O'Neill returned home on Saturday last

The severe cold weather which continued for some time and broke early last week, made a heavy formation of ice in the inner harbor here and several small vessels were carried away from their moorings by the drift of ice.

The town schools have been closed for 20 days on account of the prevalence of measies among the children. They were reopened today, but the attendance was small, as many families are still in quarantire.

The C P R company have recently had a steam drill at work sinking a well in their yard at Indian Point to supply water to the engines. My R E Armstrong was able to drive out for a short time on Saturday last.

CARLETON.

WOODSTOCK.

WOODSTOCK, Feb 16-Dr C A Kirkpatrick and Miss Hattie Wheeler, only daughter of Richard Wheeler, of Florenceville, were married yesterday aftermoon in the Methodist church at that place, Rev Geo Sillar officiating. The bride was unattended and was given away by her father. A reception took place after the ceremony. The bride was attired in a travelling gown of blu broadcloth and looked very pretty. The happy couple left on the C P R for a short trip, after which they will settle in Grand Falls, where the doct g has opened an office.

BORDEN MYSTERY.

Old Sea Captain Says Sailors Had Sworn Revenge Against Murdered Man.

NEW YORK, Feb 15—What seemed a sensational statement regarding the Fail River Borden murder mystery was made a few days ago by James A Seymade a few days ago by James A Seymade made a few days ago by James A Seymour, now of Brooklyn, and formerly of the Fall River steamboat line.

He said that an old friend of his, Captain Pickens, now a retired Fall River sea captain, told him some time ago that he had the clue to the mystery. Seymour said that Pickens told him that the crime was the result of a feud against Andrew J. Borden; that early in life Borden had been interested in the sea, had made trips and bought interests in certain schooners and other vessels doing a profitable business in carrying freights to distant ports; that he had at one time when a young man tincurred the enmity of some sailors who, through his influence, had been imprisoned, and they swore to be revenged if it took a lifetime and they had to swing for it.

"Why didn't the captain go on the stand and tell his story in court?" Seymour was asked.

"Because I fancy he was afraid the stand and tell his story in court? Seymour was asked.

"Because I fancy he was afraid the men might send him to follow the murdered man. He must have known Borden very well, for he told me how he had known him all his life, and many a time had held little Lizzie Borden on his knee when she was a child. when she was a child.

"The old captain was so straightforward and his manner was so impressive that I was led to believe that he, too, feared assassination if he went on court records as an informer.

"He gave me to understand that as an old and close friend of Borden he had learned of the secret, and so was not greatly surprised when the murder occurred." This was such an important statement

Peter B Bradley arrived this afternoon with the two-masted coaster Mopang, of Cherryfield, Maine, in tow. She was picked up abandoned in Barnstable Bay. The vessel and sails were in good condition. The Mopang broke adrift from Gloucester on Monday.
