THE advertising pages of the REVIEW this month contain much that will interest our readers.

It looks as if Arbor Day should come in April this year.

Look out for Empire Day number of the REVIEW. It will be issued May 10th.

THE death of His Lordship Bishop Sweeny, for forty years the head of the Roman Catholic church in the St. John, N. B., diocese, removes a notable figure, one who was loved and revered by his own people, and who held the esteem and confidence of all classes and denominations. His successor is the Right Reverend T. Casey, D. D.

THE University of Chicago has just taken over the Chicago Institute, which it will incorporate with itself as a school of education. There is already available an endowment of $1,000,000. The building for the new school will cost $325,000, and it will be one of the greatest schools for the training of teachers in America.

THERE are two thoughts which arise on reading on another page of the action of the citizens of Truro in regard to the new academy building. First, that these citizens have put themselves on record as a public spirited and progressive body; second, that they have recognized the services of their teachers by publicly giving them credit for good work. That is right. Too often death or resignation is waited for before placing a proper value on the labors of faithful teachers.

THERE is much in this number that will help teachers to make Arbor Day interesting. The April REVIEW for past years will also furnish suitable articles. Bird Day is combined with Arbor Day, as birds and trees are closely associated. The day should not be allowed to pass without improvement being made in the school-room and grounds. Many of our school-houses, although the number is growing less each year, still stand out on the landscape with not a single tree or flower to relieve the bareness. Is yours of the number? Then resolve this year that it will be in the progressive list.

SYDNEY, New Glasgow, Pictou and many other towns of Nova Scotia are considering the importance of starting schools of manual training. This is well; and it shows a desire to profit by the generous plan of Sir William MacDonald in founding preparatory manual
