BRIDGE OVER THE HAMMOND RIVER COLLAPSED WITH SLOVEN AND BOILER.

No One Hurt for Stability of Structure Was Suspected—Vicious Assault on Old Gentleman—Rescued at Last Moment.

Hampton, May 12.—(Special)—The large bridge which crosses the Hammond River at Smithtown collapsed on Saturday forenoon as a heavy boiler was being hauled across. The boiler, which belongs to a portable mill, was owned by Mr. J. Bell and was being moved on a sloop, the whole weighing four tons and a half. The bridge was considered unsafe and the horses were unhitched and taken across to the other side and a line fastened to the sloop. When the sloop was nicely on the bridge the stringers gave way and all went to the bottom.
Your correspondent found, on examination, that the stringers were in a very rotten condition and it looks as if the whole bridge would have to be rebuilt. About 30 feet of the bridge is gone. The sloop and boiler fell a distance of 20 feet to the gravel below and were only slightly injured, the former coming off with a broken wheel.
On Saturday evening a dastardly assault was made upon Mr. Wm. Purdy, an elderly gentleman living at Lakeside, by Wm. Baileys of this place. A dispute had

BODY FOUND IN HARBOR.

Coroner Sends Messages of Inquiry as to Identity.
Yesterday, after 1 o'clock, the Captain of the steamer Centerville noticed the body of a man floating in the ship near the harbor. A couple of seamen secured the body by a rope, towed it to the steps at the South Market wharf, where it was viewed by a large number of persons. Coroner Berryman ordered the removal of the remains to the morgue. Serjt. Caples found in deceased's pockets cards of membership in an American sailing club, with the name of George Allan of Maine. There was also the provision of a physician of Providence, Rhode Island, and a temperance card with the name of the deceased. Deceased had a gold ring on his little finger of his left hand, and wore a silver watch attached to a gold plated chain. The body was quite badly decomposed and swollen. Coroner Berryman will make enquiries as to the identification of the remains. The coroner is not yet decided whether the body was found or not and is awaiting reply to his message regarding the identity of the man found.

THE CARLETON LIGHTING.

Safety Board Took the Matter at a Meeting Yesterday.
There was a special meeting yesterday afternoon of the board of public safety to consider the proposal for the city to acquire and operate the New Brunswick Company's electric light plant in Carleton. The report was read and it was decided that the matter will be brought up at the next meeting of the board.
After some interchange of opinion among the members, it was decided to defer the matter until another meeting, when a recommendation will be made to the council. In the meantime, all the employees of the company will be employed on the plant.

SUPREME COURT OF CANADA RESUMES SITTINGS.

Eulogy of the Late Judge King—Nova Scotia Cases Dealt With.
Ottawa, May 12.—(Special)—The supreme court resumed its sittings this morning after the adjournment on account of the death of Judge King. On the opening of the court, Hon. Charles Fitzpatrick, K. C., solicitor general of Canada, made a very feeling address on the loss to the bar and the public by the death of the judge from New Brunswick. The chief justice, in replying, passed a very high eulogy on the personal and judicial character of the deceased.
Before proceeding with the arguments of counsel, the court gave judgment in five cases argued last term.
Two Nova Scotia cases were disposed of, Truro vs. Archibald, and Wilson vs. the Windsor Foundry Company, in each case of which the appeal was dismissed with costs.
The argument then proceeded in the case of Kaubach vs. Archibald, which was taken up on Tuesday last. The appeal was from a decision of the supreme court of Nova Scotia, setting aside a codicil to the will of one Archibald, which gave Miss Kaubach, the appellant, an annuity of $1,000, on the ground that the testator was unduly influenced to make it. The appeal depends on the evidence to be given this morning. For appellant, K. C. C. for respondent.

A BOY MISSING.

George Kane of Main Street Has Not Been Seen Since Noon Yesterday—Anxiety Aroused.
George Kane, the nine-year-old son of Mr. Thomas Kane, Main street, is missing. Mr. Kane, who moved to his present home, which is over Mrs. Dever's millinery store, some few weeks ago from Lombard street, has a wife and family of five children.
George, the second in point of age, a pupil in Elm street school yesterday afternoon left his home at 1 o'clock with the apparent intention of resuming his studies at the school house. The afternoon passed, supper time came, and then darkness, but still the lad had not returned and up to a late hour last night, despite vigilant search, he had not been found. His parents, alarmed and distressed, notified the police and personally made every enquiry and investigation to locate their child, but without result. Mrs. Kane, when seen last evening, expressed the opinion that her boy, attracted by the large gathering and display of regalia, which attended the funeral of Mr. David Speight (whose late residence is opposite the Kane home) had, instead of going to school, followed the funeral procession toward Lunenburg and might have fallen from the suspension bridge or become lost in a locality that was not familiar to him.
(The missing lad is bright and clever, but of a somewhat retiring disposition. He is fair complexioned. He was dressed in a suit of black clothing with scarlet sweater and wore a small cloth, peaked cap.

The pall-bearers were selected from among the employees of the Brock & Patterson firm. Interment was made in Fernhill.
The remains of Mr. David Spreight were interred in Cedar Hill cemetery yesterday afternoon. Representative bodies from all the neighboring districts paid their respects in uniform, and a large delegation of orangeans, in regalia, marched in the procession, behind the Carleton Cornet band. Donatien Lodge, No. 14, L. O. A., had charge of the obsequies. Chief Kerr and his district chiefs, also the director of public safety, were present. Rev. R. P. McKim, of St. Luke's Episcopal church, conducted service. Many beautiful floral tributes from the firemen and Orangeans and friends covered the coffin. The attendance of the public was large.
Mr. Andrew H. Turner was buried by the Orangeans at Gaspareaux on Sunday. Rev. Mr. Penna officiated, and residents in the neighboring districts paid their respects to the memory of the dead.
The funeral of Mrs. William Lawton was held yesterday afternoon and was largely attended. At her late home, Pine street, Mount Pleasant, services were conducted by Rev. T. J. Dainstadt, Rev. Job Shenton and Rev. John Reid. The prayers at the grave in Fernhill were recited by Rev. Messrs. Dainstadt and Shenton. Many handsome floral tributes rested upon the casket.
