

May we all more fully, and worthily, understand the tenor of our Christian calling: the union of all faithful Christians under one head; our Lord and Saviour Jesus Christ: the fellowship of all in the same common means of grace and hope of glory. And thus may we labour, not supposing that any single strength can do the duties which belong to many, but every man encouraging his neighbour; provoking one another unto love and good works, and looking for and hastening unto that day, when "the Earth shall be full of the knowledge of the glory of the Lord as the waters cover the sea."
