STIFF SENTENCES FOR OLD COUNTRY VAGRANTS

Some Advice Given to New Arrivals—Several Assault Cases in Court.

Magistrate Ritchie, in the police court this morning, handed out some stirring remarks to a couple of Old Country toughs, and the sentences that he imposed were in line with his remarks.

A couple of Englishmen, who were charged with assault, were forcibly told that when they came out to Canada they were supposed to conduct themselves properly and would be made to understand their positions.

Peter Fraser was charged with being drunk on Prince Wm. street and also charged by John Butler with assaulting and beating him in the Seamen's Institute. Butler gave evidence that the defendant used him rather roughly. Fraser was fined $28 or four months on the chain gang.

Fred Gard is a young Englishman, who was charged with vagrancy. It was brought to the notice of the court that the young tramp has a chance to go on a ship as a cattleman. He was fined $90 or six months in jail, but the sentence was allowed to stand providing the defendant goes away on the next steamer.

Robert Balfour, another foreigner, was charged by Edward Foot with aggravated assault. Balfour was told that citizens and others would be protected in this town and he was fined $90 or 60 days with hard labor.

Two drunks were fined the usual amounts.

Nicholas Contello, Gordon Sutton, A. F. Yerxa and Mr. McNally were before the court and were told that they should call on the mayor and procure licenses to work in the city or else be fined $15. Others reported by the police who did not put in an appearance were Wm. Frigill, John Clark, Wm. Booth, Wm. Anderson, John Richmond, Peter McCard and Sidney Lucas.

SEAMAN WAS ALMOST DROWNED LAST NIGHT

George Black, of the Virginian's Crew, Fell Overboard—Rescued Just in Time.

George Black, a sailor belonging to the royal mail steamer Virginian had a narrow escape from drowning in Sand Point slip last evening. He was running up one of the steep gangways when he fell between the steamer and wharf. When he rose to the surface his loud cries for help attracted the attention of the quartermaster who was on watch. A couple of sailors were aroused and hurried to the rescue. One of them climbed down the side of the wharf and caught hold of Black by the head as he was sinking again. A rope was made fast around him and he was hoisted up on the wharf in a semi-conscious condition. He was carried aboard the steamer where the ships' surgeon attended him.
