ALF. C. PYE.

Tailor and General Jobber.

Farmersville, May 21.

✓ About five tons of poultry changed hands at the Westport turkey fair. Average price per lb., 12c.

✓ The Gananoque Band will in future be known as the "Gananoque Carriage Works Silver Cornet Band." Words are cheap in Gananoque.

On Tuesday of last week, the wood-workers of the Gananoque Carriage Works presented Mr. Nelson Gilbert, foreman, with a handsome solid gold watch and chain and diamond set locket.

Mr. James Bell, in readiness for the enforcement of the Scott Act, has opened a temperance house at Newboro in the stand formerly occupied by J. R. Whyte.

The Prescott Messenger, speaking in the anti Scott Act interest, calls Rev. Mr. Williams a clerical ruffian. Such language is away down to the Griffin-Mail standard, and is unworthy of the Messenger.

COUNTY ITEMS.

From Our Exchanges.

The report that smallpox had broken out in Westport is denied.

Mr. J. P. Tett is building a fine residence on the shore of Mud Lake.

✓ Not a man in Caintown voted against the Scott Act.

100 deer have been brought to Carleton Place by local sportsmen.

✓ Diphtheria is rapidly disappearing from Newboro. There have been over fifty cases and twelve deaths.

✓ A large wild-cat was shot by Mr. J. H. Hawkins, near Bellamy's station, last week.

Before leaving Westport Mr. Alex. Wherry was given several valuable presents by the pupils of his school.

The Rev. Dr. Williams, of Niagara Conference, has been chosen interim successor to the late Dr. Rice in the general superintendency of Methodist Church.

Mr. A. W. Mallory (Yonge Front) intends this year raising 1,000 bushels of barley, all of which will be fed to cows and calves, in which case he says it is worth from 80 to 90c. per bushel.

✓ A good illustration of the benefits of a railway was furnished by a Delta buyer who had to pay $49 for drawing a car load of hogs from Delta to Brockville, and only $15 from Brockville to Montreal, a distance five times as great. With a railway, that buyer could have afforded to pay over $40 more for his hogs.

Quinsolle, the Frenchman who ran away with his servant girl, leaving his wife, hotel and debts at Gananoque, and who subsequently cut off the hand of his dead child and sent it to the woman he had so cruelly wronged, is said to have returned to Toronto. It is also said his wife, who visited Chicago and failed to find employment, has consented to live with him again.

Edward Timmons is a horny handed son of toil residing at Northport, on the Bay of Quinte, and though the gentle breezes of some forty-six summers have tanned his cheek, leaving him a widower with four children, it would seem that in all these years there were some phases of female frailty which failed to come under his notice. It seems that after the hay had been safely housed last summer and his pumpkins and other vegetables evinced a disposition to stay in the ring until the fall, he bided him away to the Thousand Islands to have a good time. At one of the parks he met a fascinating waitress calling herself Jennie C. Ellener, and to this coy maiden he offered his hand and heart and the best the farm afforded. Jennie did not seem inclined to take the farmer just then, but she was willing to think the matter over for a trifle of $20. Edward bit like a channel trout, in fact he seems to have swallowed hook, bait, line and all, and after advancing the artless Jennie something like $200 in cash, went to Rochester last week to bring her home as a bride. He is now back a sadder and a wiser man, while Jennie's whereabouts are unknown.
