British Dirigible R-34 Gets Away For Trip Across Atlantic Ocean.

WELL OFF IRISH COAST

Giant Balloon Is Expected To Reach America by Friday.

London, July 2. - The British dirigible R-34, which left East Fortune, Scotland, at 1:48 Greenwich time, this morning had reached 50 degrees 7 minutes north latitude, 14 degrees 50 minutes west longitude, at 12 o'clock, Greenwich time, in her attempt to cross the Atlantic. Major Scott, the commander, in his wireless dispatch, said that the hls wireless dispatch, said that the dirigible at that time was making 32 knots an hour in a thick fog. He added that all was well.

The position of the R.34 at 12 o'clock, Greenwich time, was approximately 300 miles west of Penzance, England, indicating that the big airship had travelled in a southwesterly direction along the coast of Ireland since she made her previous report at 8 o'clock Greenwich time, when she was at 55 degrees 20 minutes north latitude and 10 degrees 40 minutes west longitude.

cate that there has been organized in Asiatic Turkey three Turkish armies, whose generals refuse to obey order from Constantinople. The Turks at Konia are threatening the Italians, while those at Balikesh are opposing the Greeks.

As the position of Constantinople has been much weakened by the Turkish refusal of the conference to consider proposals from the Turkish delegates immediately, it is feared the independent movements will develop throughout Asla Minor.

East Fortune, July 2.—The British dirigible R-34 started on her long-her-alded trip to America this morning with very little more ceremony than heralded the departure of the dirigibles for their monotonous North Sea patrol during the war. Shortly before the first streaks of dawn broke over the plains near here the great airship was quietly taken out of its airdrome and turned around her nose was pointed straight west. The command "Hands off" was given and the huge envelope quickly rose. Before the light of five hundred feet was reached she was lost to view in the mist. reached she was lost to view in the mist

EVERYTHING GOING WELL.

WITH INSURRECTION from the aircraft received by the air ministry this afternoon. The R-34 was then making an average speed of 34 mots an hour. A wireless message from Major Scott at 10:45 this morning stated that the R-34 was going through a heavy fog, but that everything aboard

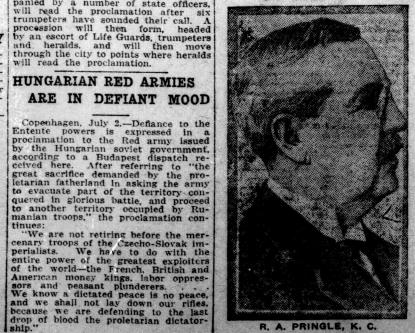

The whir of the propellers could be heard for several minutes after the seven hundred foot airship went out of The weather reports indicate that the R-34 will meet unsettled conditions, with variable winds, until she is some distance out into the Atlantic. Then it is expected she will have following winds, Land After Dusk.

It is expected the landing will not be made until after dusk in order to permit the gas bag to cool and its contents to contract, thus decreasing the lifting tendency of a dirigible lightened by a long flight. More than 1,000 members of pecial balloon companies, contributed by American army and navy authorities, will be on the field to assist in making the giant air liner fast to its moorings. Col. Miller has prepared for all emergencies. A special fire detachment will be on guard to prevent fires starting in the vicinity and endangering the air-ship. Four ambulances will also be sta-tioned on the field. The grounds will be policed by more than 1,000 provost guards, and visitors without passes will be barred from approaching the airship.
