HINDENBURG LINE IS SMASHED AGAIN ON-

Fresnoy Taken by Canadians, and Other Points Gained.

STUBBORN DEFENCE MADE

German Losses in Men Are Reported as Very Large.

London, May 3.—The British troops have reached Cherisy, crossed the Hindenburg line toward Reincourt and are reported to have taken Bullecourt, says Reuter's correspondent at British head-quarters. The Canadian troops took Fresnoy farther north today.

The taking of Fresnoy and the reported capture of Bullecourt indicates that the British have smashed their way through the Hindenburg line at two points twelve miles apart on the Arras battlefront. Fresnoy is near the northern end and Bullecourt near the southern end of the Arras section of the Hindenburg line.

of the British attack, says the correspondent.

"The battling," he adds, "has been in many places of ding-dong order, which renders it extremely difficult to define the situation, but I think it may certainly be claimed as a successful day for our gallant troops. The most conspicuous gains have been on the flanks of the long front, while towards the centre, up the valley of the Scarpe, we have made less progress owing to the intensity of concealed machine gun fire.

Canadlans Capture Fresnoy. Canadians Capture Fresnoy.

"Despite the opposition of massed German forces, the Canadian troops took Fresnoy. Oppy, however, still proved too strongly held to attempt to carry it by direct frontal attack without courting a heavier casualty list than the enterprise warranted. [From a Staff Correspondent of the Associated Press.]

BRITISH HEADQUARTERS IN FRANCE, May 3, via London.—After four days of calm, fighting on a large scale was resumed along a wide front today, and more important strategic points fell into British hands, including the village of Fresnoy, several miles north of the Scarpe River, and the ground about Cherisy, some distance south of that somewhat Insignificant stream.

Between Fontaine-lez-Croisilles and Bullecourt about six hands.

tance south of that somewhat Insignificant stream.

Between Fontaine-lez-Croisilles and Bullecourt about six hundred yards more of the original Hindenburg line, which ran from Queant in a northwesterly direction towards Arras, was penetrated and rolled up. This fighting was close to the Queant-Hindenburg line new emergency trench system, extending north from there to Doirecourt. Work on this new system is proceeding with feverish haste according to prisoners, and the stubborn resistance the Germans are now offering is to prevent the necessity of their occupying the new line before it is ready for prolonged defensive action.

Eighteen Miles Pounded.

Today's range of operations covered virtually eighteen miles, although the pressure was not exerted over this entire front. There was artillery activity at all points, however, and the strongers German positions were fairly dug with shells. The fighting began just before dawn, and continued throughout a day of glorious sunshine. The troops moving up in support of those actually in the firing line passed along roads whose overhanging trees were tipped with the first frest green leaves of the renewed life of spring. The fields back of the battle front were yellow with cowslips and dandelions; birds were singing, joyous, full-throated melodies. A warm east wind stirred up great clouds of dust, and the men were white with fine chalk powder bloak skeletons; the once fair field had been pitted and scarred and withered under the shell fire until the earth itself was killed by the poisonous blasts, and no living thing could grow thereon even under this warm impulse of the new season. The only melodies were the deep-throated roars of cannon, the whine of shells, the whistle of bullets.

Short, Intense Bombardment.

Under the soft light of a May moon, the British guns roared the artillery preparation at intervals during the night, but it was not until the lunar rays had disappeared behind the western horizon that the real bombardment began. In its intensified form it was of short duration. Then the guns settled into barrage work as the troops stole out from their forward trenches or shallow shelters hastily dug in the ground during the more recent advances. It was still half an hour before dawn, and the morning mists gave a deeper density to the darkness.

There was stiff fighting from the very first, and everywhere along the line the Germans offered desperate resistance. Since the battle of Arras began on Easter Monday, the Germans have concentrated great numbers of guns opposite the British, and lately they have been firing with almost reckless extravagance. Much of the shooting has been absolutely blind since the British took all the high ridges, the Germans being unable to get more than momentary observation with airplanes and balloons.

This morning the British creeping morning the British creeping

This morning the British creeping barrage fire, which swept like a great trellis work of exploding shells in front of the attacking troops, was met by a furious offensive curtain of fire, and for half an hour the artillery display was one of the most wonderful seen during the war.

troops who occupied Arleux several days ago pushed forward and took Fresnoy.

