LAURIER POLICY ONE OF QUITTING THE WAR JAI

Can Be Supported By No Red-Blooded, Win-the-War Canadians—Liberal Leader's Manifesto Mere Camouflage, Says Manitoba Free Press

Courier Leased Wire

Winnipeg, Nov. 6.—The Manitoba Free Press commenting editorially on Sir Wilfrid Laurier's manifesto under the heading: "The Issue is Clear," say s:

"Sir Wilfrid Laurier's manifetso is a somewhat formidable document as to the length, but so far as this campaign is concerned it really consists of the one brief paragraph in which he sets in most direct manner possible his policy in the matter of compulsory enlistment.

"All the rest is surplage—perhaps it would not be amiss to say that it is mere camflou age. To those with eyes to see an issue has been clear for months, but there are many who have persisted in believing that things were not as they seemed. . . . The Laurier policy is one of quitting the war and no red-blooded Canadian who holds that it is the duty of this country to do its share of the actual fighting can afford longer to support it.

Ottawa, Ont., Nov. 6.—The Citizen this morning says:
"The direct way to answer Sir Wilfrid Laurier's appeal for popular support is to carry out in full national measure Sir Robert Borden's pledge to the men overseas; to organize the whole force of the nation behind them. Mobilization of all Canada's resources for war put poses is what is needed to arouse every loyal Canadian to the call for united national service."

JAP MISSION LEAVES

By Courier Leased Wire.

Washington, Nov. 6—Japan and the United States have reached a complete agreement in regard to China and at the same time have arrived at a clear understanding as to military naval and economic coopertion in the war against Germany.

This momentous development was announced to-day by Secretary of State Lansing, who made public notes exchanged by him and Viscount Ishii the special Japanese ambassador, formally recording an agreement recognizing that Japan has a special interest in China, but pledging the independence and territorial integrity of the great eastern republic and re-affirming the dectrine of the "open door" for commerce and industry.

It had not been known generally that the delicate Far Eastern question had been taken up at the conferences between the commissioners and American officials.

After reviewing the highly favor-

After reviewing the highly favorable results of the Japanese-American conferences, Secretary Lansing's statement says:

"The removal of doubts and suspicion and the mutual declaration of the new doctrine as to the Far East would be enough to make the visit of the Japanese commission to the United States historic and memorable, but it accomplished a further purpose, which is of special interest to the world at this time, in expressing Japan's earnest desire to co-operate with this country in waging war against the German Government. The discussions which covered the military, naval and economic activities to be employed with due regard to relative resources and ability showed the same spirit of sincerity and candor which characterized the negotiations resulting in the exchange of notes.

"At the present time it is inex-

"At the present time it is inexpedient to make public the details of these conversations, but it may be said that this government has been gratified by the assertions of Viscount Ishii and his colleagues that their government desired to do their part in the suppression of Prussian militarism and were eager to cooperate in every practical way to that end. It might be added, however that complete and satisfactory understandings upon the matter of naval co-operation in the Pacific for the purpose of obtaining the common object against Germany and her allies have been reached between the representative of the Imperial Japanese navy, who is attached to the special mission of Japan and the representative of the United States navy."
