ONE OF CITY'S BEST KNOWN RESIDENTS DIED YESTERDAYArchibald C. L. Tapley of Tapley Bros. Succumbed to Heart Failure Yesterday Afternoon—A Man of Sterling Integrity, Kind and Generous.

Death removed a well known and highly respected citizen of the North End when Archibald Combs Lowell Tapley breathed his last about 4.30 o'clock Monday afternoon. Mr. Tapley was in his 78th year, and a member of the firm of Tapley Bros., for many years a power in the handling of lumber on the lower waters of the St. John river. Deceased had been suffering from heart trouble for nearly two years and medical advice was to the effect that death might be expected at any time. The end came very peacefully, and as the eyes closed the city was him in a business way learned to look upon him with respect owing to the fact that while he never lost sight of the interests of the firm, he was always a friend to the laborer, a helper of the poor, and a protector of the weak. His heart was open and he left his support to the movement which he believed would uplift the city.

Every member of the large and influential family connected with him was with love and respect, and feel his death is a great loss. He married Miss Eunice Brown, daughter of the late John S. Brown, by whom he had nine children—four sons and five daughters. His wife died many years ago, and two of his sons—George and Arthur—have also passed away. His surviving children are: Edward, of 37 Holly street; Gaspard L., of 147 Douglas avenue; Mrs. Charles Miller, of 78 Douglas avenue; Mrs. George McDonald, of 45 Holly street; Mrs. John Russell, of 105 Douglas avenue; Mrs. Wm. C. McFarlane, of 109 Gormain street; and Miss Margaret, at home.

Of the large family of which Mr. Tapley was a member only three survive—Miss E. Mrs. Shadrach Holly and Miss Elizabeth.

The Biographical Review contains the following: The Tapley family of which several members are prominently identified with the business interests of St. John is descended from James Robert Tapley, a sturdy farmer and Loyalist, who was a native of Providence (R. I.). When a young man he was taken ill in the city of Cork (Ire.), where he was sojourning, and when a young man and was never heard from; John, who died in Sunbury county at the age of eighty years; David, Ann, who married John S. Brown, a Loyalist who came to New Brunswick when twenty-four years of age and lived to be ninety-four; Mary, who married Joseph Bushnell, of Bangor (Me.), and James, who was a farmer of Sheffield (N. B.), and died in November, 1864.

"David Tapley was born in Sunbury county, N. B., in 1791. He was in early life a farmer and, moving to St. John in 1847, he was engaged in the lumber business until his death, which occurred on Nov. 20, 1869. In 1820 he married Hannah Fletcher, a native of Nova Scotia. She became the mother of ten children, namely: David, who died on July 18, 1883; John, a lumberman, who died in this city on Feb. 16, 1893; Jeremiah, who married Thomas Bagwell, and died on July 23, 1880; Mary, who died at the age of fifty years; Robert, who went to Australia in 1853 and is now living in New Zealand; and five other children. George, a prominent business man of St. John; Daniel F., who is in company with the late-named; Hannah, widow of Shadrach Bushnell, of Bangor (Me.); and James, who died on Aug. 1, 1897; and Elizabeth, who is unmarried."

"The methodical in 1866. David Tapley, the younger, was a member of the legislature, and he also served as a magistrate in Portland (N. B.). "Archibald Combs Lowell Tapley married Eunice Brown, of St. John (N. B.), a daughter of John and Nancy (Tapley) Brown. David Tapley, the elder, was deeply interested in the temperance cause, and a firm believer in total abstinence. Archibald and Daniel F. Tapley, who now compose the firm of Tapley Brothers, carry on an extensive lumber business in St. John, and also own a line of tug boats."

considerably poorer for one generally liked had gone.

Members of the family and friends mourn a wise and loving father and a true and faithful friend.

There was scarcely a man better known in the city and one of a more genial and generous hearted always, his appearance at any public gathering was always greeted with delight, while his charity won him many warm friends among the less fortunate ones of the city.

Many incidents are told of his works of mercy and one of the most beautiful is a story of how he met in the street a poor child who had lost an eye and whose appearance was much detracted from by the deformity. Entering into conversation with the lad Mr. Tapley learned the facts of the case and took the child at once to the office of the late Dr. Bruce and had an artificial eye placed in the boy's head at the cost of $30.

Mr. Tapley's efforts for the betterment of his fellows and his large bequests to charity serve as evidences of his dealings with one and all.

Mr. Tapley was born in Sheffield, Sunbury county, on Oct. 22, 1829. He was the son of David Tapley and one of a large family, the members of which were destined to play an important part in the business life of St. John. His mother, previous to her marriage, was Miss Hannah Fletcher. When Mr. Tapley was still in his "teens" the family moved to St. John and he became a member of the lumbering and towing firm which is still doing business under the name of Tapley Bros. The original partners were the three brothers, John, Archibald and Daniel, of whom only the last survives. The firm was always a considerable factor in the lumber business on the River St. John, and much of the success was due to the conscientious hard work and untiring energy of Archibald Tapley.

