Wife (who always looks on the cheerful side of things to husband who has put the lighted end of his cigar in his mouth)—How lucky you were, dear, to discover it immediately.

Chronic Bronchitis 15 Years.

Mr. James Burns, Sr., Walter, Ont., writes: "My husband was ill with chronic bronchitis for fifteen years and was attended by several physicians without success. By the use of Dr. Chase's Syrup of Licorice and Turpentine the bronchitis has been entirely cured and his system has been built up by the use of Dr. Chase's Nerve Food."

Piles. To prove to you that Dr. Chamberlain's Ointment is a certain and every form of itching, bleeding, swollen, and painful piles, what they think of it. You can see it and buy it at any drug store. It is sold by all dealers of Chamberlain, Bates & Co., Toronto, Ont.

Dr. Chase's Ointment. "On what ground," asked the lawyer, "does your wife want a divorce? Incompatibility?"

"Something of that sort, I reckon," answered the man. "My income isn't compatible with her ideas of comfort."

Hamlet had finished his soliloquy, and the curious bystanders were waiting to see what he could do next.

"No," they said, at last, "he isn't going to do it. He talks frequently about committing suicide, but he lacks the sand. Nothing doing." This it appears that the original Hamlet, like all his subsequent imitators, was merely talking for effect.

Two Irishmen were looking at brick-layers busily working. "I say, Pat, kin yer til me what kapes them bricks together?" asked one.

"Sure, it's the mortar, Mike," was the answer.

"That's where you are wrong," rejoined Mike; "the mortar's what kapes them apart!"

Physician Gives Advice.

Tells Why Many Suffer from Catarrh and Rheumatism.

A distinguished physician, famous for his successful treatment of catarrh and rheumatism, kidney and bladder troubles, states as follows:—

"Our climate being more or less damp and changeable, is bad for catarrh and rheumatism, and care must be taken not to let these troubles gain headway. In addition, he states that a great many Canadians are careless in their habits, and to this as much as climatic conditions is due a great deal of the trouble. Insufficient clothing and improper eating will cause rheumatic and catarrhal troubles in any climate."

This eminent authority gives the following as the simplest and best treatment known to science, and to it he gives credit largely to his success:—

Fluid Extract Cascara 5 c
Carruba Compound 5 c
Syrup Sarsaparilla 5 c
Directions: One teaspoonful after each meal and at bedtime.

The ingredients are all vegetable and have a direct and specific action on the liver, kidneys and bowels, dissolving all poisonous matter from the system. Any druggist can dispense this, or you can buy the ingredients separately and mix at home by shaking in a bottle.

Christmas Thoughts.

There is no more beautiful custom than the time honored one of Christmas giving, when it is observed in the true spirit, that is, when the gifts are those of love, not of imagined obligation.

Present-giving at Christmas is of heathen origin. During the yuletide season our heathen ancestors were wont to make conciliatory offerings to their deities, whose personal movements and direct interferences on earth were supposed to be traceable at that period. Later when the church Christianized the custom, the giving of reciprocal gifts—so beautifully symbolical of God's great love gift of a Savior to a lost world—was substituted for the heathen observance.

Although to all unselfish souls, the delight in giving far exceeds receiving, yet the excessive giving, so much in vogue at the present, will soon by its own weight extinguish to some extent their pleasure. If all would have the courage of their convictions on this subject, and refuse to degenerate the ancient custom, this danger would soon be overcome.

Even within the confines of the family circle, the true significance of the custom is too often lost sight of, and the opportunity the occasion offers is improved to make some necessary article of clothing, furniture, or the like do duty for the Christmas gift. This is a wrong interpretation of the festival. From the head of the family down to the tiny tot, the Christmas gift should be something, no matter how insignificant in itself, that can be treasured and preserved as a memento of the joyous occasion.

Make the season one of joy supreme. Let the Christmas spirit permeate everything, from the vine-wreathed windows, the yule-log on the hearth, the tree laden with love offerings, down to the specially prepared dishes. But count not your day a success if the Christmas cheer is confined to your own fireside. Forget not those homes upon whose hearths no yule-log is burning. Alas! they are all too numerous. Seek out such an one, and transfer to it at least one ray of the sunshine which gladdens your own heart and home.

