WOULD LIKE TO HAVE HAD ONE THIS MORNING

In the police court this morning two men were charged with drunkenness. They both pleaded guilty and were remanded. Magistrate Ritchie asked one of them who had been drinking and he said brandy, that he got it from a friend. He did not pay anything. The magistrate said that no friend would give him that to drink, for it was liable to poison him. The man told the magistrate that if he had a better brandy this morning he would certainly take a drink. The magistrate sent him below.

Before returning to England on his way home he was paymaster with the 4th Divisional Train.

FOUR YEARS AGO YESTERDAY 26 AND AMMUNITION COLUMN SAILED

It was four years ago yesterday that the 26th Battalion and the 2nd Divisional Ammunition Column left St. John for England on their way to France. The S. S. Calcuttan on which they sailed has since gone under.

THE PLAYGROUNDS

The East End Improvement League must wake up. And the league means, or ought to mean all the citizens north of Union street to beyond the Marsh Bridge. They have a great playground almost ready for use, on the old shipyard site but not a man was at work there last evening. It can be made the biggest and best playground in the city by the expenditure of a little money and muscle. What is wrong with the east end folk?

The South End Improvement League is getting its grounds in shape for opening next Thursday evening. It had a harder proposition than that of the East End League, but the men stuck to their work and are determined to make a real playground.

LESSENING OF NUMBER ON PATRIOTIC FUND

Last Month Saw Reduction To 540 Here

A WORK WELL DONE

F. S. West, Secretary, Has Proven an Excellent Official in Trying Task, and Has Had Good Assistance

With the return of so many soldiers from overseas the number of cases being attended to by the Canadian patriotic fund is being steadily lessened. Even last month before the return of the 26th Battalion, the 2nd Divisional Ammunition Column, 2nd Divisional Train and other units, many names had been taken from the list of recipients through the return of soldiers and each of the last few months has witnessed a steady lessening of their number.

From between 900 and 1,000 cases a few months ago the total fell last month to 540, representing a payment of $8,621.75. The highest the fund has paid from the local office is $14,631.13, which was in July, 1916, when there were 1,048 cases on the books. It has varied greatly from month to month but now the steady tendency is downward and next month it is expected to be considerably lower. Cards have been sent to all whose names are still on the books asking them to give proof that the soldier is still overseas in order to make certain that there is no over-payment.

The Secretary, Kindly and capable, obliging and painstaking, F. S. West has won much praise for the manner in which he has been acting as secretary of the local office since early in 1917. He is still carrying on. At times Mr. West has had very difficult cases to deal with—it has not always been plain sailing—but he has always done what he has thought best given advice to soldiers or their dependents on matters affecting their interests and actively siding in bringing a little sunshine into homes that have been saddened by death or other sad circumstances of war. His management of the office has been distinctly successful and judicious—has shown much power of discretion which has been helpful to the dependents of the soldiers and to the interests of the fund as well.

Mr. West speaks in terms of admiration for the way in which the members of the Women's Auxiliary and of the general committee have aided in the administration of the fund. The women have been especially energetic and helpful. Their visits to homes of soldiers, their words of cheer in one home and another, their investigation of cases reported as worthy of aid and especially their assistance when some name in the day's casualty lists meant that the widow or little orphan had to be provided for—all these things which fall more naturally to the sphere of women Mr. West regards as of more importance than one can estimate.

There is still much to be done because the fund is still active and through its careful manipulation throughout Canada it is in good order. And those who know the local secretary and his work know that what work falls his way in this regard will be attended to with the satisfaction of all concerned. In the years to come many a kiddie will thank him for the interest he took in the building of a trust fund for him or her when "daddy" was over in France whence he never returned.

LETTERS FOLLOWING SOLDIERS ABOUT

Some at Army for Returned Men — Sergt. J. K. MacDonald and Arthur Legere in Charge

The efficiency of the postal service during the war has given much satisfaction to those who have served overseas. While in a few cases letters or parcels have been lost, on the whole deliveries have been reliable and now that so many have come back they find themselves receiving letters which have been re-addressed perhaps more than once, but with much persistence have finally succeeded in locating the proper one. Locally this work of following up deliveries for the returned men falls upon Sergt. John K. MacDonald and Arthur Legere in an office now established for that purpose in the army.

Our boys while overseas have made quite a number of friends in the old country and on the continent and the bulk of the returned letters are from them, though in some cases there is no time mail, because of those at home not knowing that sailing was to be made so soon. Those in charge of this work of re-addressing have a quantity of mail for returned soldiers whom they cannot definitely locate, but they are trying hard to do so. Sergt. MacDonald was formerly in the local delivery service as letter carrier, while Mr. Legere was with the Moncton post office in the same capacity.

The Home Can Be Transformed By Proper Furniture Choosing

At this time of year, when all nature is aglow with newness—when meadows are blooming, trees budding and birds singing—it is logical that the home, too, should take on a new atmosphere.

However beautiful the home may be, if it is human nature to desire occasional change of environment, and if the home is to continue to be the shrine of devotion it must continue to hold new charms and new attractions.

Inasmuch as furniture contributes to making a home, a change in its treatment means a change in the atmosphere of the home, and changing the atmosphere of the home involves a responsibility which should be entrusted to only the ablest experts.

This store places at your disposal the sincere helpfulness of furniture men of specialized training, who have at their command the most unusual productions in this country.

There are many new things here that will appeal to those who are interested in home beautifying, and when the transformation effected by their proper use is taken into consideration they represent the most practical sort of economy.
