

description of the country could afford, consisting of three courses; and a desert of fruit and sweet meats; the highest satisfaction appeared to be afforded, and evinced an acknowledgment of a very gratifying nature to the exertions of Mr. Gazoni, which certainly must have been very great and persevering—the attendance was very good, and there appeared to be neither hurry nor confusion, while the wants and wishes of the numerous assembly were readily answered. In spite of very ungenial weather, a strong instance was afforded, that not only the necessities, but even the luxuries of life are, at little pains, attainable in Canada, as there was an ample supply of salads, asparagus, spinach, and other vegetables on the table.

After the removal of the cloth, the President gave the health of "The King," four times four, which was drunk with reiterated plaudits by his numerous subjects were assembled with feelings of unrestrained loyalty. Mr. ALBURN favored the company with the national song of "God save the King," sung in superior style.

"The Queen and Royal Family."

"Sir John Colborne, His Majesty's Representative in Upper Canada," which, like that of his Sovereign, was responded to with enthusiastic shouts of applause.

Mr. BURGESS favored the company with the song of "Old honest John Bull," sung with great power and effect, and gave a further opportunity of manifesting the loyal and patriotic feeling which operated with that large and respectable body.

"The Day, and all who honor it," which induced Mr. BURGESS to favor the company with the song of "The Land of the Ocean."

"The Hon. Colonel TAYLOR," three times three, which, however, being quaffed off without skylights or heeling, was responded to with nine times nine, and followed by a song from Mr. SARTIN, after which the Hon. Colonel returned thanks, briefly expressing to the company his acknowledgments for their kindly feelings towards him, and his great and increasing anxiety for their happiness and welfare; but evidently unable to express the powerful effect so strong a display of gratitude, to and regard for him had caused him to feel, and rendered him unable at the moment adequately to convey. He proposed.

The health of the absent brethren of Adelaide, Blandford and the Northern Townships, which was followed by a song from Mr. ALBURN; after which Mr. WILLIAM JOHNSON, of Adelaide, returned thanks on the part of the absentees of these townships, expressing his regret at their absence, and the certainty he felt that it arose from unavoidable causes, while he was confident the kind manner in which the company manifested their feelings towards them would be most grateful to these gentlemen, and impress them strongly with gratitude.

"Lord Aylmer, and prosperity to Lower Canada."—Song by Mr. BURGESS, "The King and Constitution."

"LADY COLBORNE, and the Fair of Upper Canada."—Song by Mr. ALBURN, "Here's a health to all good Ladies."

Mr. EMATINGER, one of the Stewards, gave "A speedy and extensive emigration to Upper Canada; and may those who are here, and those who arrive, mutually enjoy the advantages likely to result from it."

The Hon. Colonel TAYLOR proposed the health of "The President," which was received with much approval, and drew from that gentleman a brief expression of his acknowledgments; evidently evincing that he was by no means insensible to the warm and gratifying manner in which his health was proposed, received, and drank;—after which Mr. EMATINGER highly gratified the company with an humorous and comic Irish colloquial song in extreme good style.

Col. BURGESS gave "The Vice President and Stewards," which induced Col. BURWELL to express thanks for himself and for the Stewards.

On the announcement of the greater number of the preceding toasts, the company evinced the sentiments by which they were actuated, as by an almost spontaneous movement they all arose from their seats, and made the tables respond to their feelings.

The party shortly after withdrew to the Ball-room, which was tastefully laid out, with the Orchestra formed in the middle of, and against the front wall—the room was festooned with green wreaths, interspersed with numerous artificial roses, lilies, &c., of unfading hue, with the Crown in a similar wreath at the head of the room, and the letters "W. H. R." formed in it.

About 9 o'clock two sets led off a country dance, each containing about 40 couples; one was opened by the Hon. Col. TAYLOR and Mr. BURWELL, the other by the President and Mr. EMATINGER; and country dances and quadrilles gave constant employment to the busy group, until the advance of the morning intimating to them that all enjoyments must draw to a close, and obliging them reluctantly to withdraw to their respective couches to raminate over the pleasures of the preceding dozen hours.

We are enabled to state positively, that a rumour which has been recently circulated, of Colonel BURGESS having an intention of offering himself as a candidate for the representation of this county, and having been canvassing the freeholders for their support, is altogether erroneous. To the very many applications which have been recently made to him from different parts of the county, he has given a respectful negative, invariably assigning as his reason for not complying with the applications, that he considers his residence in the county of too recent a date to justify him in assuming so important a duty, and the want of personal acquaintance which exists towards him on the part of the freeholders generally, as a cause why so great a mark of confidence should not be too readily reposed in him—satisfied as he is, that the county can afford other persons of longer residence and more general acquaintance, not only as well, but much better calculated to perform honorably, conscientiously, and beneficially for the county, the duties of so high and important a station.