Coughs that are tight, distressing or tickling coughs, get quick and certain help from Dr. Shoop's Cough Remedy. On this account Druggists everywhere are favoring Dr. Shoop's Cough Remedy. And it is entirely free from Opium, Chloroform or any other stupefying drug. The tender leaves of a harmless lung-healing mountainous shrub give to Dr. Shoop's Cough Remedy its curative properties. Those leaves have the power to calm the most distressing Cough, and to soothe and heal the most agonizing bronchial membrane. Mothers should for safety's sake alone, always demand Dr. Shoop's. It can with perfect freedom be given to even the youngest babes. Test it once yourself, and see! Sold by A. V. Hand.

The Latest Hats are Very Small.

The women of Paris to day are probably the most eccentrically dressed in the world. For several weeks in September and October the women wore hats of monstrous size. On November 1st the large hat suddenly disappeared, and the other extreme was shown. The shops could not make hats small enough. The popular shape now is that of the Coesack hat, an inverted cone, that covers the immense hair and sometimes the ears. These hats are made of various white, black or gray furs—never in colors. Some of them are made of the most expensive black fur and cost small fortunes. Others may be bought for a few francs on the Boulevard Saint Michael.

The gowns, too, are startling. When three Director gowns of very modest cut appeared at Longchamps last spring a cry of shame went around the world, yet the gowns which all Paris women are wearing to-day are a thousand times more startling than those.

Beware of Frequent Colds.

A succession of colds or a protracted cold is almost certain to end in chronic catarrh, from which few persons ever wholly recover. Give every cold the attention it deserves and you may avoid this disagreeable disease. How can you cure a cold? Why not try Chamberlain's Cough Remedy? It is highly recommended by Dr. M. White, of Dudley, Tenn. "Several years ago I was bothered with my throat and lungs. Someone told me of Chamberlain's Cough Remedy. I began using it and it relieved me at once. Now my throat and lungs are sound and well." For sale by Rand's Drug Store.

Thoughtless Cruelty.

Most of the cruelty of the world is thoughtless cruelty. Very few people would intentionally add to another's load or make his burden in life heavier or his path rougher. Most of the great heart wounds are inflicted by thoughtless thrusts, flung out often in a moment of anger, when perhaps, we were too proud to apologize or to try to heal the grievous wounds we had made. Can anything be more cruel than to discourage a soul who is struggling to do the best he can, to throw stumbling blocks in the path of those who are trying to get on in the world against great odds? No life is just the same after you have touched it. Will you leave a ray of hope or one of despair, a flash of light or a sonnet cloud across some dark life each day? Will you by thoughtless cruelty deepen the shadow which hangs over the life, or will you by kindness dispel it altogether? No matter how you feel or what is disturbing your peace of mind, never allow yourself to send out a discouraging, a cruel or an unkind word or thought.

GREEN SICKNESS

A disease of young girls. Interesting and suggestive advice that all should read.

Many mothers will echo the conclusion expressed in a very interesting and suggestive letter written by Mrs. Zacharia Pollard, of Grand Bay.

It is one of the illusions of motherhood that once the disease of childhood have been successfully passed a smooth road lies before their dear ones. Boys bruise themselves, or perhaps break a limb, but the physical history of the young girl is subject to so many dangers, it is only when some great one has been successfully overcome that we realize how many dangers there are. My eldest child, a daughter, just as she had entered upon the sixteenth year, suddenly developed weakness, her countenance, some unpleasant heart symptoms indicated a lowered vitality of that organ, but strange to say she appeared plump. The bodily functions were obstructed, and a waxy or paled or yellow skin gave her a ghastly look. The doctor's tonic failed to improve the symptoms, we decided to try Ferreroze so highly recommended by the newspapers. It was probably three weeks before any manifest change was noticeable, but once that process of upward advance was rapid. I suppose if I had neglected to give her Ferreroze she would have fallen into permanent ill-health, as it is I am deeply thankful that Ferreroze has completely restored my daughter to vigorous robust health.

No tonic so nourishing, as strengthening as Ferreroze. It gives you a good appetite, brings fine color, a healthy glow to the cheeks. If you gain in weight. Think it over, Ferreroze is just what every person in poor health requires. Sold by all druggists, 50c. per box or six boxes for $2.50. Try Ferreroze to-day.

Helping Somebody.

