

TABLE OF CONTENTS.

CHAP. VIII—Capture of the Gurriere , by the United States' frigate Constitution .	30
CHAP. IX—Attack on Sackett's Harbour—affair of Ogdensburg—British drove from St. Regis.	33
CHAP. X—Battle of Queenstown.	36
CHAP. XI—Gen. Smythe succeeds Gen. Van Rensselaer—his attempts to cross the Niagara, and failure—causes.	39
CHAP. XII—Capture of the British Sloop of war, Frolic .	41
CHAP. XIII—Capture of the Macedonian .	43
CHAP. XIV—Affairs in the north—skirmishes—battle of Frenchtown—capture of Gen. Winchester's army—massacre of Amer. prisoners.	47
CHAP. XV—Capture of the British frigate Java .	52
CHAP. XVI—Com. Rogers return from a second cruise—the Gen. Armstrong and a British frigate—privateering.	56
CHAP. XVII—Capture of Ogdensburg.	60
CHAP. XVIII—Capture of the Peacock .	62
CHAP. XIX—Capture of Little York.	66
CHAP. XX—Sketches of the History of America.	74
CHAP. XXI—Depredations in the Chesapeake—Havre-de-Grace burnt—attack on Craney Island—Hampton taken by the British—outrages.	77
CHAP. XXII—Bayard and Gallatin sail for St. Petersburg—the British compelled to abandon the siege of fort Meigs.	82
CHAP. XXIII—Surrender of forts George and Erie to the Americans—General Brown drives the British from Sackett's Harbor.	84
CHAP. XXIV—Capture of the Chesapeake.	87
CHAP. XXV—Capture of Col. Bocrstler and Major Chapin, with their command.	92
CHAP. XXVI—Capture of Fort Schlosser and Black Rock.	95