OPINION...

Invasion of Killer Cockroaches

As I exited my REM sleep, my dreams slowly faded away leaving me with a tingling sensation all over my body. As I opened my eyes, I was face to face, eye to eye, nose to nose, with a gigantic disgusting monster (oh my God, a cockroach) which was perched upon my nose. Not only was he invading my dreams, he and his colleagues were ravaging McLeod House. Aaargh!

Upon notifying the authorities, they referred that we, the females of McLeod were panic-stricken young fluff-balls with nothing better to do with our time.

After much argumentative conduct, the authorities were persuaded to spot fumigate the premises, in order to destroy our uninvited guests.

While the cafeteria was being fumigated, we experienced a luxury as we will never witness again (hopefully) Beaver Foods served our meals to us, while we were entranced by the "Price is Right".

After this we were sent on a much needed vacation to the lovely resort of Freddy Beach for a 2 night stay at Park Bench Hotel, while a complete fumigation was executed.

In other words, not only did we receive top quality and pleasant service at McLeod, we were evicted from the premises as though we were the culprits. Think of it, these uninvited guests get our nice warm, cozy beds, and at least three nutritious meals a day while we are left to fend for ourselves.

Oh well, any time away from residence life is somewhat refreshing.

To those of you who don't live in McLeod, look what you are missing. (Note! Please do not spread this around, the details are to remain hush, hush).

We the residents of McLeod, feel that it would be more beneficial to us and the entire UNB community, if our crunchy new found friends were sold to the Californians, who are presently purchasing cockroaches at $200 a piece to be used as earthquake sensors.

Let's see....20 cockroaches per room, and how many rooms?....We're rich!

Daytona Beach here we come!
