

CASEY AGAIN ON THE RACK

Dr. MacArthur Swears to Two Complaints

Which Sun People Declare Are in Revenge for Roast Handed.

After being detained by the police at the town station yesterday afternoon for four hours Casey Moran, the Sun reporter who on the day previous had held long range conversation with the quarantined inhabitants of Dog Island, was discharged by order of Major Wood.

This morning, however, Medical Health Officer MacArthur went before Magistrate Starnes and swore to two complaints against Moran, one being that on the 5th day of June he did expose himself to infection from smallpox at the quarantine station occupied by the passengers of the steamer Whitehorse, contrary to chapter 19 of the consolidated ordinances of the Northwest Territories, while the second charge is with having left quarantined premises without the consent of the medical health officer.

At three o'clock this afternoon the summonses had not been served on Casey, who sleeps during the day, his work keeping him out much of the night.

The Sun people assert that "the medical health officer is 'sore' over that paper having scored him for his treatment of the people in quarantine. They also claim the health officer has violated the law by not posting proper dead-line notices."

It is said this evening that action will be brought against the health officer by Moran for false arrest.

Moran will probably be kept isolated until he can be taken before a magistrate.

In the meantime the interest which was formerly centered on Dog Island has been transferred to Dawson and Moran's case is now being watched with more interest than the case of the cause of the trouble, the poor fellow at the pest house.

A LETTER DID IT

The following letter which was received in the last mail is self-explanatory:

Joplin, Mo., May 5, 1902. Zeke Smith, 915 below Gold Run, Dawson, Y.T., U.S.A.

Dear Zeke.—Your loving epistle at hand and contents duly absorbed and to be candid I had about decided to throw you over, as I was of the opinion that you had grown to be a coarse, rough, rude man without any of the finer senses of taste which contribute so much to a woman's happiness, but when I saw the fine taste, displayed in the selection of your stationery I realized the injustice I had done you. Will be in on one of the first boats.

Your Loving Kitty. It's the same the world over—appearance is everything. Use good taste in selecting your stationery and your letters will always create a favorable impression. I have the finest line of fancy stationery ever brought to Dawson. See my window. All drugs sold at popular prices.

WILL OPPOSE J. P. MORGAN

Steamship Syndicate of Liverpool

Will Build and Operate Vessels on Both Atlantic and the Pacific.

Special to the Daily Nugget.

London, June 7.—Negotiations of the British and Canadian governments and some other governments of the colonies with the Cunard and other steamship lines resulted in the formation at Liverpool of a syndicate to oppose the Morgan shipping combine. The Westminster Gazette says the opposition syndicate contemplates a fast service to Canada in conjunction with the C.P.R. Mail steamers proposed to be built will be of enormous size, capable of 25 knots an hour, fully equipped as armed cruisers. Freight steamers will be sixteen-knot vessels carrying 7,000 tons dead weight. Millford Haven will probably be the British terminal. The scheme includes an additional fleet for Vancouver as the new lines contemplate to run from there to China, Japan and Australia.

INFORMATION REFUSED

Attempt to File Charge of Criminal Libel

By Dr. Bourke Against Mr. Justice Dugas Turned Down by Captain Starnes.

Dr. Isidore McWilliam Bourke, not content with taking several kinds of falls out of the city council with reference to the salary bylaw, attempted yesterday to create something of a sensation by bringing a criminal libel against Mr. Justice Dugas. The information was laid before Captain Starnes who, at once promptly sat upon the proceedings by refusing to accept it. The doctor had evidently overlooked the fact that comments from the bench is a prerogative enjoyed by a judge and that he can not be impeached except upon the floor of the house. The doctor, too, is mistaken in the statements he has imputed to his lordship which could only be accounted for by defective hearing. The information which he endeavored to file sets out that in his lordship's charge to the jury in the Clarke libel suit on June 3, the following false and libelous statements were used:

"It didn't surprise me to see Justice Dr. Bourke and Mr. Farewell coming here and trying to impose upon a sensible jury and the court by saying there was nothing in it, viz., the words, 'Oh, upright judge, there is a limit for you,' thereby imputing perjury to the said Isidore McWilliam Bourke, and in other parts of the said charge repeating said statement, the said Isidore McWilliam Bourke never having been asked or answered such questions."

In the charge to the jury referred to, Mr. Justice Dugas did not use the words "It didn't surprise me" but instead said "It did surprise me," which is capable of a far different interpretation from that which the irascible doctor has placed upon it. When spoken to in reference to the information, his lordship had nothing to say, but the smile which he indulged in conveyed volumes. The information will be filed away in the police museum.

Farewell Dinner

At 11 o'clock this evening a number of friends will assemble in the banquet room over Lewis Bros. store to partake of a farewell dinner to be given in honor of P. C. Stevenson, who leaves early next week for the outside. Griffin is the caterer upon the occasion and it is expected the justification will be unlimited. Covers will be laid for about 50.
