

ANOTHER DISASTER.

Steamer Stord Believed to Have Foundered.

She Left Sydney For St. John's With Coal Eight Days Ago, and Has Not Been Heard of.

HALIFAX, Nov. 23.—Following the news, which is now taken as certain, of the foundering of the steamer Stord from Marble Mountain, Cape Breton, to Chatham, N. B., with a cargo of crushed dolomite, comes the tidings of another probable marine disaster in the case of the Norwegian steamer Stord, which left North Sydney on Tuesday evening, Nov. 15th, with a cargo of coal for St. John's, Nfld., and concerning which nothing has been heard since. The steamer was heavy on the water, having seven hundred tons on board, and it is feared that she went to the bottom in the agony of the storm which swept the Atlantic seaboard on Thursday and Friday of last week. The Stord was a wooden vessel of 372 tons register, and owned by Revillier Freres of Montreal. She was commanded by Capt. Percy and carried a crew of 17 men, all of whom are thought to be scattered to different parts of the province of Quebec.

NOVELTIES IN NAMES.

Words That Will Not Be Apt to Grow Into Common Use Either Here or in England.

"Mysophobia" is one of the latest additions to the English language. It is the name of a complaint which most people will recognize. Probably its commonest name is morbid fastidiousness. Persons who suffer from mysophobia, says the London Hour Glass, become very faddy in their manners. They are very particular that there is not a spot on their tablecloth's snowy surface. Every plate and dish and glass that is brought to them is eagerly scanned for any trace of dirtiness. Everything must be unsold and immaculate. In the advanced stage of mysophobia the sufferer is unable to resist the temptation to wipe every article that is placed before him. It does not matter how clean or pure it is, the wiping process has to be gone through.

He Has Delivered the Sample to Philip Lott Who Will Use It in the Trial.

(Special to the Sun.) MONTREAL, Nov. 24.—The Star has a special from Watertown containing an interview with Irwin, a tinsmith of Watertown, in whose shop the bogus ballot boxes were manufactured. He says that Reilly, a Kingston student, was the man who ordered the boxes, and that he supplied a box marked "Portsmouth" as a sample of the style and working plans of improvements.

HIS EXCELLENCY.

Justice Taschereau Bound to Have His Title.

Justice Killam Mentioned as Blair's Successor—Session Will be Devoted to Granting of Supply.

OTTAWA, Nov. 23.—An extra issue of the Canada Gazette has been issued proclaiming Taschereau as administrator of the government pending Earl Grey's arrival. It styles him His Excellency. The original draft omitted this title, but the chief justice, who is a great stickler for ceremonial, insisted that it should go on.

FRUIT INSPECTOR.

G. R. Sangster Tells a Little About His Work.

Fruit Inspector Sangster is at the Victoria. Speaking to the Sun, Mr. Sangster said he was not surprised to hear that there were a good many apples which were sent here this year were not up to the standard as required by the Fruit Market Act. There were certain fruit growers in the neighboring province who would persist in violating the act. Their most common offence is over-facings—that is, putting a couple of rows of good apples on top and filling up with fruit of an inferior grade.