In his business dealings Mr. Tapley was honest and upright and could always be depended upon. Everyone associated with CARNEGIE INSTITUTE A MAGNIFICENT BUILDINGDescription of the Edifice Which Andrew Carnegie Has Given to the City of Pittsburgh, Where He Accumulated His Vast Wealth.

(New York Evening Post.)

The modern temple dedicated last Thursday at Pittsburgh to literature, art, music, and science, is a glistering edifice of marble rising from the green sward of Schenley Park, one of the most beautiful in the park system of the city of Pittsburgh. Located on Forbes street, near the Great Boulevard, the building faces the south, and, with its wings and extensions, covers an area of four acres, while with the three floors there is a space for the various departments of sixteen acres, exclusive of two basements and the power-house. The total cost of the institution, which occupied thirty months in construction, was $8,000,000. There is no woodwork in the whole building. Twenty-five thousand electric lights and two hundred miles of wiring are controlled by one of the largest switchboards in the world, and the heating and ventilating plant is one of the most elaborate and scientific in the world. In the library the new bookshelves are eleven stories high, and have a capacity of 800,000 volumes, while the entire capacity is 1,500,000 volumes. The art galleries cover 44,700 square feet and the museum 104,000 square feet.

The main entrance to the building is through the front facing Forbes street. At the western end is the entrance to the musical hall, while at the east is the entrance to the science and art departments. A carriage entrance in the centre gives access at all departments. The library entrance is in the middle of the western facade.

The second story of the front is embellished with Corinthian columns, and pilasters in the loggia of the end pavilions, and the pilaster treatment of the central portion with the great marble covering the carriage entrance. The effect of the entrance pavilions with the deep loggia of the second floor is greatly heightened by the bronze statues at either end of the steps. Those at the music hall are of Shakespearean actors. Those of Galley and Michael Angelo have been placed at the science and art entrance. The four large bronze groups surmounting the building represent science, art, music, and literature. They are placed above the corner-piers of the pavilions.

The frieze which encircles the building bears the names of distinguished men.

The dedication by Andrew Carnegie to the people of Pittsburgh appears in the frieze above the central entrance. The entrance to the building is a great vaulted vestibule with marble wainscoting and the main staircase hall, sixty-six feet square and three stories in height, has in the centre an open well surrounded by a two-story colonnade. Broad marble stairs lead to the upper floors, and there are large elevators at either side. The walls of the first story are wainscoted to a height of ten feet, with Havertville marble, while piers of exaltation marble around the stair well support the Corinthian colonnade of the second floor. Above the wainscoting are the first of a series of mural paintings by John W. Alexander. Low marble wainscoting on the wall surrounding the halls on the second and third floors allow for the carrying out of the Alexander series. On the first floor is a broad corridor lined with marble crosses, the entire front of the extension covered by the stair hall with the foyer of the music hall, the carriage entrance, and various rooms and halls on either side.

Directly in the rear of the main stair hall is the Hall of Sculpture, 38 x 125 feet, two stories in height, surrounded on the first story by a Greek Doric colonnade, surmounted on the second floor by columns of the Ionic order, all of the shining, white, Grecian panthele marble. On the axis of the carriage entrance opening from the main corridor, and also from the Hall of Sculpture, is the hall, 126 feet square, devoted to the exhibition of large-sized casts of architectural subjects.

Occupying the entire central part of the Forbes Avenue side on the second floor, and opening from the stair hall, are two large rooms to be used for the exhibition of engravings, prints, water colors, etc. Opening also from the second floor of the same hall is the gallery surrounding the Hall of Sculpture; the offices of the director of the art department occupy the space immediately in front of the stairs on the floor.

The art galleries for the hanging of the paintings at the annual exhibition and for the permanent collection occupy the second and third floors at the end, there being nine great rooms, three on the second floor and six on the third floor. Back of this section is the museum. A lecture hall which will seat 633 persons opens from the museum section.

Opening from the immense carriage-way is the foyer 132 feet long, 66 feet wide, and 47 feet high, with vaulted ceilings supported by twenty-four columns of marble, three feet in diameter at the base. A balcony encircles the foyer with many embrasures jutting out like theatre boxes. This balcony connects with the first gallery of the music hall auditorium, and about it runs a fine promenade. Corbels bear the names of great composers. Beyond the foyer is the main corridor of the building, and its small panelling is one of the brilliant sights.

HIS BISHOP DEPOSED HIMNew York Clergyman Who Went Slumming With Negress Passes Down and Out.

(New York Globe.)

The Rev. W. Howard Mears, curate of St. Matthew's Episcopal church, has been found guilty of violation of his ordination vows and was this morning deposed from the ministry by Bishop Greer. The action of the bishop follows a presentation to him of the findings of a board of enquiry which sat upon the case for two days and examined all the witnesses concerned. Mr. Mears last night mailed his resignation from St. Matthew's to the bishop.

