NATIONAL WAR SONGS

Martial Hymns Which Soldiers Sing on Battlefield

In Germany no patriotic song has been sung with such fervor as the famous battle hymn of the Germans, "Die Wacht am Rhein" ("The Watch on the Rhine"). It was written in 1840, but remained practically unknown until the outbreak of the war with France, when it was sung by every soldier, and every man, woman and child throughout the German Empire. "The Watch on the Rhine" was to Germany at that time what "The Marseillaise" was to France—a soul-stirring composition, which made men eager to take up arms and fight for the cause which they thought was right.

Probably the most stately National Anthem is the Russian. Its very title, "God, the All Terrible," seems to strike an heroic strain. Sung by a great mass of peasant soldiers with simple fervor, its effect is grand in the extreme. Played upon the great organ in the cathedral at Moscow it sounds like a prayer. Not only was it very popular, but the tune is forceful and haunting.

Of course the greatest of all war songs pure and simple is unquestionably "The Marseillaise." What memories it has called to its aid in the patriotic words! It was the song of the French Revolution, and did more to bring down the dynasty of the Bourbons than half-a-dozen army corps. It was called by the name which still is universally applied to it, because the men—and women—of Marseilles, the port of the Mediterranean, marched all the way to Paris singing it as they went. Its first fruits were reaped a few days after their arrival when the hated Bastille fell to its straits. It is now the National Anthem of Republican France.

The Austrian National Anthem is one of the finest in existence. It was composed in 1797 by that great national composer, Haydn, who is chiefly known to concert-goers by his magnificent oratorio, "The Creation," in which occurs the splendid and florid chorus "The Heavens are Telling." The anthem was based upon an old national song, but Haydn made it a thing of beauty. It is the only National Anthem composed by a musician of the foremost rank.

But the song which is sung in cities by civilians is not always, or indeed generally, the one sung by the soldiers who have to bear the brunt of battle and siege and march. The most popular song in Vienna is "Prinz Eugen der edle Ritter," which tells how the "noble cavalier," Prince Eugene of Savoy, who was the ally of the great Marlborough, the ancestor of Mr. Winston Churchill, laid siege to and captured Belgrade from the Turks in 1717.

Our own National Anthem is a Georgian product and originally opened with the words "God bless Great George our King." It has been honored by Beethoven with seven variations for the piano, and it is introduced into the Battle Symphony. On the whole, perhaps, the tune to which we sing "God Save the King," has probably the largest circulation of any tune in the world.

Then there is "Rule Britannia," perhaps the finest national song possessed by any nation, and which was composed by Dr. Arne, the English musician, who wrote several operas. "Rule, Britannia!" included in the masque of "Alfred," a musical farce produced in 1740.

Had to Leave Jobs

The exodus of Austrian and German reservists from London resulted in a greater clearing of the ranks of workers as foreign correspondence clerks, male typists, teachers of music and languages, musicians and waiters. One West end restaurant has lost the whole of its orchestra.

An American in London, received a heavy sentence for carrying letters between Germany and Britain. Rev. Charles S. Pedley, agent of the Children's Aid Society in Woodstock and formerly pastor of churches in several places in Ontario, died after about a year's illness, at the age of sixty-four.
