scheme which was to drain the watershed of the Canard River flowing thru Ezek into the Detroit River, Colchester was to pay $50,000 and Gosfield $11,000.

"It was never intended," stated the judgment, "that this act should be made the means of throwing away money. By no ingenuity can the pecuniary advantage, direct or indirect, be brought up to $50,000. There is no other kind of advantage suggested, aesthetic, piscatory or otherwise.
It is manifest that such a scheme should never be approved of. It would be throwing away money never too plentifully at this most critical time."

Did Not Interfere.

When Money is Tight

Practically all classes of investments—bonds, stocks, debentures, real estate—depreciate in value to a ruinous extent.
Investors are often forced into bankruptcy at such times through conditions over which they have no control.

But an Imperial Life policy never depreciates. On the contrary it continues to increase in value from the day it is issued until its maturity, no matter what financial conditions may be.

proof" investment fill out and return the coupon