Bishop Greer gave out this statement at his residence: "The committee appointed to investigate the conduct of the Rev. W. Howard Mears on the night of March 12, 1907, have reported that his conduct on that occasion involved a violation of his sixth ordination vow, which requires that a clergyman, as far as in him lies, shall make himself a wholesome example and pattern to the flock of Christ." Mr. Mears, while declaring that he was not actuated by any wrong motive, has accepted the finding and acknowledged the judgment of the committee, and declared in writing his resignation of the ministry, and I have accordingly deposed him from the ministry of the Protestant Episcopal church."

The formal ceremony of deposition from the ministry was conducted by Bishop Greer at the diocesan house, 416 Lafayette street, in the presence of two clergymen. Mr. Mears was not present himself, as the canons of the church do not require a minister who is to be deposed to be present himself, but merely requires the presence of two clergymen. Mears was arrested on the night of March 12 in a house on Seventh avenue after a fight with two Tenderloin detectives who had followed him to the house, where he had gone in the company of a colored woman. The detectives saw the young man talking to the negress on a corner, and tracked them when they walked away together.

In court the next morning the young curate was discharged and the woman sent to the island. Mears insisted that there was nothing out of the way in his association with the negress, and that he was simply making sociological investigations. Mrs. Mears, a beautiful and attractive woman of 47, has been in the city for some time from the start and defended him to every one who has approached her. She said that he had been pursuing this investigation for a long time and that she knew they were distasteful, but they said he was in his work.

THE SNOW BLOCKADE RAISED IN THE WEST

Regina, April 15.—Two Canadian Northern trains arrived here this morning from the north, the first for nearly a fortnight.

One left again for Prince Albert at noon and the other at 4:30 p.m. Both trains were literally packed, standing room in aisles being at a premium. Hundreds of passengers are tied up here, all anxious to reach their destinations. Tons of mail were carried out, while immense quantities were also brought in.

J. Chesholm, mayor of Battleford, who left there on a special train some time ago to undergo an operation for appendicitis at Winnipeg, but whose train was stalled, necessitating an operation in a drug store at Warman village, succumbed to the effects.

THE NORTH END BAZAAR

Ald. Vanwart won the arm chair offered for competition between the representatives of Dulles and Stanley wards at the North End bazaar, which closed Thursday last. The vote stood 174 to 169 in favor of Ald. Vanwart, over Ald. McGoldrick.

The yearly subscription to The Telegraph has not been awarded yet. The bazaar committee met last evening at the home of Sergt. Kilpatrick, and were royally entertained.

THE MIRASSES CASEW. H. Trueman Obtains A Stay of Proceedings from the Attorney General.

The case against George Mirassee, charged by Peter Petropolis with obtaining money under false pretences, was continued in the police court yesterday afternoon, when W. H. Trueman, acting for the plaintiff, John Sperdakos, expressed the opinion that the prisoner was not acting guiltily in the matter, but had been duped by the Petropolis brothers. At the conclusion of evidence, Mr. Trueman asked for the prisoner's release and on being refused, said he would apply to the attorney general for an order to stay proceedings.

The witnesses were Andrew and Peter Petropolis and Lewis Jones. Mr. Trueman asked that Mirassee be not detained. He said "He has been badly treated by the Petropolis people all the way through. I believe he acted in good faith, but was induced to sign the paper through misrepresentation. We are not through with the Petropolis brothers yet. I regard them as the real sharks or charpers in this transaction."

The case was adjourned. Later on Mr. Trueman made representations to Attorney General Pugsley along the lines indicated and permission was granted by him to have proceedings stayed.

AN ENJOYABLE EVENING

An enjoyable evening was spent in White's restaurant last night by the members of the Mission school gymnasium at a dinner, which marked the close of a successful season. At the same time the prizes were presented to the winners in the junior and senior classes. A Gordon Boyne was in the chair. The toasts were: The King; The Church, proposed by H. B. Tobin and responded to by Rev. P. Owen Jones; The Men's Association, proposed by the chair and responded to by H. B. Schofield; and The Ladies, proposed by Howard Logan and responded to by the chairman. The senior cup, won by Edward Smith with 149 points, was presented by Father Jones. It is a very handsome trophy and after having been won for two consecutive years becomes the property of the winner. Mr. Smith has won it for the first year. The junior prize, a silver napkin ring, was captured by Lin. Clark with eighty-one points. It was presented by Mr. Boyne. Both the prize winners made suitable replies. During the evening Gordon Logan and Mr. Boyne sang solos.

SCHOOL BOARD MATTERS

At a meeting of the school board held yesterday afternoon in the Victoria school, H. H. Mott, architect, was authorized to call for tenders for the construction of two light steel bridges to connect that building with St. Joseph's, and to be used as a fire escape from one to the other. J. Boyd McMann, the new trustee officer, has completed his visitation of the city schools. In each building he addressed the pupils and told them he intended to enforce the law. Mr. McMann has so far hunted up about forty cases of truancy, principally in Carleton.
