SOME CANDIDATES.

Promise of a Lively Time at October Parish Election.

There is a growing interest manifest in the coming parish elections and there is evidence that each parish will be hotly contested. Below will be found a partial list of gentlemen who intend asking the suffrage of the people.

WICKLOW

Coun. Cronkwhite
Coun. Caldwell
Frank Green
Handford Lunn
William Owen
Robinson Longstaff

All these gentlemen are in opposition to the gaol being built at Woodstock. The old councillors have served their constituency well and have shown wisdom in their deliberations at the Board, so it is safe to conjecture at least one of them will be returned.

KENT

Coun. Gallagher
Coun. Tracy
Dr. Atkinson
Amos Giberson
Frank E. McNally
E. F. Shaw

Of this list any and all are men well qualified to fill the office they aspire to, in fact nearly all of them have already served one or more terms. Councillor Gallagher is an advocate of the new gaol at Woodstock and is very sanguine of the ultimate success of the undertaking. The others are "anti-new-gaolites." By-the-way a man doing business at Bath was heard to remark that if a new gaol were to be built it should be in Kent.

STONDS

Coun. Kearney
Albion R. Foster
Nathaniel B. Shaw

All "anti-new-gaolites."

WAKFIELD

Coun. Shaw
Coun. Bell
L. R. Harding

These gentlemen are also opposed to the building of a new gaol.

WILMOT

Coun. White
Coun. Cheney
G. H. Stokoe

and a number of others coming forward. Coun. White is a wellknown advocate of the new gaol, but Stokoe and Cheney claim to be economists, and their election is considered certain.

PEEL

Coun. Phillips
Coun. Tompkins

Phillips fights against the new gaol, while Tompkins is a worker for it.

ABERDEEN

Coun. Lamont
Coun. Gilmore

and others whose names will be given later.

BRIGHTON

Coun. Richardson
Coun. Connolly
S. J. Brown
Gideon Phillips

all opposed to the new gaol.

The names of the candidates for the other constituencies will be given next week.

Waterville News.

During the short space of time between haying and harvesting, numerous parties from this section went to the wilds beyond Cloverdale in search of blueberries. Some were quite successful and blueberries have been on the "bill of fare" for some time. Others report there were more flies than blueberries.

The farmers are now engaged in harvesting. The weather has been very favourable during the last two weeks, and a large amount of oats have been harvested.

The wheat fields look excellent, this having been a favorable year for that grain. The wheat fields of L. E. DeWitt, Earnest Plummer and Malcolm Gardiner look very clean and well-headed.

Delbert Jones of Roylton has charge of Waterville school this term. Mrs. G. N. White and daughter, of West Branch, Mich., visited relatives and friends in this village last week.

Mr. David Bloodworth is very poorly. Dr. Bearisto is frequently in attendance.

J. R. Getchell is not improving, but seems to be slowly growing weaker. Dr. Kierstead is in attendance.

Our former merchant Alex. Carr, was here last week. He claims to be having a good trade at his present stand, Jacksonville.

Owing to lack of rain the stream presents a gloomy aspect compared with its usual volume and clearness.

The drill at Sussex begins September the 12th. Among those going from this section are Byron Grant, and Geo. W. Robertson.

The cheese factory is still in operation but under unfavorable circumstances owing to lack of milk. The farmers are gathering their apples and taking them to market. The crop of New Brunswick apples has been good, but some of the winter varieties are less than usual.

OLD HEMLOCK.

Dreyfus at Rennes.

Justice may be done at Rennes, but Dreyfus will never be a national hero. The world will probably pity him, and Frenchmen may reluctantly admit that he has been treacherously dealt with, and cruelly used; but he lacks the qualities that his own nation admires in a public man.

He has a strong but not a handsome face. He has quiet dignity, but lacks a commanding presence. His manner is cold and reserved. His emotions are generally under the control of a strong will. His face and bearing repel rather than excite sympathy.

