IN FOR A RECORD.

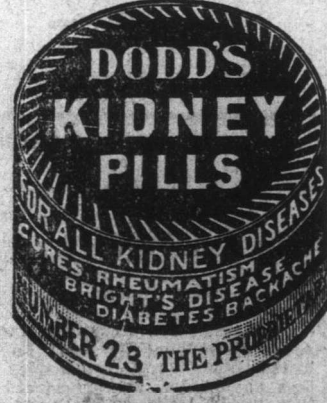

The chances of the present administration making a record in unpopularity are favorable. It will undoubtedly outdo that Tory administration, which met its Waterloo in 1880, and its chances of excelling the Tory administration which came to power in 1900 are distinctly good. The standard we have set up is undoubtedly high, but we believe our confidence in the present Government's power of rousing antipathy is not misplaced.

The success of that administration in bringing its career to an early close was not more marvellous than its success in estranging the feeling of the electorate. We have no desire to see the Government fall apart like its Tory predecessor did some eleven years ago. We would much prefer to see what a Tory administration, which keeps united, can really do in rousing popular antagonism, and we are fully convinced that if the Government works harmoniously they will break the Tory record of 1880 at the next general election. We have mentioned general elections, because they afford the people a decisive means of expressing their feelings, and that expression is given in terms definite and determinate. For instance, the record to which we have referred was a definite and determinate expression of the detestation of the Tory administration which they had put in power in 1880. The returns showed a Tory administration elected as against 31 of their opponents.

So far as history shows this is the high water mark of unpopularity earned even by a Tory administration. But the present administration bids fair to outlive even that government. The feeling of hostility to the Government throughout the Colony is intense.

The pickings, the givings-out of land and patronage, and the reckless administration generally are having their natural sequence and evoking a feeling that will not only oust the administration but all or almost all who arrogated to their party the name of People's Party. A more apt title is in the mouth of everybody.

An Interesting Exhibit.

There are now on exhibition in Messrs. Ayre & Sons' Hardware Window a piece of wood which has been used to test the respective qualities of Copper Paint and what is now so well known in Newfoundland—SOLIGNUM—as preservatives against the attacks of sea worms and insects.

Both places have recently been taken from the waters of the harbour and before being immersed, one piece was treated with a well known brand of Copper Paint for four inches along either end, the intervening space being left unpainted. The other piece of wood had one end covered with SOLIGNUM. A glance at the two sticks now shows no comparison between the two preparations as a preventive against the destroying insects, for whereas the wood of the Copper Painted stick is so eaten away as to have lost its original outline, and showing thousands of holes caused by worms, that of the Solignum covered stick is the same as when placed in the water. The wonderful protective qualities of this great preparation has rendered the entire length of wood impervious to the attacks of the destroying elements.

The Exhibit is of interest to every Merchant, Planter, Fisherman, Carpenter, and House Owner in the Island, as it shows in no uncertain way the remarkable preserving powers of SOLIGNUM over any other preparation, and demonstrates that it can be used to good purpose either for preserving wharf piles, boats, schooners' bottoms, ships' decks, timbers, etc. As a house covering and single stain it has no equal.

Its price also recommends it. HALF THE PRICE OF PAINT. sept. 23, eod. 11.
