DIAMOND INDUSTRY IN BRITISH HANDS

Cutting of Stones May Yet All Be Done in England.

James Rylie interested a large audience at the Electric Club (Friday) luncheon with a talk on diamonds. Beginning with Manlius, A.D. 16, he traced their history to the present day.

The diamond was called invincible because it was the hardest, most unquarrelable and imperishable of minerals. Unlike other precious stones, it is found unattached in diamondiferous clay. There are grey, brown, yellow, blue, green and black varieties, but the steel-blue white is the most sought for. The slightly yellow to an off-color or by-water stone, but the rich deep yellow cutters, are very valuable. Diamonds are weighed in carats. A stone about the size of the tip of a lead pencil weighs one and a half karats. The "best" or off-color stones are used for commercial purposes, mining, drills, etc.

Only one stone has been found in Canada, so far, and is not much to look at. Mr. Rylie exhibited it to the audience. It was found in a gravel road within five hours of Toronto. Goleconda was at one time the centre of the diamond world. They had a tradition there that when the great architect of the universe had finished creating the world at this place the stones left over from the job were diamonds.

Mr. Rylie told the story of the South African diamond fields. Children playing with pebbles were the discoverers of the first stone which weighed 21 karats. The purchaser gave 600 sheep, some houses and farming utensils for it, and sold it for $55,000. When cut it was subsequently sold to the Earl of Dudley for $125,000. The South African diamond areas are not large, the Premier being 75 acres, and the Kimberly 10 acres. The shafts have been sunk 3700 feet or about half a mile deep. Mr. Rylie described the process of cutting and the three styles—the table, the rose, and the brilliant. In the latter the crown has 32 facets and the bottom 24.

Amsterdam and Antwerp have long been the centre of the diamond industry, but during the war a large number of the cutters went to England.

Oppenheimer's, near Brighton, employs 400 cutters, and another establishment is under way. New York pays four times the wages paid in Europe, but Mr. Rylie thought an effort should be made to concentrate the whole diamond industry in the British Empire, where alone they are found. Mr. Rylie described the chief large diamonds. A stone of 100 karats is about an inch across. The Kohinoor, native cut, weighed 185 karats. Recently it weighs 105 karats. The "Star of the South" weighed 204 and was cut to 125 karats and was bought by the Gakwar of Baroda for $450,000. He also owns the "Akbar Shah" and the "Empress Eugenie." The "Victoria" weighed 457 karats and was cut to 180, and was bought by the Nizam of Hyderabad for $2,000,000, the Nizam being wealthy and having 500 wives and 80 motor cars. The "Excelsior" is a most important diamond, weighing 971 karats, and the Great Cullinan diamond, found in the Premier mine, and presented by the Transvaal Government to King Edward, weighed 3025 carats, or one and a third pounds. It was cut into nine large stones, the largest being 500 karats.

MILITARY OFFENDERS PUNISHED
Magistrate Kingsford in the police court yesterday sentenced several soldiers for not having complied with the Military Service Act. Pte. Fred McCausland, who had been absent from his unit longer than his pass allowed, was given sixty days. Ptes. George Paquette and Len Kohlbrener were given each ninety days. Pte. Sylvanus Middings, 30 days, and George Carron, who claimed he had an attack of influenza, was remanded for sentence. Pte. Joseph Paquette deserted from the 27th Battalion twelve months ago and was sentenced to twelve months' imprisonment as a result. H. V. Armstrong was liable under the M.S.A. and for failing to notify the registrar of his change of address in the city, a fine of $50 was imposed.

FITTING MEMORIAL TO HEROIC DEAD

Suggestion That University Schools Found Scholarships for Soldiers' Sons.

The scholastic and military record of the University Schools was reviewed yesterday on the occasion of the annual visit of Sir Robert Falconer, who was accompanied by Hon. H. J. Cody, minister of education. Particularly interesting was the record of the school in the recent war as outlined by the head master, Prof. H. J. Crawford. Of the 380 graduates and boys of the school who had enlisted for active service 56 had been killed or died of wounds and 30 had received decorations for gallantry in action. Prof. Crawford intimated that a fitting memorial to the fallen might take the form of scholarships, which the boys could finance from their own savings, and which would be open to the sons of soldiers.

P. M. Porter, a teacher in the school, and C. W. Booth, whose son was killed in action, presented memorial scholarships. President Falconer congratulated the school on its record, and urged the boys now in attendance to carry on the work of the boys who had set such a courageous example. Dr. Cody also spoke. Dean Pakenham, the members of the staff, the faculty of education and the masters occupied seats on the platform.

Five Hundred Grandmothers Sewing Shirts for Serbians

The novel idea of a "grandmothers' campaign" has been launched by the University Supply Association, who are devoting this month to the Serbian relief. The idea is that 500 grandmothers should get together in the shape of an old-fashioned bee and knit a shirt each for 500 Serbian babes. Monday, Wednesday and Friday are the days set apart for the work, which will be carried on in the physics building of the university. Hundreds of yards of flannel and wool galore are waiting for workers. The girls of the university have taken charge of the layette. Other bodies of women are being appealed to to take charge of other departments of the work.

SEED RESTRICTIONS REMOVED.

The Canada Food Board has been informed that field and garden seeds have been removed from the restricted export list of the United States, and that American shippers in future do not require licenses for shipments of seeds coming into the Dominion. The removal of United States restrictions on flour also extends to Canada.

ONE OF BEST EVER IS LAID TO REST

Funeral of Captain (Dr.) Harry Smith is Impressive Ceremony.

With the rattle of muskets and the ringing sound of the "Last Post," Capt. (Dr.) Harry R. Smith was buried with full military honors in Mount Pleasant Cemetery yesterday afternoon. Never in the military history of Toronto has there been such an impressive ceremony. Five hundred men from the Hart House Hospital, General Gunn, officer commanding military district No. 2, Major Barton and other staff officers followed the gun carriage.

After a short but very impressive service in the home of his father, W. J. Smith, brother officers, acting as pallbearers, placed the casket on the gun carriage, and to the strains of the "Dead March in Saul" the cortege proceeded west on Yorkville avenue north on Yonge street to the cemetery. Five hundred returned soldiers and officers, some of whom had been prisoners of war in Germany, crowded around the graveside, standing stiffly at attention in respect for the officer of the "Dead March in Saul" the cortege proceeded west on Yorkville avenue north on Yonge street to the cemetery. A visit of Sir William Hearst to Chief Justice Sir William Meredith at Osgoode Hall has aroused the suspicion that the premier was probably asking the chief justice to be chairman of the royal commission which is to investigate the grievances of the Toronto police force. The latter refused to discuss the matter.

den, M.C., and James Somers were present on behalf of the city and in appreciation of Captain Smith's great work in the playgrounds, with which he was connected under the supervision of Mr. Armstrong.

Captain Smith was only 28 years of age. He was educated in the Toronto public schools, Jarvis Street Collegiate Institute and the University of Toronto, graduating in medicine in 1915. At college he took a great interest in athletics, playing on the punter and senior teams in the Mulock cup series and being captain of the university "gym" team. During his college career he was attached to the staff of The Globe and was with that paper some time.

Captain Smith was married last June to Miss Faye E. Schram of Detroit, who survives him. He is also survived by his parents, Mr. and Mrs. J. W. Smith, two sisters, Miss Eva and Mrs. W. C. Rutlan, and William E. Smith, a brother.

SUSPICION AROUSED.

The exclamation of one of the returned soldiers who stood at the grave will show what the men thought of the late captain. "He was the best ever."
