the deceased. The many friends of the afflicted parents extended to them their sand bereavement. Deceased was a most exemplary young man and much loved by all his young friends. The services of that morning were very solemn and improssive. By requests, Mrs. G. W. Watson, our well known and talented musician took charge of the organ for this occasion, ably assisted by Rev. Father Brady, of Woodstock, and Miss Kesting and Miss Doty of this town. The funeral procession was the longest ever seen in Ingersell, reaching fully three quarters of a mile. The scene at the grave was most affecting. The poor heart broken mother's agolizing cries and the grief of the young sisters over the untimely end of their only brother, melted the hearts of all. Few in this neighborhood can realize the loss sustained by Mr. & Mrs. Hensworth within so short a time, two worthy young men just upon the threshold of manhood swept into an untimely grave. Young Hensworth was a grand son of the late Walter Hackett, who was so well known and respected.

It is an error to suppose or assert it can be disposed of in any other way within the county. I am also informed it is supposed, or at all events asserted (which, of course, is a very different thing), that the effect of sections 108 and 109 is to prevent a person from bringing into and keeping in this county for his own use any intoxicating liquor whatever.
