ST. PETER'S RETIREMENT.
Again last evening St. Peter's church was well filled with the female parishioners, who listened to an excellent sermon by Rev. J. H. McLaughlin, of St. Peter's, Brooklyn. He spoke upon the subject of "A Model Mother," and set forth the ideals which should animate the minds of mothers, how they should instruct their children in the gospel, and by good home training, and domestic happiness, inspire them with lofty ideals and an ambition to become worthy citizens, and dutiful children of God. The service will be repeated for the women this evening.

COUNCIL COUNCIL.
The January meeting of the municipal council was held this afternoon in the court house. It was stated before the meeting that there would likely be strong opposition from the city members to the proposal of the buildings committee that a new city and county building be erected in the Market Square. It is contended that if more room is needed it could be provided by adding two additional stories to the present city hall, and installing an elevator. The estimates for the year will be taken up in a report from the finance committee and a number of routine matters dealt with.

WOODSMEN NOT SCARCE.
(Bangor Commercial).
According to report at the Bangor woodsmen's agencies very few men are being shipped to the woods now, and the shipment out of the state, to such companies as the Connecticut River Lumber, is lighter than usual at this time of year. A few men are leaving their jobs in the woods, although not nearly so many as usual, and those who drift down to Bangor do not stay much longer than 24 hours before returning to their homes. It is estimated that there were about 100 woodsmen in the cheap class of labor in the city Monday, looking for work. The smallest lot of the present season may be responsible for the decreased demand for men, although the fact that the crews are staying in the camps rather than usual accounts for it in a large measure.

CLOTHES TORN OFF HIM IN BROADWAY

Joseph Sinclair Finds Himself in Awkward Predicament After Encounter With An Automobile

New York, Jan. 17.—In the middle of brilliant Broadway last night, at the cold and windy corner of Seventieth street, there suddenly burst into the glare of the headlights a man clad like anybody else from the neck to the waist and from the heels to the ankles, but as bare between the waist and the ankles as a ghost. This apparition advanced toward a somewhat sophisticated neighborhood, but it shocked nobody more than Sinclair, a trolley car driver, two years old. He had just dangled one foot over the edge of a trolley car step to alight when the forward end of a passing automobile caught him. There was a sound of rending cloth, the automobile continued on its way, and Sinclair, yet a living being of a hiatus.

The wind howled and Sinclair howled with it. It nipped his nose and he danced. Men laughed and he shook his fists at them. He was nearly mad with rage, humiliation and pain when the automobile that had bereft him came back in pity. The chauffeur gave him a fur robe, invited him to get into the car and drove him away from a moment hoped never to live over again.

What Mr. Aldrich proposes is the establishment of the "Reserve Association of America" representing what might be called a formation of local organizations formed by the national banks. Each association of not less than ten banks, each holding stock in the association in proportion to its capital. These would elect directors to a branch of the association. The association would be the principal financial depository of the government. It would fix from time to time the rate of discount and officially its notes would replace those of the national banks.

From coming to pass, passing up from the banks through the local associations and branches, as well as bonds of the government, it is believed that the plan is a basis for the currency issue. The directors must be some business men other than bankers.

He was largely instrumental in reorganizing the Liberal-Conservative Association of the city, and for several years served as chairman of its executive committee.

In the general election of 1902, Dr. Nesbitt was elected to the House of Commons for North Toronto, and defeated the late G. F. Marter, the sitting member. He continued to be a member until 1908, when he retired and received a post under the government.

He practised as a medical man in Toronto for several years, but later became connected with several corporations and manufacturing institutions. He is a Fellow of the Society of Chemical Industry, and a member of the Masonic Order, and is the Grand Lodge of the Sovereign Grand Lodge of British America.

Dr. Nesbitt is a native of Vancouver, B. C., where he was born in 1861. He graduated in Arts from Toronto University, and in medicine from Trinity College.

He took his text from John, IV.—26, and spoke of the opportunities and the time of reaping, as well as the wages of reaping. The time, he said, was now, the wages, joy here and hereafter. "They that turn forever to righteousness, shall shine as stars forever and ever."

Mr. Knight is not an evangelist of the sensational class, but is an interesting speaker, and his campaign is expected to bear fruit. This evening he will hold a prayer meeting at 7:30 and a song service at 7:45.

INVENTION OF THE SALAD.
Delicate cookery has long been known to flourish best in those lands where roast beef is hard to get. It was starvation that invented the salad, for example. Somebody had to eat grass or go hungry, so he put vinegar and oil, pepper and salt on it, and lo! it made dry bread seem like a dinner. I do not doubt that we shall like the most trust for a varied dietary ere we get through with it or it with us, which ever way the thing comes out.
