

NATURE STUDY LESSONS

OUR GOOD NEIGHBORS

Grudge not the wheat
Which hunger forces birds to eat;
Your blinded eyes, worst foes to you,
Can't see the good which our birds do.
Did not poor birds with watching rounds
Pick up the insects from your grounds;
Did they not tend your rising grain,
You then might sow to reap in vain.

—John Clare.

