The breaking of the Anglo-American cable during the forenoon of Nov. 27th, the day of the great storm, which break has since been located seven miles off Peaked Hill Bay, Cape Cod, is regarded as a possible clue to the location of the wreck of the ill-fated steamer Portland. Steamer Minis has picked up the off-shore end of the break and buoyed it. The cable may have been broken by the great weight of the Portland's machinery.