We did suppose that the St. Thomas Liberal, of the 15th inst. would have given a flaming account of "the Great Meeting" of the "National Convention," on the preceding day; to whose proceedings the editor of that journal stated but a few weeks previously, "the eyes of the whole Province were directed." It, however, observed a very ominous silence on the occasion. The allusion cause of the silence of that organ of the radical party, to their proceedings, was fully accounted for in our last number; the proceedings which took place, and the resolutions which were adopted, were exclusively for the benefit of the editor of The Liberal but they would not answer for publicity through the columns of any journal, where a legal responsibility may attach to their publication; and the persons connected with that establishment were naturally very unwilling to come into a more immediate and direct contact with the law officers of the Crown. In the number of that journal which was yesterday published, it is likely we will have the revised, improved, modified, and prudently amended edition of the Legal, Temperate, and patriotic measures of the convener's, in their laudable and praiseworthy zeal to advance the great cause of republicanism.

In a late number we noticed the predatory visits of the wolves and their apparent increase in numbers this season; we have since learned from the proof line of this township, a resident on the proof line of this township, and about two miles from this town, having been killed by wolves on the night of Thursday the 8th instant; one of the carcasses were entirely destroyed, the others were left, but much torn.

We find by the Niagara Reporter, from which some extracts appear in another column, that if London be blessed with magisterial Amos, Niagara has its magisterial Mule. A decree of one of the courts held recently in that town would not have been unbecoming or unworthy of the recent supreme Schofield Court, which, in this quarter, has afforded such celebrity to its erudite judge, and his advising and co-operating brother magistrates.

From an extract from the Port Hope Warbler, in another column of our paper, we find that at a meeting of the Port Hope and Erie Canal, 1,600 shares at 50 dollars each were immediately taken up. We should like to know what is become of our rail-road concern? Are the Chairman and Secretary of the Committee so occupied with radical and other concerns, that they cannot turn their attention to the subject? We much fear under the guidance of such active superintendents, we may bid farewell to a rail-road. This hint we think it necessary to give, least the emigrants of this year may be deluded to settle here under the idea that a measure which would benefit this section of the country, beyond, we feel satisfied, the most sanguine anticipation, is likely to be realized; while we are inclined to think from the apathy evinced, that the measure will never be accomplished; and we would be sorry to have our migrating countrymen duped.

GODERICH.

Seven years back the Huron Tract was untrodden by the feet of Europeans, yet such is the rapid march of English industry and perseverance under the guidance of the Canada Company, that several towns have been laid out, and already built to an extent presenting an appearance of importance, suggesting a rapid march to wealth, while it opens an improving market for the manufactures of the parent country. The town of Goderich, on the shores of Lake Huron, having within five years risen to a degree of prosperity, (when its situation at the very limits of the Huron Tract is considered) almost beyond belief. Already there are upwards of one hundred houses (including six general stores and two inns), finished and fully occupied; many others are in progress of erection. A handsome steamboat has been launched, and the contractor is under bond that she shall be ready to make her first trip early in July. During the past week the harbour has presented a business-like appearance that augurs well for her future commercial prosperity. No less than four schooners had arrived all fully laden, and were lying at the wharfe, viz. the Dolphin, of Oakville, from Toronto; the Cincinnati, of and from Buffalo; the Theresa and Catharine, both belonging to spirited resident individuals, and employed between that port, Detroit, and Buffalo, displaying a degree of enterprise characteristic of the Englishmen, that will no doubt continue to extend itself under the fostering care of the Company's agents, and raise its character to that speedy importance the situation is calculated to it should obtain. A most excellent road through the S. E. part has been turnpiked, and the Company are now making arrangements to turnpike fifty miles of road from thence to this town, in the present season, which, when completed, will enable emigrants to avail themselves of the advantages presented to agricultural settlers, by the superiority of soil throughout that beautiful tract of country. It is also proposed to form a Company for the purpose of establishing a Fishery on the Lake, whose noble waters afford a never failing supply of Salmon trout, Black and White Bass, Suckers, Herrings, &c., of a quality to satisfy a gourmand, and the wants or wishes of settlers, during their early operations.

A visitor will be highly gratified in witnessing the kindness and unanimity existing between the inhabitants, which prompts the most friendly attention to strangers, at once attesting the growing respectability, and that genuine English hospitality which extends itself to the forests of Canada. A poor woman with three fine children arrived there lately having made the voyage from Scotland, across the U. S. to this place, in search of her husband—disappointed in not finding him, she was a band-dreaded of funds to return to her native country; the merchants and traders set on foot a subscription, and in a few days New York, and the owners of the sloop Catharine generously gave her a free passage to Detroit.

TO THE EDITOR OF THE TRUE PATRIOT.