A beautiful story is told about Sir Bartle, an English nobleman, who was once the governor of Bombay in India, and of Cape Colony in Africa. He went away from his home on a trip, and on his return his wife went down to the railroad station to meet him. She took with her a servant who had never seen her husband. When they arrived at the railroad station she said to the servant, "Now you must go and look for Sir Bartle."

"But how shall I know him?" asked the servant.

"Oh," answered the lady, "look for a tall gentleman helping somebody."

The answer was sufficient, for when the servant went to look for Sir Bartle he found a tall man helping an old lady from the car, and this tall man proved to be Sir Bartle himself.

There is an example here which every girl and boy would do well to follow. It is a noble thing to be known as a boy or girl who helps people.

We can help father and mother at home, and help the teacher at school. We are meeting people every day whom we can help in some way or other.

Let us try to do it more and more, and we shall make life happier for others, and we shall be happy ourselves.

Muscular Pains Cured. "During the summer of 1903 I was troubled with muscular pains in the instep of my foot," says Mr. S. Pedler, of Toronto, Ont. "At times it was so painful I could hardly walk. Chamberlain's Pain Balm was recommended to me, or I tried it and was completely cured by one small application. I have since recommended it to several of my friends, all of whom speak highly of it." Be Ye Sober!

"Be ye sober!" if ye covet Healthy days and peaceful nights; Strong drink wrappeth those who love it.

Into sad and fearful sights. "Be ye sober!" cheeks grow haggard. Eyes turn dim, and pulse tide blood Runs too fast, or crambeth laggard. When there's poison in the food.

Shun the 'drum' that can but darken When its vapor gleam has fled. Reason says—and ye must hearken—"Lessened drink brings double bread."

Though your rulers may neglect ye. "Be ye sober!" in your strength! And they must and shall respect ye. And the light shall dawn at length.

But let none cry out for freedom With a head and feverish breath While they let a foul cup lead them To the slavery of death.—Selected.

Jack. (Jella Meale Wright.)

"Yes, sir," said Farmer Green, "that fellow ought to be worth a thousand dollars to-day. He is smart, industrious—I never saw a better worker; he's handy at everything. If he had a thousand dollars he could take the Bower farm, and if he handled it properly he'd be rich by the time he was fifty. But there, instead of a thousand dollars, he hasn't five dollars this minute. All he has to bless himself with are an old valise, some old clothes, and a jack knife with a broken blade. I paid him thirty-five dollars for a month's work ending up a week ago, and the fellow hasn't ten cents of it left."

"Why, where has it gone to in this quiet country place?"

"Down his throat," said Farmer Green.

"It is the cider," said Farmer Brown; "he is a hard cider drunkard, and I often think they are the worst kind. It is worse because when they begin they don't take the alarm as they might if they found themselves becoming fond of whisky. They take more cider to make them drunk, and their systems get filled with it and so more injured; then, too, the cider is easier to get than whisky is. You see the farmers all make more or less cider and it stands in the cellar and a cask or so gets hard, and the boys and hired help get into the habit of drinking it, and it beats all nester how fond they get of it. Jack goes for a regular 'blow out' as soon as he gets a few dollars."

"Jack has drunk and got drunk ever since he was ten years old," said Farmer Green. "I lay it to his losing his father early; to his having an ill-tempered, irreligious mother; to his having been taken out of school before he was nine and put to work in a factory; to the farmers keeping hard cider handy for him; and to no one taking any real interest in him, except to get a certain amount of work out of him. So it goes—he's twenty-eight and he's ruined. Your son is twenty-eight and making a fortune; my son gets a thousand a year, book-keeping; Mrs. Barr's son is twenty-eight and a minister; my nephew is twenty-eight and is a good doctor; Jack is twenty-eight—and ruined by cider. Poor Jack!"—Picture Leader, No. 32. Published by Miss Ruby I. Gilbert, the Silversmiths Bldg.

"Good Cough Medicine for Children.

The season for coughs and colds is now at hand and too much care cannot be used to protect the children. A child is much more likely to contract diphtheria or scarlet fever when he has a weak Stomach, Heart or Kidneys. It one goes at it correctly, each inside organ has its controlling or inside nerve. When these nerves fail, then those organs must surely follow. These vital trunks are leading druggists everywhere to dispense a d-r-remedy Dr. Shoop's Restorative. Test it a few days and see!
