

- i. Each Party waives all claims against the other for injury or death to its personnel, and for damage to its property arising from the performance of official duties.
- ii. In the event of claims from third parties for injury or death to persons or damage to property arising from the performance of official duties, where a negotiated resolution with the third party cannot be achieved, the Parties shall share in accordance with the proportions stated in the relevant arrangement, any costs adjudicated by a court or administrative tribunal board or other entity of competent jurisdiction. Such claims shall be adjudicated by the most appropriate Government as agreed.
- iii. As to i. and ii. above, if the Parties agree that the damage, injury or death is caused by reckless acts, reckless omission, willful misconduct or gross negligence, the costs of any liability will be borne entirely by the Party of the culpable person.
- iv. Claims arising under any contract implementing a written arrangement shall be resolved in accordance