Arleux and Fresnoy had been swathed about with great defensive works and numberless loops of barbed wire. The Fresnoy garrison fought with great bitterness, and it was not until the Canadians had practically surrounded the village that the survivors, cut off within, surrendered. The number of prisoners taken here was 200 men and seven officers. One of the officers spoke excellent English, and, as a Canadian officer was conducting him to the rear, he asked to see the positions from which the Germans were driven during the storming of Vimy Ridge on April 9. He marvelled at the situation, and asked what Canadian division took the particular position he saw. When told it was the same division which captured him at Fresnoy today, he laughed,

CHILD'S SEVERE

Harriston (Ont.) Father Says Dr. Cassell's Tablets Saved His Child's Life.

Mr. Corby, Harriston P. O., Ont., writes: "Our little girl was weak from birth, and though we tried doctors' medicine and other things she got no better. She just lay in her cot and cried, and neighbors all said we could not save her. The doctors said she had stomach trouble, and that her chances were small, yet Dr. Cassell's Tablets cured her. They have been worth their weight in gold to us, for we were just giving up hope of saving our little daughter. I don't think there is any other medicine for children like Dr. Cassell's Tablets. Publish this letter if you like; it may help others as the you like; it may help others as the Tablets helped us."

The officer declared that the feeling was all changed now and that the Germans believe their artillery equal to any. Oddly enough, German shalls began to pitch about the prisoners' collecting station with deafening reports, so characteristic of the German high explosives, and the Germans had to be moved to a safer spot.

The prisoners taken at Fresnoy were all Pruss'ans. Two fresh regiments had come into the Fresnoy trenches last night for a great German counterattack on Arleux this morning. Needless to say, their plans were a bit upset by the British attack.

Australians in Fight.

Australians in Fight. Good progress was made east of Guemappe, along the Arras-Cambrai road, and British troops pushing through Cherisy, south of that road, swept several hundred yards beyond their first objectives. There was heavy fighting about Fontalne-lez-Croisilles and Bullecourt, in which the Australians took part. There was also more fighting about Oppy, to which the Germans are still clinging.

The wood west of this village is very dense and is fairly bristling with machine guns, some of which have been very dense and is fairly bristling with machine guns, some of which have been mounted in the trees. This wood also is one continuous tangle of barbed wire stretched from tree to tree. The Germans are holding desperately to two woods east of Monchy-le-Preux, known as the Bois-du-Sart and Bois-du-Vert, and have connected the two with elaborate trenches

Heavy counter-attacks were attempted time and time again during the day, and from every section of the battlefront come echoes of the never-ceasing artillery duel.

INGERSOLL, May 3.—In the amount of money collected and the purposes for which it has been devoted, it is for which it has been devoted, it is apparent that excellent work is being done by the Ingersoll "3,000 Club." Organized for the purpose of facilitating patriotic givings, the club has enrolled a large membership, and in practically all instances the monthly givings are generous. There has been a gratifying increase in the membership, and the patriotic spirit is strikingly keen. It is hoped, however, that the membership will continue to increase as there are so many ways that money can be used for patriotic purposes. Contributions by the club include the following: British saliors' relief fund, $2,000; Ingersoll Soldiers' League, $500; Ingersoll Red Cross Society, $1,050.

HONOR LADIES' AID MEMBERS.

INGERSOLL, May 3.—At the annual meeting, two members of the Methodist Ladies' Aid, Mrs. H. F. Boyse, who retired as president after serving for five successive years, and Mrs. I. W. Hill, were honored. To Mrs. Boyse was presented a cut glass berry bowl and an autograph quilt bearing the names of the members. To Mrs. Hill was presented a silk purse. The presentation in each case was accompanied by a suitable address.

The following officers were elected: Hon. presidents, Mrs. E. W. Uren, Mrs. R. Butler and Mrs. L. W. Hill; president, Mrs. C. George; first vice-president, Mrs. W. J. Thomas; third vice-president, Mrs. W. J. Thomas; third vice-president, Mrs. W. J. Thomas; recording secretary, Mrs. Pedolin; assistant, Mrs. W. F. Manzer; corresponding secretary, Mrs. A.