The French are an excitable people who like melodrama in their public life. Dreyfus is not a man capable of striking an attitude and posing before them as the victim of conspiracy and oppression who has battled and triumphed gloriously over his enemies. He neither appeals to their imaginations, nor excites their emotions. The pathos of his lot does not touch their hearts and induce hero-worship. Even when convinced of his innocence, they will look upon him as an unfortunate Jew who has been baited and nearly hounded to death.

Americans may judge of him differently but Frenchmen are strangely and perversely indifferent to either English or American opinion. They can never make a popular idol of a scapegoat for the crimes of military intrigues. Their heroes must be men of action, with a vainglorious faith in their own destiny, with a theatrical air, and with fascinations of personality. Dreyfus as he is seen at Rennes, is meagre, in their eyes, a poor dupe who has suffered until the iron has entered into his soul.

At the time of writing this article Dreyfus's trial is not completed. Should he be acquitted, his resignation from the army will probably follow, and years of exile in England. Evil passions have been excited by the prolonged excitement of the Dreyfus affair. The Jews in France will not benefit by his acquittal. They will be more vehemently disliked because he has been misjudged and cruelly wronged.

In any event Dreyfus will not have suffered in vain. Militarism will never again be the blind, unreasoning force which it has been in France. Justice and mercy, those grand Hebraic virtues of the ancient Scriptures, will have a deeper meaning throughout the world in consequence of the wrongs suffered by this patient, unhappy Alsatian Jew.—Youth's Companion.

MEDICOS' ANNUAL SESSION.

Election of Officers—Dr. Rankin's Return—The Rhine Not in It.

The Carleton Co. Medical society held its annual meeting at Eloreenceville on September 5th.

The retiring officers handed in their reports which were well received by the Society. After this the Society proceeded to elect the officers for the current year as follows:

President, Dr. Hand; Vice President, Dr. Brown; Secretary, Dr. Estey; Treasurer, Dr. Sprague; Dr. Kierstead and Dr. Ross, with the officers, form the executive committee. The Arrangement and the Finance and Audit committee were reappointed.

After the election of the officers the president gave a short address of welcome to Dr. Rankin calling on him for a sketch of his trip and course, to which Dr. Rankin kindly responded.

He gave the Society a very interesting account of his trip in England and Germany. Not only was his address interesting but instructive. He also gave a very detailed account of some of his studies, and an interesting description of a sail on the Rhine which he says really cannot compare with the St. John for splendor of scenery.

The Carleton Co. Medical Society has been in existence one year. It has held six meetings, at which as many papers have been read, on as many different subjects, all of which have been highly instructive. The next year is looked forward to give us more and brighter ideas. The society has the tendency of helping its members to be up-to-date in every line, thus giving to the public the best material.

Bath News.

A number of ladies from here have gone on a visit to the Maine State Fair at Lewiston. There were among the number Mrs. E. F. Shaw, Miss Dora Barker, Miss Belma Jones, and Miss India Giberson.

Congratulations are now being extended to Dexter Barker because of the arrival of a son and heir.

Mrs. Frank McElroy, a bride of less than a year, died at her home on Saturday after a short illness of tubercular meningitis. The funeral was held on Monday and was largely attended as deceased was highly esteemed. Much sympathy is felt for the bereaved husband and friends.

Aberdeen Agricultural Society.

The Aberdeen Agricultural Society will hold their Exhibition for the year 1899 on the 14th day of October. It is expected that the show will be a good one in all departments. The membership is large and is composed of many of the best farmers of Brighton, Kent, and Aberdeen. The seed business of the Society for the season of 1899 is the largest in its history. Of seed wheat it imported and sold 120 bushels. Premium lists can be had by addressing the secretary.

Drowning Accident.

An accident occurred recently in Halifax Harbor by which seven lives were lost. A party of eleven were returning home from a picnic at MacNab's Island when a squall struck the boat and capsized it.

Bank at Grand Falls.

The Peoples' Bank of Halifax have opened a branch at Grand Falls. It is in charge of Mr. McKay of the Edmundston branch. Andover and Perth people feel that they are being slighted.

The Drought.

The drought is being keenly felt in Ontario and Quebec. The apple crop in both provinces being very meagre on that account. The farmers have no water for their cattle much less pasture. Some of them drive their stock two and three miles to water.
