BALFOUR GOVERNMENT RESIGNED YESTERDAY

Sir Henry Campbell-Bannerman Invited by King Edward to Form a New Cabinet--Rosebery Will Have no Connection With It.

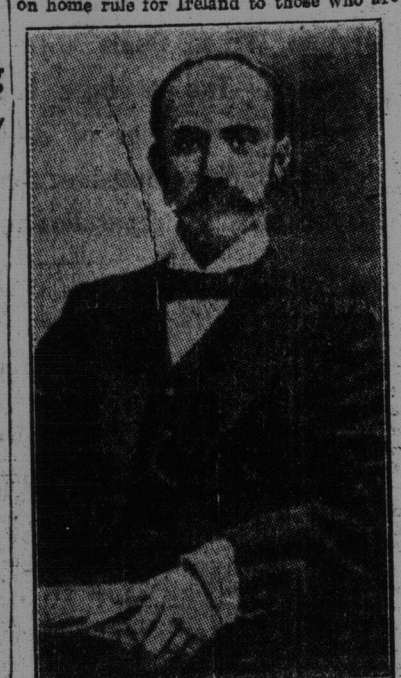

London, Dec. 4.—The political crisis in the United Kingdom reached a climax today when Arthur J. Balfour, the premier, formally tendered the resignation of his cabinet and the members of his cabinet to King Edward, who accepted them. His Majesty has invited Sir Henry Campbell-Bannerman to form another cabinet. Sir Henry will accept the task, and within a few days, even within a few hours, a new cabinet will be formed.

It may be stated as certain that Lord Rosebery will be entirely ignored in the making up of the new cabinet, and that John Morley will be one of the chief advisers of Sir Henry in drawing up the list of his official family which will be presented to his Majesty.

ly, to be the guest at Lord Allington's house party at Crichel, but this is still indefinite.

It is well known that Sir Henry Campbell-Bannerman has made known his views on home rule for Ireland to those who are known to be opposed to home rule on the lines of the last bill introduced in parliament.

There is some uncertainty as to when the dissolution of parliament will be effected, but it is not considered possible until after the new year.

An interesting feature of the political situation is the prospect of a closer alliance between the Irish and the labor parties in the new parliament. James Keir Hardie, the Socialist and Independent member in Argyle, tonight hinted at such an alliance. He pointed out that forty-five labor members would provide a voting strength which no government, however strong, could afford to ignore.

That's how inflammation of the lungs starts—neglecting a sore chest. You must rub on Neryline, rub it in good and hard tonight. By morning you're cured. Nothing so penetrating and pain-easing as Neryline. It's the King of all liniments; the largest 25c. worth in the drug stores; a staple for nearly 50 years.

Fire broke out in the home of E. N. S. Stewart, Sydney street, about 1 o'clock this morning. The occupants of the house were all asleep when Mrs. Patterson, residing upstairs, smelt smoke. She alarmed the people of the house, and a still alarm was sent in. The chemical engine responded, and the fire was easily extinguished before serious damage was done. It is supposed the fire originated from a defective flue.

THE COMMON COUNCIL

Regular Monthly Meeting Yesterday Was Not Particularly Interesting But a Mass of Routine Matter Was Disposed Of.

At the monthly meeting of the common council yesterday the reports of the boards were adopted with but slight amendment. The purchase of timber for North Rodney wharf was deferred until the director should report on the structure. The final accounts of the building fund of the public library were received and a balance of $119 transferred to the commissioners.

The lunch wagon was given permission to stand on South Market street, at a rental of $5 a week. Resolutions recommending a revision of the city into districts were received from the Citizens' League and referred to a committee. The question of developing the water power at the Falls was brought before the council in a communication from the president of the board of trade, and a small grant was voted for. The matter was referred to the treasury board. The sale of the fisheries lots was arranged for and the committee will look into the conditions on Navy Island, which are said to be unsatisfactory. The department of marine and fisheries have agreed to undertake control of the boats in the harbor, at a date to be decided later.

