of of jubilation. For had not the gallant garison of Ladysmith been relieved, after our months of suffering, pent up in anaturil tasin into which had poured the death lealing shells of the Boer enemy? Had hey not after enduring one of the most severe seiges of history, come into touch with their fellow British subjects, shaken the hands of comrades in arms who had been so valiantly struggling to help them and was not the period of awful priva-tion and hardships over? No more of the anxiety as to what another day might bring-no more scanty allotment of provisions-no more compulsion to use the poisoned waters of the Klip or else use

"The thunder of the guns of Tra-falgar ushered in this century and the thunder of the guns of South Africa echo thunder of the guns of South Africa echo an well be imagined what strain many have undergone in following the daily iortunes of the war. And the despatch ward Howe, "Our God is marching on," the brave garrison was in bad straits in leed. Then imagine with what feelings the public read the extra editions of the instruct and nowe, our door sin arching on, for the echo of their guns sounds the for the echo of their guns sounds the dvancement. Therefore I

Rev. John Read said this has been a day of high joy.

South Africa.

The great city of London, the centre one might say of the British Empire, did not celebrate the relief of long beleagur-ed Ladysmith with more thorough loyalty and energy and dash than did this old loyalist city of St. John. When Canada was sending the best of her sons to help the mother country in putting down the tyranny whose hard hand rested heavily on our brother Britishers in the dark con-tinent, this city by the sea gave of her best boys to fill up the Canadian regiment. She sent them off with a mother's blessonies to offer men for service and we were proud of the men whom we had sent out. Roberts sent them to the front. (UI roarious cheers given for Lord Roberts. though she let the mother's tear silently fall when they had gone from her side. How the barracks, the streets and the upion denot teemed with crowding surg. How the barracks, the streets and the union depot teemed with crowding, surg-ing masses of humanity, all wanting to have a share in the popular tribute to the brave fellows. The demonstration and those which marked the successive goings of the second contingent detachments, grand and great as they certainly were, were eclipsed far and beyond by the way in which the whole city threw away business and everything else yesterday to make one live long day of of jubliation. For had not the gallant relatives and mourn with those who mourn we rejoice that the lives of sons have said it was unexpectedly but with pleasur that he was called on. We should all be aot been spent in vain, but by their efforts our cause has triumphed and no proud of the deeds of our noble Canadian countrymen, who had shown themselve flag but the British shall ever wave over worthy of fighting along with the best of the Imperial soldiers, and had won the praise of the commander-in-chief. (Cheers.)

Rev. John deSoyres

How exultant was every heart when the was received with cheers. He said he news of Ladysmith's relief was announced. must correct a statement the mayor put Until the news was received we did not Until the news was received we use not not know how tense had been the strain on the community, how it had suffered in miles away who took a little ride into miles away who took a little ride into F. The gallant relieving forces and this garrison were united and those who had come through four such months as men may hope never to be called of to endure, were now free to leave the town and to join in rightful punishment of the Boets who had in licted their sufferings upon them. What wonder that St. John went wild in its celebration of the great event. Anxious hearts have traced day by day
