A gipsy woman promised to show two young ladies their husbands' faces in a pail of water. They looked, and exclaimed, "Why, we only see our faces!" "Well," said the gipsy, "those faces will be your husbands' when you are married."

A young man asked the lady of his affections, the other evening, how she liked the look of his new standing collar. After critically surveying him and the collar, she replied, "Very nice indeed. It looks like a whitewashed fence round a lunatic asylum."

Dr. Franklin's celebrated receipt for cheap sleigh-riding runs as follows: Sit in the hall in your night-clothes, with both doors open, so that you can get a good draught; put your feet in a pail of ice water; drop the front-door key down your back; hold an icicle in one hand and ring the tea-bell with the other. He says you can't tell the difference with your eyes shut, and it's a great deal cheaper.

Cynical Spanish proverb: "A woman's tears cost little but bring her much!"

Patriotic Young Lady. "Is it possible to send a kiss to General Middleton." Clerk. "Oh yes, Miss; but it must be repeated two or three times to make quite sure!"

"Do you think I am a fool?" a violent man once asked of the Rev. Dr. Bethune. "Really," replied the doctor, "I would not venture the assertion, but now that you ask my opinion, I must say that I am not prepared to deny it."

Pat's master told him to go and grease the wagon. He returned after a while and said, "All the grace is gone, bad luck to it." "Why, Pat, I gave you enough to grease five or six wagons." "If you please, Sir, I only got about half over the top of the wagon when the grace run out." "Why, you blundering fool, I meant that you should grease the wheels, not the wagon." "Sure, you told me to grease the wagon, Sir."