The mayor occupied the chair, and Ald. Hamm, Bullock, Lewis, McArthur, Holder, McGoldrick, MacLachlan, Pickett, Spruce, Frank, Baxter and Tilly were present, with the common clerk, Marshall R. J. Coughlan was in attendance.

The treasury board, among other things, recommended that the chamberlain pay the December pay rolls on the 22nd inst., so that they may be charged to the current year's expenditure; also that the chairman advertise for all accounts against the city, and that all such be put upon the order book for payment on his signature if properly certified by the director and chairman or the board or committee incurring the debt.

The report was adopted. The report of the safety board was adopted without discussion. The report of the board of works was taken up section by section. Section one, relating to the grant of the Anchor line warehouse to Wm. Thompson & Co. for the steamer service, at a rental of $800 a year, was adopted. Section two, recommending the transfer of C. H. Fox and Sons and A. C. Smith & Co. for feed, was adopted. Section three recommended that the tender of James S. Gregory to supply next April 144,000 feet of red pine at $13 a thousand for North Rodney wharf, be accepted. Ald. Baxter drew attention to the absence of a report which he had asked the director to furnish on the condition of the wharf and the different ways in which it might be repaired. He had no doubt the director believed he had ordered the best material, but it was his view that something should be done that would render the structure permanent and not in need of repairs every few years. He moved that the section be referred back until the report was received.

WHEN IT WAS DARK.

"Man," he cried, with sudden sternness, "I know! You hate our Lord, and would work Him evil. You are as Judas was, for tonight it is given me to read far into your brain."

What the Leading Bishops of America Say About the Tremendously Powerful New Religious Novel Which Has Thrilled All England and is Now Stirring the Clergymen of America

Bishop Potter says:	Bishop Doane says:	Bishop Coleman says:	Bishop Fallows says:
By the Right Reverend Henry C. Potter, D. D., Bishop of New York.	By the Right Reverend William Crosswell Doane, Bishop of Albany.	By Bishop Leighton Coleman, Episcopal Bishop of Delaware.	By the Right Rev. Bishop Samuel Fallows, Presiding Bishop of the Reformed Episcopal Church.
The pivotal incident in the highly interesting novel, "WHEN IT WAS DARK," by Mr. Guy Thorne, is the fact of the Resurrection.	Guy Thorne's book, "WHEN IT WAS DARK," is a book of very real power, so far as the subject matter is concerned, and in the manner of its carrying out it has very much artistic merit.	I am glad Guy Thorne's "WHEN IT WAS DARK" will be read through your agency by so many persons that might not otherwise see it.	This is a remarkable book. It is thoroughly original in its conception. It graphically portrays the social, moral and spiritual darkness which would ensue were essential Christianity proven to be untrue.
What needs to be brought into bolder relief is the relation of the Resurrection of our Divine Lord to the other events of His Incarnate Life. It may with all reverence be said that each event was a means to an end, and that end to make the world understand the life and the Person of Jesus Christ how the two lives of the human race, the one that IS and the one that IS TO BE, are one.	The ring of St. Paul's courage is in it when he said, "If Christ be not risen from the dead, then is our preaching vain, and your faith is also vain."	Undoubtedly it is a most interesting and wholesome volume, and well calculated to benefit the cause of Christianity at a time when it is receiving fresh, subtle and direful, but, thank God, not invincible, assaults.	But the book will be widely read and will provoke active thought. I do not wonder at all that the Bishop of London advised his hearers to get the book and read it. I would certainly echo his admonition and earnestly advise the clergy and laity to read this epoch-making book.
	It must do good to have such startling evidence brought before the people of what would happen (and it certainly would happen if the impossible thing could be) should discovery be made which could throw doubt upon this crowning truth of our Lord's life.	LEIGHTON COLEMAN, Bishop of Delaware.
