Art Cleanings of Local Interest

Colony of Illustrators in Connecticut Whose Work is Familiar Here—John Rogerson's Fine Carvings Described.

There is a lovely little town in Connecticut which is as much a Mecca to the illustrators of New York City as is Provincetown to those of Boston—Westport. Here foregather many artists whose work is seen in the American magazines and whose signatures, from frequent recurrence, have become familiar to many to whom illustrations are the best part of a story. Illustrators, designers, cartoonists form a colony who enjoy life together, criticism, encourage and develop in the most modern expression of art. There you may meet Harvey Dunn, Clark Pay, Ernest Fuhr, Henry Raleigh, Frank Stone and Myra McWain—all names found on the covers or pages of Red Book, Cosmopolitan, Munsey and the Saturday Evening Post. Miss McWain has a record for strikingly well-drawn and colored figures of women in her cover designs. An artist in whom we are interested because he is married to a former St. John girl, Miss Pearl Peters, daughter of Mrs. Fred A. Peters, of Denver, Colo.; who began as a cartoonist in Kansas City, has now won a success in illustrating stories for Munsey, Red Book and Cosmopolitan, and at his Westport studio has posed his pretty wife in many of his pictures. His name is Len Lamberton and being quite young, will yet be known among the great illustrators.

Nearer home, I would like to tell you of some good art work being done by a brave Scotman whom everybody knows, John Rogerson, who has given all this year, without a day at his summer camp, carving beauty into pine blocks that will decorate the new St. David's Church. Hard work—aye, and lots of it—wonderful for a man of his age to keep at it so. His workshop is a litter of columns, caps, brackets and other ornamental bits—all cropping out like trees in spring with leaves and blossoms, here and there crosses and stars among the spruce. A particularly fine carving is the pulpit panel with the burning bush and wreath of maple and bay leaves, cut in toughest oak. Mr. Rogerson has completed the patterns for panels now being cut for the soldiers' monument at Fernhill, and is at work on a decoration for the bow of Messrs. Grant's new schooner.

Domestic Help Needed in Canada

Problems of Immigration Discussed at Conference Held Recently in Ottawa—All Provinces Not Represented

Concerning the recent conference held at Ottawa to discuss the problems of immigration it is reported that only those Provinces were represented where there are already centres for the reception and distribution of immigrant girls. It is hoped that more definite news of this work may come shortly to St. John.

It is understood that the unanimous decision arrived at at this conference was that at the present time the only feasible help that could be accepted in Canada would be domestic helpers, and that organization would have to ensure that those coming in this capacity would continue in such work and not make it merely a stepping stone to other employments.

"ARLINGTON" AT THE UNIQUE

The well remembered and popular Arlington orchestra will open an engagement at the Unique this afternoon and the past popular impression was an indelible one, they will doubtless be gladly welcomed.

The new change of vaudeville programme opening at the Opera House this afternoon offers two extraordinary features among the five vaudeville acts in Martin and Fabrin, who present a series of dancing numbers and a comedy fox trot fantasy, and Oskali and Taki, two sensational Japanese athletes, in a number of astounding feats and the high pole had acrobatic work. Both of these acts are right from New York City, and are featured on the programmes of the leading vaudeville theatres of the country. Other splendid features on the bill are playbelle Phillips, known as vaudeville's daintiest monologist; De Lorch and McRae, comedy entertainers, a fifteen minutes of hearty laughter, Copes and Hutton, a Brazilian nut duo in screams and spasms of fun; and the second chapter of the serial drama, Perils of Thunder Mountain. This afternoon at 2.30, tonight at 7.30 and 9.

Mrs. G. A. Kuhring Returns From Visit To Ottawa

Tells Standard of Happenings at the Capital—Prince's Welcome at St. John Regularly Spoken of.

The St. John welcome to the Prince of Wales was referred to many times in Ottawa, said Mrs. G. A. Kuhring, who returned home Saturday after a visit in that city. While in Ottawa, Mrs. Kuhring was present at the laying of the corner-stone of the new Parliament Buildings, being one of the official guests on that occasion.

She gives a most interesting description of that event, speaking particularly of the beauty of the setting, the huge stone walls, the green terraces, the blueness of the sky, and the wonderful decorations. The Prince was very much affected by the solemnity of the ceremony, but his voice rang out clearly as he made his speech. The crowds in Ottawa were as wildly enthusiastic over His Royal Highness as elsewhere in the Dominion.

People from other parts of Canada told Mrs. Kuhring that the St. John welcome had been most highly spoken of. The Prince himself referred to it and members of his staff complimented St. John persons on the cordiality and splendid way the arrangements were carried out.

Mrs. Kuhring told several little incidents illustrating the Prince's thoughtfulness and his genuine appreciation of all that was done to make his visit memorable.

At the Halcyon Club, where Mrs. Kuhring was delightfully entertained at a tea by the officers and executive of the V. A. D. and where she met a number of V. A. D.'s returned from overseas work, she gave an account of her own visit overseas.

At the public meeting of the Provincial Council, Mrs. Kuhring heard speeches from the former Fuel Controller, C. A. McGrath, and an address by Tom Moore, President of the Trades and Labor Congress of Canada.

In Ottawa Mrs. Kuhring was the guest of her son, Paul Kuhring.

Made Inspection Of The Buildings

Joint Committee from Exhibition Association and City Council Found Some of Buildings in Bad Condition

A joint committee from the Exhibition Association and the City Council made an inspection of the buildings which have been occupied by the military, yesterday afternoon, and came to the conclusion that they should engage the services of a carpenter, and a plumber and a painter to help them in making up an estimate of what it will cost to restore the buildings to their pre-war condition. A committee will meet today to select three experts, and the committee will lose no time making up an estimate. The government is to be asked to restore the buildings to the condition they were in before being occupied by the military, or to pay over the sum of money estimated to be necessary.

Members said they found some of the buildings in a rather bad condition, and thought it would take a considerable sum to fix them up again.

Those representing the St. John Exhibition Association were the president, W. F. Burditt, E. A. Schofield, A. O. Skinner, L. L. Patchell, and H. A. Porter, while Mayor Hayes and Commissioners Jones, Thornton and Fisher attended to look after the city's interests. The military authorities were represented by Captain Bennett.

Nothing Definite About Schedule

Manager Teakle Says There Will be No Discrimination Against This Port Regarding Sailings of Canadian Gov't Merchant Ships.

Mayor Hayes has received a letter from Mr. Teakle, manager of the Canadian Government Merchant Marine stating that nothing definite had been done about drawing up a schedule of sailings of government ships, either from St. John or Halifax, and that there would be no discrimination against this port. A short time ago a local paper printed a report to the effect that schedules for the winter sailings of the government fleet had been prepared, and that these showed only a few sailings from St. John. Mayor Hayes wrote to Mr. Teakle, asking if he was aware that St. John's claims as a winter port were recognized the world over, and if there was any reason why a fair proportion of the government ships should not come to St. John this winter. Mr. Teakle replied that any published schedule of sailings of the government fleet this winter were merely newspaper conjectures, as nothing definite has yet been decided on regarding the sailings of the government fleet during the winter season.

Mr. Hayes said yesterday that St. John would only ask for fair consideration from the Government Merchant Marine. There was no disposition to knock the claims of Halifax. The Commissioner of Harbors thought there was no doubt St. John would get its share of government ships this winter, and that the question of accommodation would be the main consideration. Export and import rates via Halifax and St. John were the same. The government ships would carry grain mostly, and St. John could handle more grain than Halifax. Winter transport was still cheaper, a railway transport, and when circumstances permitted the government ships would no doubt be operated on the same principle as private ships.
