Robbed of His Wealth.

James Maxwell, who, at the age of 90 years, left Dundalk for the "old sod" a couple of years ago, arrived here Tuesday evening on the return trip, says the Dundalk Herald. The old gentleman took with him to Ireland all his worldly possessions, including upwards of $1,000 in money, expecting to spend the remainder of his days in the land of his birth. But shortly after landing there, he was so unfortunate as to be robbed of his cash in one of the cities. Some time ago his friends here sent him money to return here, and there was much anxiety in the delay. He finally stepped off the train Tuesday evening, looking none the worse of his experience in Ireland, and quite hale and hearty.

LIVE STOCK MARKETS TORONTO.

The quality of the cattle was about the same, not many good lots among them.

Trade and prices were on a par with those at Monday's market.

Good cattle are scarce and likely to be for the next two weeks, when the Christmas class will be brought out.

The Man Who Shows That He Knows.

No business man wants a clerk or employe about the office who doesn't appear to listen when instructions are being given.

It isn't enough that the subordinate should hear what is said. He must do more—he must show that he understands what is wanted. No matter how trustworthy a young man is, there is another thing necessary, and that is that he convince others that he knows just exactly what he's about. The dreamy eye, the lifeless fishy glance and the stupid looking face would condemn the most reliable man in Canada if it were possible for him to have such characteristics.

It has been said of the great French orator, Mirabeau, that he was so ugly as to excite sharp criticism from one of the beautiful ladies of the court, but that when the two were introduced and engaged in conversation, the lady fell immediately in love with him for when he spoke his eyes sparkled and his whole face brightened up with interest and enthusiasm. He had the rare gift of being able to make all to whom he spoke believe that he was for the time more interested in them than in any other person or thing in the world.

That is the secret of many a success to-day—the faculty of showing those to whom one speaks that the attention is completely on the question under discussion. Men leave the presence of such a person fully convinced that he understands what he is about, and that his knowledge is evidence enough of his ability.

1509 Mixed Marriages in 1910.

The fulminations of the pulpit and the press against mixed marriages, and the religious bitterness that has been fomented since the issuance of the nemore decree, do not seem to have appreciably diminished the number of such alliances, according to the vital statistics for the province of Ontario, for 1910, which have been compiled by the Registrar General's Department and were announced yesterday. On the contrary the ubiquitous cupid has reeked little of denominational barriers and mixed marriages were contracted to an astonishing extent. The report follows:—Out of the total of 7,351 Roman Catholics, no less than 1,509 married out of their denomination. There were 665 Catholic bridegrooms who married non-Catholic brides and 884 professed Catholic girls, who became the brides of non-Catholic bridegrooms. Of these marriages the larger number were between Catholics and Anglicans, then came Presbyterians, Baptists and Lutherans in order, but rather strangely no marriages between a Roman Catholic and a member of the Salvation Army is recorded while two Roman Catholic men married Jewesses, and five Roman Catholic ladies threw in their fate with as many Jews. In addition to this, two Jews married Anglicans, two Presbyterians, six Methodists, two Baptist, one a Congregationalist, and four persons who are described as being of no denomination. Of the seven Jewesses who married out of their faith, five married Anglicans, and two Roman Catholic husbands.

He Spoke With The Duke.

An incident which shows the democratic character of the Duke of Connaught occurred while he was en route to Toronto from Ottawa. During a stop of the train at Havelock his Royal Highness stepped off. A man approached him, and after a few minutes' conversation asked if he thought the Duke would come out and shake hands with one of the oldest residents. A hearty hand went out to the man who was coveting the honor, and he then knew that he had, all the while been talking to the new Governor-General.

Nothing is more disappointing than the actions of a pretty girl who thinks her good looks an excuse for impoliteness.

Jonah Johnston was killed at the Stratford power house by coming in contact with a brass rod, and two other employes nearly suffered a like fate when they tried to show the Coroner how it happened. W. Kunder may die from the shock.

A monster liner one thousand feet long—a hundred and twenty feet longer than any other ship—is to be built at Belfast for the White Star Line. There are to be cricket grounds, lawn tennis courts and a bowling green on this monster ship, with accommodation for four thousand passengers. The steamer will carry live poultry and several cows, so that the passengers may rely on having fresh-laid eggs and good milk for breakfast. In an emergency the vessel could carry nearly sixteen thousand troops.

William McGaw of Kincardine died on Sunday, shortly after learning that his family were heirs to a fortune of fourteen millions. The money was left by an uncle who died at Buenos Ayres. William McGaw and his brother John, who died some time ago, had often heard from him, and it was currently reported that he was immensely rich. The first word they had of his death was when an advertisement appeared asking for the relatives, to whom had been left $14,000,000. The McGaw families at once wrote to those in charge of the estate and are anxiously awaiting further news. A number of other brothers and sisters, if the news is correct, will share in the fortune.

A Job For an Expert.

A gang of navvies were employed on a railway contract removing earth with wheelbarrows. While proceeding with his work one of the navvies noticed that the wheel of his barrow was squealing terribly, and to put a stop to the noise he turned the barrow over, and was in the act of greasing it when the ganger noticed him and shouted out: "Halloa, O'Brien! Halloa, sir! What the deuce are you doing?" "I'm greasing my barrow, sir." "Who told you to do that?" "Sure, no one sir. I took it upon myself." "Well, don't let me catch you at it again. What do you know about machinery?"

"Daddy's Girl."

Are you one of the hundreds who have written to The Globe for a copy of "Daddy's Girl"? This is probably, without a single exception, the most popular picture ever published in Canada.

A few years ago The Christmas Globe published a limited number of them. The demand was so great that every copy was ordered before it was put on the market.

A sample copy of this picture, which is from a photograph of a child with the sweetest and most expressive face that can be imagined, may be seen at this office.

To see it is to want it. This beautiful picture will be given free with each new subscription or renewal sent in for the Weekly Globe and Canadian Farmer before December 31, 1911.

Remember the edition of this picture is limited, and the first come the first served.

The Weekly Globe and Canada Farmer has been enlarged, the staff of writers increased, and many new features have been added. Those improvements are in keeping with the progressive management that has made The Daily Globe one of the first half dozen newspapers on the continent. The Weekly Globe and Canada Farmer, with its Illustrated Magazine Section has always held a foremost place among the metropolitan weeklies in Canada. It will now be classed with the best on the continent. When the Illustrated Magazine Section, with forty or fifty pictures of current events every week, is taken into account, it is certainly a lot of reading for only one dollar a year.

For a five-year average France showed 18 births to every 1,000 of population; Italy 106; Austria, 113; Great Britain, helped out by Ireland, 121, and Germany 149, while Holland rocked the cradle to the score of 155 to the thousand.
