Immigration consultants are one group which can take advantage of immigrants, said Rowe. "A lot are good, and provide a needed service, but some are not. It's legally okay for people to do this. What's not okay is to represent yourself as something you're not."

There are three other legal aid clinics in Metro related to the Black Community clinic. There is the North York Women's Centre, the Latin American Centre in the west end of Toronto, and Intercede, an advocate for domestic workers.

The clinic is located at the Hillcrest Community Center, and staff can be reached at 667-3143.