Sir, You have, no doubt heard, that Mr. ELIAS MOORE, of Yarmouth, intends doing himself the honor of representing this County, if the good people of Middlesex have no objection. When they read of the very interesting scene that I am about to describe, and that I was an eye-witness to, I think that they will agree with me that there is no mistake in old Moore. I was a few nights ago passing the Estate of Mr. MOORE, and as the hour was dark, I was obliged to cross the fence, and walk on Mr. MOORE's premises; as I was passing by the remains of an old haystack, I espied Mr. MOORE standing on a stump, with a large bundle of papers in his hand, and a number of horned critters standing around in the most profound silence. "What all this parade meant I could not tell;—I however, soon found out that the papers were Lord GODERICH's despatch, and Articles of Impeachment against Lord AYLMER, as drawn up by Mr. Speaker PAPINEAU.

I was not left in suspense long, as to the object, as Mr. Moore straightened up and addressed himself to his horned hearers in the following words:—

"Now Buck, and Berry, and Brad and old Steer, and the rest on ye, I know that ye are all nothing but jet critters, but I want to talk to you as though you were the electors of Middlesex, just to see how I can talk at the hustings where I intend to come to receive the support of the independent yeomanry of these parts, so now be patient and listen for a while for I want you to be still while I hear myself think."

"Now my friends and countrymen, we are now called on to choose your Representatives, and I hope that you will chuse for sartin, I mean that you will be in too great a hurry, to vote afore you get ready, you know you have a chance that you want have agin very soon, there is a hall host of men come here to offer their service, but be careful how you pick, as for BURWELL I know you want elect him any more, he has gone so often that he is rich as a pomegranate, and Mount Lee dead. But here as Talbot, come all the way from London to offer, but will you vote for him? No, the man that called our wives and daughters Wusses, and ourselves and our sons lazy rogues, shant go to Parliament with my consent, and agin in a letter to our lamented friend, Mr. Lewis, he says, 'you and your patrons, 'air, are like artin animals, fit only to exist in 'some corrupt atmosphere.' Now who were the patrons of Mr. Lewis? why the true reformers of this county, therefore I reckon you want send him. Now maybe you will ask what I have to say agin Doctor Lew, why jist this, he professes to be a librel, but all his folks are nit Tories, and I should hate to trust him much. There is my friend Mr. LAWTON, I consider him entitled to your warm support, he sinit larend as some, but he knows enough to be a useful member of Parliament and if you have a mind to elect myself and friend Lawton, jist say so and we will do the best we can to portrate reform, we will walk hand in hand with Mackenzie and Burwell and forever trample Ryersonian hypocrites under our feet. I have now spoke more I than intended for I sinit use to public speaking, but I can see that I have gained like all nature, since I first thought of going to Parliament, so now know my idears and act as you like."

Mr. Editor, Be kind enough to give the above an insertion in the True Patriot. A SPECTATOR

General Election.

TO THE EDITORS OF THE TRUE PATRIOT.
Port Talbot, 19th May, 1834.

Gentlemen, You will please insert this note, and the following Address to the Freeholders, three times in your paper, and transmit your charge to my address.

I am, Gentlemen,
Your obedient servant,
M. BURWELL.

TO THE Independent Freeholders OF THE County of Middlesex.

GENTLEMEN,

Were it not that within the last three or four weeks, a great number of you from different parts of the County have asked me the question—whether I intended to be a candidate for the County of Kent, at the approaching General Election? I should not have felt it necessary thus publicly to state that such is not, nor has it ever been, my intention. It is true that many of the Freeholders of Kent, for whom personally, and for whose opinions, I have a high respect, have requested me to offer myself for that county, but I have respectfully and uniformly told them, that I would rather lose an election in Middlesex, than gain one in a county in which I did not reside. I choose rather that the people, among whom I have lived since the commencement of their settlements, and who have had the best opportunities of knowing me as a man, both in a public and private capacity, should decide upon my fitness for a Member of Parliament, than leave such decisions to persons who are not so fully acquainted with me. I am told that it had been stated in some of the public papers which I have not read, that I intended offering myself for Kent—I do not know what could have given rise to such a statement, being made, or such an opinion being entertained, unless it was that I had several years past, exerted myself in assisting in the improvement of their roads, and getting a Post road established through the Southern part of that County; and that during the last year I had attended a public meeting in Kent, and moved Resolutions for the construction of a harbour at the basin of Lac-a-la-Pointe-aux-Pins; but this I was requested to do by the people of that neighborhood, which however, I had previously intended to have done, so soon as I could avail myself of sufficient leisure, if I attended to by some other person. Such proceedings as these indeed, I should feel myself at liberty to adopt in any other County where I might conceive that public improvement could be effected through my instrumentality, and more particularly, as was the case in Kent, where I could exercise the right of a Freeholder, without asking the leave of any one. I have been requested to make an address under the impression that I have ever intended, under any circumstances, to forsake my good friends of Middlesex; and I beg leave to assure you, that if you think proper to return me a fifth time to represent you in Parliament, I shall labour industriously to promote the growth and prosperity of the Province, as well as the true interests of this County, in particular, to the best of my humble abilities. I have the honor to remain,
GENTLEMEN,
Your Faithful Servant,
M. BURWELL.
